NYE DENOUNCES INQUIRY INTO HIS ACTIVITIES

Asserts He Will Not 'Be Intimidated.'

BY PARKE BROWN.

United States Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota yesterday denounced the methods used by detectives employed by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick to investigate him and employés of the senate campaign expenditures committee as "shoddy and unprincipled."

These were two of the adjectives he used in a statement issued in response to one made by Mrs. McCormick last Sunday in which she said it was she who employed the operatives who had been shadowing the chairman of the committee and members of its staff.

Nye Gives Out Statement.

At the close of the second day of hearings in Chicago, which were confined to digging into the operations of W. C. Dannenberg private detective agency head, and his assistants Senator Nye announced an adjournment until Sept. 15 and a little later issued a formal statement for the newspapers. The statement follows:

"There has been available evidence indicating that it could be ultimately alleged that a certain candidate for the senate was at least indirectly responsible for the engagement of detectives to operate against the investigating committee and its employés.

He Expresses Amazement.

"But in view of what is known of the shoddy, scabby, unprincipled, unconscionable, contemptible method and practice employed by those engaged to do this work, I was amazed to read the statement of this candidate in which guilt of such employment was admitted.

"'What is Nye going to do about it?' is a question contained in this confession by the candidate.

"In the face of the vast possibilities in such a program as had apparently been planned by these detectives, and in fear of the great and lasting injury which might be the reward for doing anything other, I presume it was expected that the committee would be prevailed upon by its chairman to refrain from its work in Illinois.

Tells What He Will Do.

"But, while admitting that there might be truth in one individual's prophecy that when this private investigation of myself was finished and its results were made known, 'Nye would be selling papers on the depot platform at Fargo, N. D., or grinding a hand organ for a dancing monkey,' my answer to the question of the senatorial candidate as to what I shall do about it is only this:

"That, no matter how unpleasant and distasteful is the responsibility in Illinois, I shall, as far as I am able to do so, continue to guide the investigation in Illinois along those same lines thus far followed by the committee, lines which can be accepted as a credit to the legislative body which we serve and in such a manner as will be ultimately approved by the most severe of honest and unprejudiced critics of the senate, and to follow this course with continuing instruction to our very small staff to use only fair, clean and honorable methods in ascertaining facts which have relation to the conduct and expenditures of any campaign for the United States senate.

"Will Not Be Diverted."

"The committee will not be diverted from its clearly defined duty by any smoke screen laid down through a will to threaten, intimidate and influence."

Senator Porter H. Dale of Vermont, who was the only member of the committee who sat with Senator Nye during the two days of inquiry in Chicago and the one day at Fargo last week, did not join the chairman in his statement. Senator Dale left for Vermont and Senator Nye went to Wisconsin, where he will join his family and return to Washington. He said he probably will return to Chicago about the middle of next week to prepare for the hearing starting the following Monday.

"I am confident," said Chairman Nye, "that on Sept. 15 we shall have all the members of the committee here to continue the investigation of every angle of the committee's business."

None of the five members of the committee have not appeared at any of the Chicago hearings. They are Senators C. C. Dill of Washington, Robert F. Wagner of New York, and James C. Patterson of Missouri.

The second day of this week's hearings brought back to the stand W. C. Dannenberg, former government operative and Chicago police investigator who the day before had testified that

SPREADS RUIN IN SANTO DOMINGO; HEADS FOR HAITI

Bahamas and Cuba Also in Path.

HAVANA, Sept. 4 (Thursday).—(AP)—A tropical hurricane, with winds up to 160 miles per hour, was believed today to have swept Santo Domingo late yesterday, devastating the capital city and doing untold damage throughout the republic. There were no immediate reports of loss of life.

With its center moving west by northwest at sixteen miles per hour, the hurricane was headed today across Haiti, toward the eastern Cuban provinces of Camaguey and Oriente, and with a prospect of sweeping the entire length of the Bahamas. It was too early to say whether Florida was in danger.

At least one Caribbean liner, the Coamo, bound for Santo Domingo from San Juan, Porto Rico, was known to be in the path of the storm. It was due in Santo Domingo late yesterday, but was believed at San Juan to have put about and headed back for that port.

Ship's Wireless Fails.

Failure to answer wireless signals was accepted as indication its antennae were blown away.

There were several reports of the terrific destruction visited upon Santo Domingo before communication with that end of the island ceased yesterday afternoon. At 3:30 p. m. a message received at San Juan said a wind of 150 miles an hour was lifting roofs off of houses, with all communication and power lines rapidly going down.

El Pais, Havana newspaper, received what it said was an authentic report at 5 p. m., E. S. T., that Santo Domingo was devastated by the blow, which was said to have struck there at about 3 p. m. Speed of the wind was set variously at 130, 135, 150, and 160 miles per hour in various reports.

Communications Cease.

All communication with the island republic ceased as the hurricane developed. The All-America Cables company said its service was interrupted without warning. Although it operates a submarine cable, the company's land station is above ground and exposed. Radio service to the island was interrupted a little later and the Pan-American Airways lost the use of their private wireless.

Pan American Airways reported that all planes bound north and south were safe, their schedules all having been suspended with first news of the hurricane. The northbound plane which left San Juan, Porto Rico, at 7 a. m. yesterday arrived at Santo Domingo at 10 a. m., to remain there until ordered to Havana. The southbound plane from Havana reached Port Au Prince at 2:02 p. m., intending to remain there before proceeding to San Juan.

It was at first believed that the hurricane would keep to sea after passing over Fisherman's point, a small island near the coast of Cuba, but later the Belen university observatory here said its reports indicated a change in its direction, and that it probably would move across the island to Haiti, thence passing across the eastern end of Cuba and the Bahamas.

Fear Bahamas Damage.

The Belen observatory predicted considerable damage in Cuba and the Bahamas, and named specifically the cities of Santiago de Cuaba, Guatanamo, Gibara, Holguin, and Myari as in the danger zone.

Father Gutierrez Lanza said last night that the course of the hurricane then was approximately between northwest and west northwest, that it was moving at a speed of 16 miles an hour, and that the winds blowing toward the center were well in excess of 100 miles per hour.

He believed the Bahamas would feel the storm within 74 hours. He considered Havana and western Cuba safe from the storm, and believed it possible it might lose some of its strength in the passage through the mountainous interior of Santo Domingo and Haiti.

As understood here, Santo Domingo may have undergone as great a holocaust as did Havana four years ago when a hurricane swept the city, killing more than 100 persons and doing nearly $20,000,000 in damage to property and crops.

The Dominican republic, of which Santo Domingo is the capital, occupies the eastern two-thirds of the Island of Haiti. The republic has an area of 19,300 square miles and a population in excess of 1,000,000. Santo Domingo in 1921 had a population of 40,957. It was founded in 1496 and is the oldest existing settlement of white men in the new world.

WIFE DIVORCES PROF. DOUGLAS OF CHICAGO U.

Prof. Paul H. Douglas, of the University of Chicago, was divorced in Reno yesterday by Mrs. Dorothy Wolff Douglas according to a dispatch from the Nevada city. Mrs. Douglas was granted the custody of their four children and awarded a property settlement.

Mrs. Douglas, whose marriage to the professor took place in New York in 1915, testified Prof. Douglas had said he no longer loved her and had threatened to live in the Orient if she refused to divorce him.

Prof. Douglas joined the faculty of the University of Chicago ten years ago at the age of 28. In 1925 he was made a professor of industrial relations and two years later went to Russia for a study of economic and industrial conditions there. He has written numerous articles and books on industry and its relations with the worker and the public. In 1927 he publicly advocated a subsidy for married men, to place them on an equal economic basis with bachelors.

Prof. Douglas is now on a leave of absence from the University of Chicago while engaged in some work at Swarthmore college, Swarthmore, Pa.

Evanston Puts Auto Violators to Moron Test

Evanston authorities yesterday launched a new kind of campaign against traffic law violators. Hereafter persistent offenders will be sentenced to play with nursery blocks, children's picture puzzles, and to answer simple questions. If the psychopathic tests disclose their mentality as too juvenile they will be prohibited from driving cars in Evanston.

The action was taken when George Randall, 19 years old, son of Howard G. Randall, a butcher, living at 715 Oakton street, Evanston, had been arraigned for the third time within a month before Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter. He had twice been charged with reckless driving and each of the three times had been found to be operating his car without a state license.

Science Takes Charge.

Yesterday Magistrate Porter notified Chief of Police William O. Freeman, who in turn communicated with Mayor Charles H. Bartlett, Dr. David L. Hedberg, police surgeon, who is on the staff of St. Francis hospital; and Prof. John J. Morgan, head of the department of psychology at Northwestern university.

"There's something wrong with this young fellow," said Chief Freeman. "Let's see what makes the wheels go round."

So Magistrate Porter sent Randall over to the university's phychopathic laboratory, where Prof. Morgan and Dr. Hedberg put him through the tests.

"There was a railroad accident yesterday," Prof. Morgan shot at him, "but it wasn't very serious—only 48 people were killed. Anything unusual about that statement?"

"No," they quote Randall as saying.

"There was a woman," remarked Prof. Morgan, "found cut up in 18 pieces, and they claim she committed suicide. Do you think it was suicide or murder?"

Randall wasn't sure, they say.

Rate Dedenfant's Mentality.

After these and tests with playing blocks, Prof. Morgan and Dr. Hedberg informed Magistrate Porter that "Randall rates a score of 55, which makes his mental age 8 years and 8 months."

He was fined $50, which was remitted, and a jail sentence suspended, with the stipulation that he should be paroled for a year to his parents on the condition that they pledged themselves to keep him from driving a car for that period.

Sven Holmblad, 24 years old, 627 Clark street, Evanston, who has been arrested three times in three weeks charged with driving a car while intoxicated, will be given the psychopathic tests tomorrow.

BOY FALLS 300 FEET TO DEATH IN QUARRY POOL

Fifteen year old Harry Richards of 1900 West 17th street wasn't permitted to keep pigeons at his home, but all the other boys in the block were. So Harry had entered into an agreement with them. He would trap the young birds and the others would raise them to sell as squabs at 15 cents each. The business prospered.

Yesterday Harry went on one of his trapping expeditions to an abandoned stone quarry at West 19th and South Lincoln streets. To get at the nests it was necessary for him to descend a perpendicular wall for a distance of 10 feet. He was nearing his objective when a stone gave way and he lost his footing, falling 300 feet into the water. His neck was broken.

Police of the Marquette station and a hook and ladder company recovered the body.

7 AIRMEN BURN TO DEATH; NAVAL PLANE CRASHES

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

MADRID, Sept. 3.—Seven Spanish naval airmen burned to death late today when a Dornier-Wal flying boat taking part in maneuvers of the Spanish fleet some distance from El Ferrol crashed in flames.

The craft was flying low in formation with two other planes and was over land when it entered a dense bank of clouds. The pilot evidently lost his sense of direction and crashed.

Gangsters Put on Rock Pile as Vagrants

Two notorious Chicago gangsters was sentenced to the rock pile for a six months' stay last night after they had been treated to the mode of justice meted out by Judge John H. Lyle of the Municipal court.

They are the first of the gang hoodlums of the city to be punished under the state vagrancy law, and Judge Lyle gave them the maximum penalty, six months at hard labor in the Bridewell and fines of $100 each.

Judge Acts Swiftly.

It was all done in a very few minutes. The judge seemed not to hear the gangsters' pleas for lawyers. He disregarded technicalities. And he acted while the gangsters' lawyer, Benjamin Feldman, was sitting in the court of Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court, waiting for his clients to win their freedom on a writ of habeas corpus.

Judge McGoorty said that Judge Lyle had exceeded his jurisdiction when he tried the men while the habeas corpus action was pending in the Criminal court, and he continued the hearing until today. It is possible that Judge Lyle may be required to vacate his order sentencing the two gangsters and to retry them after the habeas corpus action is disposed of.

As an aftermath to Judge Lyle's kaleidoscopic day, the judge last evening was drawn into an encounter with Acting Police Commissioner Alcock. Alcock, after a violent argument over the vagrancy case, told Judge Lyle it was lucky the judge wore glasses, whereupon Lyle removed his glasses, made ready to joust with the acting police commissioner, and was restrained only by the intervention of a police lieutenant.

Israel Alderman Defendant.

The defendants sentenced by Judge Lyle for vagrancy are Israel Alderman, who has been accused of many crimes ranging from robbery to murder, and who gave his occupation when arrested as an alky peddler, and Joseph Condi, who was released last May from Leavenworth penitentiary.

They were arrested at Racine and Leland avenues Monday night by Lieut. Frank Johnson.

Alderman was wanted for questioning in connection with the murder of Alfred Lingle, it having been discovered that Alderman was a pal of Frank Foster, now under indictment for the Lingle slaying, and that Alderman had sent funds to Foster when the latter was a fugitive in Los Angeles.

Complaints Are Filed.

The gangster exhibited a surly, defiant attitude toward Special Assistant State's Attorneys Charles F. Rathbun and James E. McShane, and Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, when they sought to question him. Condi also refused to answer questions.

Meanwhile the writ of habeas corpus had been served, and Prosecutor Rathbun notified Chief Justice McGoorty that formal charges against both Alderman and Condi would be filed before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Complaints were then presented before Judge Lyle, who ordered an immediate hearing.

The men were brought to court, in charge of Investigator Roche. Alderman was arraigned first. The clerk droned out the charge:

"You stand charged with being a vagabond, a dissolute person without visible means of lawful support, How do you plead, guilty or not guilty?"

"Want a Lawyer," Is Reply.

"I want a lawyer," whined the gangster.

"He stands mute," announced the

Clasp Hands with German Airmen.

BULLETIN.

New York, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte were awakened at 2:05 a. m. (E. S. T.) today and had breakfast in their room while cars waited to take them to Curtiss field, Valley Stream, Long island, for their takeoff on a flight to Dallas. Capt. Coste planned to supervise the fueling of the plane Question Mark with 400 gallons of gas when he reached the field. The fliers left for the field at 3:05 E. S. T.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Tomorrow morning the Question Mark, piloted by Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, the French flying men who beat the north Atlantic yesterday in the first Paris-New York nonstop flight, will be off for Dallas, Tex., to pick up a $25,000 check at the end of the journey.

Plans had taken definite form tonight to make the Dallas flight merely the precursor of a "good will" tour of the entire country by Coste and Bellonte, which would take the latest trans-Atlantic air heroes from coast to coast, with Chicago as one of their principal stops.

A committee of leading citizens of all parts of the country was being formed tonight to sponsor the tour, which would be financed by private subscription. Men high in official and aviation circles were included. Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, connected by marriage with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was offered the chairmanship today. He waived the honor in favor of a "higher official," whose identity is still undisclosed, but pledged substantial financial support.

United States to Handle Route.

Financial arrangements for the flight, reports have it, will be handled by Richard F. Hoyt of Hayden, Stone & Co. It is planned to have the itinerary handled by the department of commerce at Washington, which will sift all invitations from cities.

Advices from Chicago announced that the chamber of commerce of that city had joined numerous Chicago French societies in an invitation to the flyers to bring their famous plane to the shores of Lake Michigan. While these plans were forming, Coste and Bellonte were busy preparing for tomorrow's flight to Dallas, and explaining to city officials that they would be unable to linger for two or three days of elaborate welcome at this time.

Consequently, New York cooked up a short order reception that brought out more spontaneous enthusiasm than lower Broadway has seen in many months. It was a sort of "hail and farewell" affair, but the skyscraper canyon seemed to catch the spirit of the impromptu parade. It echoed with cheers and grew white with ticker tape.

French and German Aces Meet.

The crowning drama of the French fliers crowded day came tonight at the Hotel Roosevelt when Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, who fought as a German naval flyer throughout the war, and Capt. Coste, with nine victories over German planes to his credit, clasped hands and congratulated each other warmly amid a setting of American, French and German flags.

The occasion which brought them all together was a dinner given by the German-American Society of New York in honor of Capt. Gronau and his three companions of the Dornier-Wal, which alighted in New York harbor from Germany a week ago last Tuesday. The Germans returned to New York this afternoon in their seaplane from their visits to the Chicago air meet and the Cleveland balloon races just as the city was venting its enthusiasm for the victory of Coste and Bellonte.

Meeting Hastily Arranged.

Arrangements were made immediately for the meeting of the French and German aviators. It took place midway in the dinner, held in the grand ballroom of the Roosevelt. Capt. Coste and M. Bellonte entered the ballroom accompanied by Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, Mayor Walker, and other dignitaries.

The crowd rose and cheered, and the room resounded to the strains of "The

New Fall Shoe Prices Are Lower Than Year Ago

You'll get a kick! At least many of the early shoppers did out of the new fall shoes. May be it's the materials that will strike you most. Not for men, of course, for steers supply the material for what they wear on their feet. But it's the women's shoes. And as to these, my dear, you have no idea! One store is featuring shoes made out of the bark of lizards and things like that, though suedes predominate at most places. That is not to say there are not grosgrains, moires and patent leathers. Of course there are. And some master shoemakers have done well by using several kinds of leather to make one pair of oxfords. And as to colors, you know the shadowy shades that are being used in dress materials? Well, there are shoes to match them. This isn't the time to mention price, but we have to do it. The present showings of shoes are at substantially lower prices than a year ago.

Star Spangled Banner," "Deutschland Uber Alles," and the "Marseillaise." The other high spot of the day was when Coste and Bellone rode through downtown New York between cheering thousands.

The Frenchmen were riding over the route Lindbergh had traveled in triumph, just as they had backtrailed his route across the ocean and down the coast.

There was shouting and acclaim in the street, honors and a great many words at the city hall and everywhere there were crowds—all food for the camera and the ultimate talking picture that will go to France is proof of America's welcome to the envoys who returned Lindbergh's visit.

"When I was in Paris——" began Mayor James J. Walker.

"When I was at the city hall the last time," replied Capt. Coste.

In between were the speeches. And then it was over and the flyers were back at the Ritz Tower, where they had slept in borrowed pajamas last night, just as Lindbergh had slept in borrowed pajamas in Paris.

There Coste, with the aid of volunteer interpreters, spoke briefly of his plans for the Dallas hop. He and Bellonte will be off at 6 a. m. [D. S. T.] tomorrow and expect to fly nonstop to Dallas in about ten hours.

Capt. Coste said the $25,000 prize put up by Col. William E. Easterwood provided that he should leave New York within 72 hours for the Texas city and fly without a stop.

Inspect Their Plane.

From their Ritz Tower quarters the flyers went by automobile late this afternoon to Curtiss field to inspect the Question Mark. They found the red sesquiplane in good condition despite reports that it had been damaged by souvenir hunters.

"There was only a tiny strip of fabric ripped from the plane," said Coste, "and some one in the hangar gave the fellow who took it a black eye."

The Dallas trip will be over in a hurry, for the flyers plan to stop there only one night, returning immediately to New York. They will go to Washington probably Monday.

The flyers have nebulous plans for a globe circling flight which will take them over both poles, but this afternoon they would only hint at the ambitious project.

Friends to Fly Plane Home.

The Question Mark is certain of another sea adventure, although it will carry a different crew. Coste revealed that Paul Codos, the Frenchman who helped him to set a distance record last year, was coming over to fly the red plane back to Paris. Codos will be accompanied by a mechanic, it was said.

"There would be nothing for us to gain by the trip," said Coste. "We will go back by ship."

The French aviators arose late this morning, breakfasted in their suite and shortly after noon went to an advertising club luncheon. The city reception followed, the visitors being taken down the East river on William R. Woodin's yacht Nanine and landed at the Battery, where a crowd of several thousand awaited them.

Dallas Plans Wild Welcome.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Excitement was high in Dallas tonight as preparations were rushed for a welcome to Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, aerial conquerors of the Atlantic, who are expected to land here tomorrow evening to collect a $25,000 prize.

The purse, offered by Col. William Easterwood Jr., Dallas aviation enthusiast, will be theirs if the Frenchmen are successful in making the nonstop flight from New York, which they plan to start tomorrow morning.

Easterwood contracted to pay the money for the first successful Paris-New York-Dallas air voyage, conditioned upon a stop of not more than seventy-two hours in New York.

They'll Be Hoover's Guests.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Washington prepared today to give the French trans-Atlantic flyers a rousing welcome on their arrival in the capital next Monday. President Hoover will entertain Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte at a White House luncheon Monday which will be attended by members of the diplomatic corps and noted flyers.

French officials will hold a reception for the flyers at the embassy Monday evening, while civic officials plan either a dinner or luncheon in their honor Tuesday or Wednesday.

In a communication sent to the White House today Capt. Coste thanked the President for his congratulatory message of last night.

Coste Didn't Fight Weather; He Fooled It! Made 600 Miles of Detours Around Storms

BY CAPT. DIEUDONNE COSTE.

[Copyright: 1930: In North and South America: By the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune. All rights reserved.]

New York, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—It is twenty-four hours since Maurice Bellonte and myself landed at Curtiss field after making the first continuous flight from a great city of the old world to the greatest city in the new. In those hours we have had time for thought.

The thing that impresses me most as I look back upon those hazardous hours is the radio. I followed very closely the comment of Maj. Kingsford-Smith, a great aviator, upon his successfully negotiating the westward passage of the Atlantic. He laid particular stress upon the radio. I do the same. I should say that the radio is just as indispensable as the motor itself.

I say this in spite of the fact that the radio failed us at the latter end of the voyage. Our radio, of 100 watts input, was capable of establishing communication over distances up to 1,000 kilometers on the 600 meter wave length. That is the wave used by ships and all trans-Atlantic liners.

Robbed Fog of Loneliness.

Throughout the long hours after we passed over the French coast line north of Rouen until we had made a landfall on the western hemisphere we were in constant touch with ships and at times with French and then with American coastal stations. If one can picture the sensation of being seated in an open cockpit, hour after hour—age after age, it seemed to us—with nothing about one but rain and mist, one may obtain a hazy picture of what those little vacuum tubes, coils and plates meant to us.

It was as if we were not in midair, far from help. We could talk to other persons. And, far beyond that, we knew—we were extremely aware of the fact—that in the event of a mishap others would learn of our plight, others would speed to our aid. Now that it is all over this seems trivial, but I shall never forget the feeling.

Lasted Just Long Enough.

Yes, the radio was just as important as the motor; if it had failed us earlier in the flight it might have been quite unfortunate. But since it did not become inoperative until after we had reached the American coast, we had less to worry about.

There was the coast. We had nothing to do but follow it—which was so simple. I doubt if any one but an aviator would appreciate this fact, and one who had covered long distances over unfamiliar territory. We nearly met disaster in a ravine into which we flew unsuspectingly in Nova Scotia. If the radio had been working at that time we could have ascertained the correct course to New York, but, unfortunately, the field exciter on the generator, operated by a propeller in the slip stream, had gone out of whack.

But, on the whole, all instruments worked splendidly, including the radio—and there are thirty-five to forty instruments on the Question Mark. Upon them our lives depended.

Meteorology Beats Courage.

All this should point to the fact that the success of our flight was not dependent upon courage, heroism, or anything of the kind. If the other brave men who have attempted to fly from Europe to New York have failed, the chances are that it was because of lack of adequate preparation. I cannot stress this too much. Others have taken off with an excess of courage and a lack of reflection.

There is one thing that occurs to me that I must stress. That is the question of meteorology. Bellonte and I determined in advance that the route to be followed was an unknown quantity. In that we were right.

We knew that we would have to make many difficult and trying maneuvers in our battle with the weather. If we had attempted to fly the direct route, we would have been defeated. I have measured the distances, or at least estimated them as best I can, and have found that we lost a total of 600 miles in our various side trips to avoid storms or find tail winds.

No Fixed Route Possible.

All this tended to convince us that there is no route that can be determined in advance to be the best under all circumstances for a trans-Atlantic crossing. Weather conditions determine everything. That is why we went 100 miles to the south just before reaching Nova Scotia. That was a loss of time, but by making this trip out of the way we saved ourselves possibly many hours in that we avoided opposing winds.

This maneuver indicates that future flights, though they be run on a schedule fixed in advance, will never be over a predetermined course. They will be controlled by weather conditions.

But after all, we were not battling the weather. We were fooling it. It put untold obstacles in our path. We evaded them and found winds to help us. Never were we so grateful for favorable weather as when we approached the American coast.

Never Saw St. Pierre.

Rene Racover, who has handled the innumerable details incident to our arrival, tells me that the newspapers this morning printed dispatches from the little island of St. Pierre saying that we made our first American landfall there.

It would have been pleasant to have made our first landfall over French territory, but it simply is not true. Neither Bellonte nor myself can understand it. We were in communication with a wireless station on St. Pierre, but we did not pass within sight of the island. We did not see it at all. So how could any one there have seen us. We passed far to the south of it. I am quite certain of this.

Now that it is all over and I have had time to think a little I may as well say that at no time before or during the flight were we ever anything but extremely confident that we would be successful. But how can I refrain from mentioning how happy we were when we first were sure that we had sighted land? That was over Nova Scotia.

Recalls Byrd's Hard Luck.

Until that time, you know, and especially during the long hours when we strained our eyes for a glimpse of the American continent we thought frequently of your Admiral Byrd. Admiral Byrd, a great flyer, who took all pains with preparations, arrived in France, and probably flew over Paris, but landed in the sea along the coast because of the fog. For hour after hour we had faced mist and fog. We simply had to believe that fog, which had defeated Admiral Byrd, would not play the same trick on us. During this period all our hope was founded on the radio.

Looking back on it, how thankful we should be that that accumulation of glass, aluminum and hard rubber did not go wrong until we actually had arrived at the American coast. Several radio experts have volunteered to go over the equipment, and when we take off tomorrow for Dallas, Tex., we trust that it will be in good working order.

What a Flyer Thinks About.

Anyway, radio, or no radio, I was not discouraged. After three years of preparation there could not be room for doubt. How could I doubt, after that long period of preparation, after surviving some twenty plane wrecks during the world war, after flying to China and back, that I could prepare a plane in such a way that I could fly the Atlantic with absolute certainty?

Everyone asks me, "What were you thinking? Did you think of your dear ones; did you think of your wife as you dodged hither and there to avoid storms and disaster?"

What can I say? I did not think of them. No. I thought of one thing. I was making a troublesome flight. I thought of the best way to dodge those storms. That was plenty to think about. How could a man think of anything else.

Well, that is all to it. It could be done again. I am not anxious to do it, but, after all, given a staunch plane and a competent pilot—I mean one who takes everything into consideration—it could be done again. There is no reason why it couldn't be. Patience—that is the chief requisite at present. Endless study of meteorology. Endless study of your airplane. Patience and refusal to say "Quit;" those are the requisites and they are not rare.

COSTE ISN'T CERTAIN JUST HOW HIS NAME SHOULD BE SPELLED

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Dieudonne Coste does not know how to spell his name. He himself admits that he is not certain whether the name should have a final "s," so he "just makes a wiggle at the end." He thinks it best, however, to spell it without the final sibilant, as this averts mispronunciation in two syllables. The French name is variously spelled by individuals who bear it. Some write it Costes and others Coste.

PARIS DEVOURS NEWS OF COSTE; WHAT THERE IS!

French Press Gives Only Brief Cables.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Although the names of Maurice Bellonte and Dieudonne Coste—"Doudou," as the French affectionately call him—are on the lips of every full blooded Frenchman today, unless incapacitated by the celebrations last night, the meagerness of the news concerning the flyers is astonishing.

Parisians, sipping aperitifs on the café terraces after work and devouring the latest editions of the evening papers, are still being treated with an account of the Question Mark's landing and even hour by hour bulletins of the flight listed in chronological order.

No Account of Reception.

Even the highly progressive Intransigeant, which boasts of the biggest circulation of any evening paper in the world, does not carry any real cabled news from America describing the reception for the flyers in New York today, although it carries a detailed account of the landing last night.

Most of the other afternoon papers seem to have relied upon hasty translations of the articles which appeared in this morning's Paris edition of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

This scarcity of news and pictures on a story which means just as much to the French reader as Col. Lindbergh's flight did to the American reader, strikingly illustrates the difference between continental and American ideas of journalism and presents a sharp contrast to the extensive coverage American correspondents in France gave their papers of Col. Lindbergh's arrival and the receptions that followed.

Promote Both Flyers.

Although the thrifty French papers are not willing to spend money on cable tolls, they are devoting almost entire front pages to editorials praising the flyers and interviews with their wives. The general feeling is that nothing is too good for the two airmen, and it was announced today that Capt. Coste, who is an officer in the Legion of Honor, would be made a commander and M. Bellonte, who is a chevalier, would be made an officer. At the same time they are to get army promotion. Capt. Coste to become a major and M. Bellonte, who is a noncommissioned officer, to become a second lieutenant.

Nationalist Press Crows.

Some of the Nationalist papers think the chief importance of the flight is the demonstration to the Germans and Italians that French aviators are not so helpless as was supposed, with the inference that the trans-Atlantic flight could be easily converted to warlike purposes.

COUNTLESS MEN

You Never Have
With an S. F. Wilson Shirt

There are as many things wrong with an average shirt as with prohibition. Strangling or gaping collar-bands, climbing shirt tails, creeping cuffs—you've experienced them all, no doubt. Of course, the differences in anything so standardized as shirts—are necessarily small. But it is just these little differences that cause men so much annoyance. For instance, the hazards of requiring unusual sizes, or of forgetting one's measurements, do not exist at S. F. Wilson's where even men who take a 36 inch sleeve are quickly and expertly fitted, and where no man is ever permitted to leave with a shirt that, in any particular, fails to come up to par . . . And the attention here paid to these important details explains the comfort and satisfaction so many men find in S. F. Wilson shirts.

JOYCE POISON VERDICT BRINGS ADDED MYSTERY

Coroner Finds Acid Killed Senator.

"I am convinced that State Senator John T. Joyce was not murdered and the question of whether his death was suicide or accidental does not concern me," said State's Attorney Swanson yesterday after a coroner's jury found that Senator Joyce was poisoned by hydrocyanic acid "administered by a person or persons unknown."

The inquest verdict was based on the report of Dr. Clarence Muehlberger, coroner's chemist, who testified he found two grains of hydrocyanic acid, or prussic acid, as it is commonly called, in the body of the dead senator. There was no trace of alcohol in the body, Dr. Muehlberger declared.

Since Aug. 16, when Senator Joyce died in bed in his home at 207 East Chestnut street, the authorities had been undecided as to the cause of death. Because of a brain condition, poison was suspected, but officials had no theory as to whether Joyce had committed suicide, was murdered, or was the victim of a mistake.

Widow Opposes Findings.

After the verdict of yesterday, Mrs. Mary Daly Joyce, the widow, refused to accept Dr. Muehlberger's statement as accurate. She was the first to tell Coroner Herman N. Bundesen of her suspicion her husband was murdered by political enemies. Dr. Bundesen said yesterday. What she told the jury did not agree with the assertion of Dr. Muehlberger that Senator Joyce had died shortly after the poison was administered. Her husband had been slightly ill all night, she insisted, and she expressed the opinion that some slower acting poison had been used.

"The coroner's findings are a terrible shock to me," Mrs. Joyce told a reporter. "I cannot comprehend that John died of such a quick and deadly poison as prussic acid."

"This verdict seems to shift the entire responsibility on me. John and I were alone when he was stricken. But how he came to be poisoned is as big a mystery to me at this moment as it has been ever since he died.

"And one thing I want to say emphatically is that John Joyce did not kill himself. No note or message to me was found. That's proof to me he did not do this thing himself."

Dr. Bundesen Is Silent.

Coroner Bundesen voiced no opinion as to his belief on whether Joyce's death was accident, suicide or murder. His task ended with the verdict of the jury, he said, and because of the unexplainable features of the death he had asked State's Attorney Swanson and Chief of Detectives Norton to be present yesterday at the inquest.

There could be no possibility that Dr. Muehlberger had erred in his examinations, Dr. Bundesen declared. He said it is true that ordinarily the use of prussic acid as the agency of death can be detected by the odor. In many instances coroner's physicians called to examine a body have determined in a second the use of prussic acid by its distinctive peach pit smell, it was said.

Quotes Widow's Statement.

Dr. Bundesen said he was in the Joyce home on the Gold Coast ten minutes after Joyce died. He said he didn't seek to detect any odor at the time. He quoted Mrs. Joyce as saying then:

"I was afraid that gang would poison him, and now they have done it."

At the inquest Dr. Bundesen questioned Mrs. Joyce closely on the possibility that some one might have entered the house unnoticed and given poison to the senator. Mrs. Joyce said her hurband was asleep in bed with two windows opened, one of them unscreened, and that the window ledge is eight feet above the ground.

Several strange facts were brought out at the inquest. Senator Joyce was in the midst of post-primary controversies and before his death he had testified before the grand jury that Tommy Abbott, a minor gang leader, was one of a gang of hoodlums who went about the Forty-second ward on primary day armed with guns and carrying banners of the state's attorney on their cars.

Joyce was to have returned before the grand jury in the following week to give the names of witnesses who would corroborate his statement. On Friday night, after his grand jury testimony, he told his wife he was going out in the ward looking up witnesses, and on his return he told her he had found plenty.

Mrs. Joyce testified that on that Friday she had received several telephone calls predicting harm to her husband, one caller asking if he had been shot. The senator went home that Friday night at 11 o'clock, which was regarded as unusual for him, as his usual homecomings were between 2 o'clock and 3 o'clock in the morning.

"He seemed a bit drowsy or dopey," Mrs. Joyce testified. "He slept in one position all night without moving—his arm was over me and if he had moved I would have known it. About 10:30 o'clock next morning I was awakened by the telephone ringing. I answered the telephone. It was a man, and he seemed astonished when I told him the senator was not home.

"I went back to bed in a small room down the corridor so as not to disturb John. An hour later I was awakened by a piercing shriek from John's room. I found him lying in exactly the same position as I had left him except that his head was twisted back and his eyes were wild and terrified. He writhed a little but couldn't speak. I called out the window to a doorman to call a doctor. John was dead when the doctor came and the latter called Coroner Bundesen, who came in a few minutes."

Dr. Muehlberger, on the witness stand, explained that, although prussic acid has a very recognizable taste and that a person could not take any of it in his mouth without realizing it was poison, it could easily be taken in a capsule. He said that in his opinion death had occurred within 15 to 30 minutes after the poison had been administered, and this statement later was understood to reflect his belief that the poison was in a capsule. It would not act until the capsule had been dissolved, it was explained.

Dr. Bundesen said no bottle that had contained prussic acid was found in Joyce's home.

Mrs. Joyce admitted her husband was in debt and that his creditors were pressing him. His estate consisted of $60 in cash, she said. She mortgaged some of her own property and advanced him $3,500 to defray the expenses of the election contest brought by Wallace Kirk, she testified, and that money all was spent.

Actress Wife Seeks Divorce

Property Settlement

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Muriel Cudahy, 20 year old film actress, today filed suit for divorce from Michael Cudahy, 23 year old member of the packing family. Her complaint charges cruelty and incompatibility. Prior to their marriage in July, 1929, Mrs. Cudahy played minor screen parts under the name of Muriel Evans. A property settlement satisfactory to the wife, to Cudahy and to his mother, Mrs. Jack Cudahy, with whom the young husband is again living, was arranged by attorneys.

SHIP TO SHORE AIRPLANE SETS A NEW RECORD

New York, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—What is believed to be a new record for ship to shore flying was established this afternoon when a Heinkel seaplane piloted by Walter Simon and his radio operator, Curt Von Haagen, and carrying four sacks of mail, was catapulted from the North German Lloyd liner Bremen while it was steaming 370 miles east of Nantucket lightship and flew to the North German Lloyd pier in Brooklyn.

The flyers covered more than 600 miles in all and encountered strong head winds which forced them down for lack of oil at King's Park, L. I.

BUSINESS SKIES CLEARING; FAIR WEATHER AHEAD

U. S. Barometer Shows Storm Is Passing.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Although cautious about predicting any sudden spurt in industrial activity, government officials who are in close touch with conditions believe the bottom of the depression has been about reached and that a slow but steady improvement may be expected this fall.

Secretary of Commerce Lamont, back at his desk after several weeks in the west, said today that he thought statistical data on conditions in August might be a little disappointing because of the reaction from the drought, but that the adverse effects should not be as great as anticipated in some quarters.

Secretary Lamont was confident that the effect of the Hoover conference which followed the stock market disaster of last fall was to prevent a decline in business to as low a point as in the depression of 1921-'22.

Expects Quicker Recovery.

The level of business not having gone so low as at that time, Mr. Lamont said the recovery should not require so long a time. It took a year to get back to normal from the time the low point was passed in that depression, Mr. Lamont pointed out.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce Julius Klein was of the opinion that there should be somewhat more than a seasonal increase in industrial activity as early as October. He said that from that time on there should be a gradual improvement until within a few months a level is reached comparable to business conditions in what have been regarded as the normal years of 1923, 1924, and 1925. There should be no expectation, he warned of anything in the immediate future like the boom conditions of 1928-'29.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis said that business recovery will be slow but certain.

Steel Plants Hard Hit.

Reports to the departments of labor and commerce have indicated that in the steel, automobile, and other industries the plants are operating only three or four days a week and that a considerable number of employes have been laid off, but that in most cases labor has been employed at the old age scales.

First reports to the department of labor on unemployment for the month of August are said to show conditions a little better than in July. The August figures will not be available until about the middle of the present month. Officials do not expect the August figures to show a great deal of change, but they hope the September figures will disclose a slight upward trend and that in October the movement will be more marked.

PREFERS WET TO DRY WITH FEWER QUALIFICATIONS

Oxford, O., Sept. 3.—(AP)—A wet candidate is preferable to a dry with fewer qualifications for handling public affairs, Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, president of De Pauw university, told delegates at the annual Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here today.

"It is not right to back an anti-saloon candidate if his only qualification is that he is dry," Dr. Oxnam said.

He added that politics which are for the greatest civic and political good are superior to those having only religion as their purpose.

BOY OF 11, SHOT, STICKS TO GANG CODE OF SILENCE

Trundled to Hospital in Wheelbarrow.

Thirteen year old Howard Post of 6116 South Morgan street yesterday afternoon trundled a little red wheelbarrow up to the entrance of the Englewood hospital, 6001 South Green street. Hunched in it, hands clenched, features twitching, sat 11 year old Harry Tenney, son of Clyde Tenney, an auto mechanic of 739 West 59th street.

With one arm about Howard's shoulder, Harry limped through the hospital door, to lean against the receiving desk. Howard darted back to the street, seized the wheelbarrow and ran away.

"What's the matter?" the clerk asked Harry.

"I'm shot," said the boy and slumped to the floor.

Find Bullet in Boy's Thigh.

"How did this happen?" asked the doctor.

"I had been playing after school," said Harry. "I was going home to dinner. As I was passing an alley in 61st street, between Morgan and Sangamon streets, a boy I didn't know jumped from behind a telephone pole and shot me."

"Who brought you here?"

"I don't know. I guess it was part of the plot—like the gangsters do—they just took me for a ride to the hospital."

The Englewood police were notified, and soon Harry was being interrogated by Lieut. Edward Murnane and Sergts. Martin Collins and Elmer Smith. It was an hour before Harry changed his story.

Harry Tells a New One.

"I'll tell you the truth," he finally told Lieut. Murnane. "I was playing with Howard Post and his brother, Roy. Roy had a .22 blank cartridge pistol he got the Fourth of July. We found a bullet in the alley. I told them we would shoot it once—real. The bullet was too big, so I whittled it down. Finally it fitted. I was putting it in the pistol when it went off."

The policemen took Howard and Roy to the bedside. When Harry saw them he began crying for the first time.

"I didn't want to snitch, fellows," he said. "I told them I did it myself."

With which cryptic statement the case was declared closed so far as the police were concerned. Harry's condition is not serious. He was later taken to the county hospital.

COP AND BANDITS FIGHT GUN BATTLE IN SHERIDAN RD.

Policeman Frank McDonnell of the North Shore park district fought a gun battle with two bandits last night at Foster avenue and Sheridan road, while automobile traffic tied itself in a knot as motorists dodged or watched the battle.

The robbers had held up the haberdashery store of Sam Harris at 3307 North Clark street, taking $50 from Harris and $15 from Mrs. Andrew Anderson of 5309 North Clark street, a customer. Then they climbed into their car and drove north to Foster avenue and east to Sheridan road. Their speeding car overturned at Sheridan road when they tried to round the corner. Both jumped out.

Policeman McDonnell ordered them to put up their hands. Instead both opened fire on him. He returned it. One of them bandits ran. The other surrendered when a bullet clipped his gun hand. He gave his name as George Brown, 18 years old, 6145 Ravenswood avenue.

$3,000,000 MORGAN YACHT FREED FROM REEF ON MAINE COAST

Isleboro, Me., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Two ocean going tugs and a coast guard cutter pulled $3,000,000 worth of yachting timber—J. P. Morgan's new Corsair—into deep water at full tide tonight, freeing her from the reefs that had held her fast in Minot's island, in Gilkey's harbor, for more than twenty-four hours, defying two previous attempts to float her.

The Corsair, largest private vessel in the world, rode on an even keel again at 7:55 p. m., and Capt. W. B. Porter, skipper of Morgan ships for twenty-eight years, was confident the damage was slight, although she will be put into dry dock for examination before steaming to the America's cup races at Newport, R. I.

431,642 Sign Petitions on Filtering of Water

The petitions to place on the Nov. 4 ballot the question of whether Chicago shall have filtered water were filed with the board of election commissioners yesterday by Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe. The petitions bear 431,642 signatures.

The Very Rev. Thomas F. Levan, for eleven years the president of De Paul university, 1010 Webster avenue, has been appointed head of St. Mary's Catholic seminary at Perryville, Mo., and will in a day or two leave to begin his new duties, it was announced last night.

The Very Rev. Father Francis V. Corcoran, who for some years has been the head of the Kendrick Catholic seminary at Webster Grove, Mo., and also an official of St. Louis university, will succeed Father Levan at De Paul university.

BACKUS MOVED TO SPRINGFIELD; ROHDE OUSTED

Clyde Backus, assistant director of the state department of education and registration and former head of the Chicago office, has been transferred to Springfield. This was learned yesterday. The explanation was given that due to the frequent illness of Director Michael Walsh his assistant was needed in the main office.

At the same time the transfer order was given, Carl Rohde, head inspector of the Chicago office, and declared by Mr. Backus to be "the best man ever to hold the position," was discharged. No explanation was given of this order.

HUSBAND, AT 77, SENT TO JAIL FOR ALIMONY FAILURE

Says His Income Is Only $10 a Week.

William Hudson Donald, 77 years old and white haired, was sentenced to six months in jail yesterday for failing to pay alimony to his estranged wife, Mrs. Catherine Anne Donald, of 6548 Drexel avenue.

Donald, who lives at 6539 University avenue, is said to be the oldest member ever to join the Alimony club.

Sentence was imposed by Judge Philip J. Finnegan. Mrs. Donald, a trim little woman, 74 years old, told the judge that her husband owes $646 in alimony which he was ordered to pay when she sued for separate maintenance three years ago.

Husband Tells His Story.

Donald, who is 6 feet 1 inch tall, of ruddy complexion, and appears to be in good physical condition with the exception of a lameness, told the following story while waiting in the sheriff's office to be taken to jail:

"My wife and I were married in December of 1903. I was a consulting operating engineer until 13 years ago, when my left leg was severely scalded. Since then I have been unable to work.

"We had always been happy. In 1911 we went to Europe and stayed over there for a whole year. Then in 1925 she left me. In October of 1927 she sued for separate maintenance. She accused me of philandering—said I went out nights after supper and stayed away as late as 10 o'clock.

"But I hadn't been with a lady after dark for 24 years. In the first place, they wouldn't be safe, because I can't see to drive very well in the dark and I might run into a tree.

Ordered to Pay $15 a Week.

"Judge D. J. Normoyle ordered me to pay her $15 a week. Two years ago, when she had me brought into court for being behind in alimony, Judge Thomas J. Lynch reduced the payments to $8 a week. A year ago Judge David Brothers refused to put me in jail because I had not kept up the payments. The only income I have is $10 a week which I make by renting rooms in my home."

Donald was asked what Judge Finnegan had said when he sentenced him.

"He said, 'I'm sorry.' But you know, lad," he added, patting the reporter on the knee, "more people die from eating green apples than from being sorry. I guess I'll be in jail for awhile."

Diary Reveals Andree Last to Die on March Across Ice

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The newspaper Dagensnyheter this evening said the newly discovered diary of Salomon August Andree reveals Knut Frankel, third member of the expedition, had died while the party was on its way to White island.

According to the paper, the Andree diary says the three explorers started across the ice after the wreck of their balloon and were still going on Sept. 5.

Nils Strindberg, Andree's scientific worker, it adds, died after arrival on White island and was buried by Andree.

Strapped Books to Back.

[Copyright, 1930, and all rights reserved in North and South America and in Japan, by the Associated Press.]

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Further interesting discoveries, one of which was most sensational in its nature, were made today by Swedish and Norwegian experts who were examining the relics of the arctic expedition of Salomon August Andree brought to this port by Dr. Gunnar Horn and his exploration party.

This most important new find, overlooked until government scientists began their investigation of the remains of the famous polar aerial argosy of 1897, and one which may mean much, not only to science but to literature and drama as well, consisted of two note books.

They were found wrapped in an undershirt at Andree's back. Evidently the explorer, near death, took one last precautionary measure that posterity might know the details of the first expedition ever to attempt to attain the north pole by the aerial route.

May Reveal Whole Story.

One of these books contains only a few pages of writing, consisting of only some geographical observations. The other is full and quite legible, and was a day by day record of the journey on foot over the ice. Both books are well preserved. The latter book with other Andree records previously found, is expected to give to the world the whole story of the Swedish explorer's balloon expedition.

The examiners read in their find the evidence that the dying adventurer and scientist, apparently aware that his end was imminent, had wrapped his precious records in the shirt, placed them next to his skin on his back, and then lay down upon them in the hope that his dead body would cover and shield them until some far north explorer could come upon the scene.

Find Bits of Swedish Flags.

It was a forlorn hope, but it worked.

Among the other interesting discoveries were several Swedish flags, about a yard square, probably used on the balloon, a sled, and a boat. The scientists were surprised to find so much and to find it so well preserved.

It is surmised that the diary found by Dr. Horn on White island contains the narrative of what befell the expedition during its lonely months of virtual imprisonment while waiting for rescue on the island beach. Dr. Horn has refused as yet to make it public.

Andree's log book, according to Horn's statement, does not continue up until the very last days of Andree's life.

Positive identification of the bodies of Andree and his companion, Nils Strindberg, entombed in the ice 33 years, was made under dramatic circumstances in the little Tromsoe hospital early this morning.

Brother Identifies Body.

The body of Strindberg was identified by his own brother, the sculptor, Thore Strindberg of Stockholm. The dead man's teeth were recognized positively.

So far as Andree is concerned, there has never been any real doubt that it was his body that Dr. Horn's expedition brought back early this week. Confirmation was hardly necessary, but it was made by the Swedish professors, Hedren and Lithberg, experts sent here especially for the purpose.

A formal statement issued by the experts says that only the skeletons of the bodies of Andree and Strindberg remain intact. The organic parts were very much deteriorated and the clothing, though fairly well preserved, had been much torn, probably by animals. The garments were sprayed with a preservative to prevent their being torn during the examination.

Sven Wahlstrom, a member of the Franckel family, arrived here last night to represent their interests. He said today that Franckel's mother up to her dying day several years ago had insisted that one day the bodies of the three men would be found and brought home. The explorer's mother he said, was interested in spiritualism and declared she had been in communication with her son's spirit several times.

Swedish Warship on Way.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 3.—The Swedish warship Svenksund, aboard which Salomon August Andree sailed to Spitzbergen 33 years ago, arrived in Bergen today on its way to Tromsoe to bring the explorer's remains back home. It was announced that a Stockholm newspaper is sending a special expedition to White island to hunt for Knut Franckel's remains.

Science Finds Mastodon Fossils Near La Grange

MODES FOR DRY SNOOPERS NEAT BUT NOT GAUDY

School Studies Styles for Shadows.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Prohibition agents had a second day's session at Director Amos W. W. Woodcock's school of instruction.

Lecturing on the art of detection to the 34 dry enforcement officers assembled here for the school, Field Supervisor Harry M. Dengler dwelt upon the value of shadow work in uncovering violators of the Jones and Volstead acts.

Whiskers, Real or False, Banned.

"The shadow should be a person not above medium height and perfectly smooth shaven," Mr. Dengler explained. "He should give out no intimation of the work in hand nor show any interest in anything he is watching, but should be alert and watchful as to everything that transpires near him. He should not wear conspicuous clothing, noticeable shoes or jewelry.

"If the man followed is very suspicious, boys can be used to advantage. Two boys can engage in games near the home of the subject without attracting attention whereas a man loitering in the neighborhood would soon arouse suspicion."

Eavesdropping and spying, although not so designated by Mr. Dengler, were described by him as legitimate modes of detection by prohibition agents.

How to Be a Shadow.

"Persons often meet in theaters by the expedient of one of them buying two tickets and sending one to the other," said Mr. Dengler. "You should endeavor to sit in front of them so as to overhear their conversation. If he enters a railway station, you should try to overhear or read on his ticket the destination either at the ticket office or gate. If this cannot be done, buy a ticket or pay cash fare to the end of the run if local, or to the end of the division if it is a through train."

Various expedients for shadowing booze trucks were discussed by Mr. Dengler, among them the trick of fastening to the axle a pail of sand with a hole in the bottom and a plug with a string attached to the wheel so as to leave a trail of sand.

WOMAN'S DEATH HELD SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the case of Mrs. Bridget Jacoby, 61 years old, 6219 South Park way, whose body was recovered on Tuesday from the Washington park lagoon.

Writ Is Asked to Guard Funds of Lathers' Group

A petition for an injunction to restrain the Mutual National bank of Chicago, 7844 South Halsted street, from releasing any securities held by Henry Beckman, treasurer of the Lathers' Social and Benevolent auxiliary, was filed in Circuit court yesterday by attorneys representing the auxiliary. The petition alleges Beckman received $37,522 of the organization's funds, including $20,000 worth of bonds, on Aug. 5 and has since disappeared. Permission to examine Beckman's safety deposit box is asked in the petition.

BROOKLYN JURY DECLARES WAR ON RACKETEERS

More Gunmen "Muscle" In on Industry.

New York, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Today a Brooklyn grand jury was charged to declare war on the "supergovernment" of the racketeers, the same racketeers whom the preceding grand jury had described as a "power which for the time being is greater than government itself."

Today the attorney general's food investigation here brought out that a group of smoked fish dealers has resorted to violence to get a strangle hold on that business throughout the city.

Almost daily gunmen shoot it out on the streets of New York, of breezy Chicago, even of Puritan Portland. Guns flash as quickly and as frequently as they did in the days of the frontier towns, whose wild days have gone down into history via the dime thrillers.

Business Suffers Now.

Gangster activities are no longer confined to the sale of rum, to the peddling of narcotics. Gunmen have "muscled" their way into industry—many lines of industry—and into sports.

From far scattered sources comes evidence that they have acquired control over huge segments of American business. Their strangle hold on certain lines of trade—a grip maintained by the terror of tradesmen who dare not resist—costs the American public three billion dollars a year, according to evidence submitted to the League of Industrial Democracy.

This tribute—the racketeers' levy for permitting people to remain in business—is passed along to the consumer in increased prices.

Newspaper Makes Survey.

A leading New York newspaper has been making a survey of the "racketeering industry" throughout the country and has unearthed what it calls an alarming situation in many of the leading cities of the country. From the results of the canvass it appears that conditions are about as bad right here in New York as anywhere else in the country. The paper summarizes its findings here thusly:

There were shootings last week which claimed two lives, when pistols roared reverberations of the war for control of the slot machine racket in the city's 25,000 speakeasies.

There were—and are—many other such gang conflicts brewing and boiling over. But fights between criminals are not half the picture as far as New York is concerned.

The attorney general's inquiry into the food situation here has revealed the grip of gangdom on the loose milk business. Dealer after dealer has testified that he has been compelled to buy from certain sources or else be beaten or robbed, or find his stock mysteriously turning sour from gangster thrown chemicals.

Throughout the markets, according to the testimony at the same hearing, gangdom runs with the blackjack and the flashing knife. Pay up, shut up, or take the consequences. That is the motto. Incredible as it seems, the drowsy farmer whom the late motorist sees rumbling marketward may find at the end of his route sinister individuals who will control the sale of his produce. He sells to whom he is told and at the price set, else his tires are cut, his truck wrecked, or he himself is beaten.

Murder to Gain Power.

Throughout the food-supplying system of the metropolis has run the red thread of murder from the early pot war days when Barnet Baff, the poultryman, was killed in a West Washington market shakedown, down to this week, when another went "on the spot."

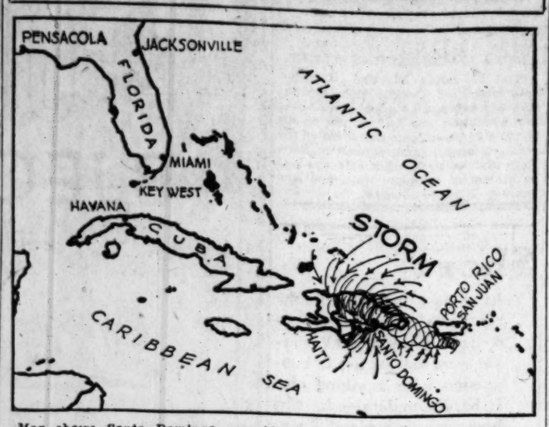
In other lines of what should be ordinary business the same evidences are found. Laundrymen tell the tale, and have got themselves a czar to help matters, but the week-end saw shooting, nevertheless.

The building trades have been the sources of dozens of news stories of contractors whose jobs went suddenly away when they ceased to pay tribute.

Electrical workers have been beaten. Pushcart peddlars have been shaken down. Even the humble junkman knows that he must pay or take a beating.

Conditions in other cities were summarized with the statement that there is extensive racketeering in Chicago, although the number of rackets and bombings has been reduced materially, and in Cleveland and Detroit, and on a lesser scale in Boston.

ISLAND HIT HARD BY HURRICANE



Map shows Santo Domingo, swept by a hurricane yesterday, and which is believed to have spread ruin in the city of Santo Domingo. All cable and wireless communications between the island and the United States have ceased. The storm is reported to have started south of Porto Rico. After hitting Santo Domingo, it swirled north into the Atlantic ocean. It is feared the hurricane is headed for the Bahamas and Cuba.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Wallace Adams, Richard Brown, and Harold Collins, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in Pontiac reformatory; David Shue, Clarence Gornick, and Lacy Ausbrook, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary; Nick Adams, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary, by Judge Harry Fisher.

Arthur McNeill, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph David.

CRIMINAL COURT JUDGES ADOPT NEW JURY PLAN

The judges of the Criminal court at a meeting called yesterday by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty decided to follow two of the recommendations of the Cook county judicial advisory council which it is believed will speed up the work of the court and result in a large money saving to the county.

Instead of each judge calling 65 jurymen for service every two weeks, one entire panel will be called for general Criminal court service. This panel will average forty veniremen to every judge. Every juryman summoned will have to appear in court. Out of the panel the presiding judge will select the 18 best men for each court session. In this way the type of jurors selected for service is expected to be above the present average.

"This method will effect a tremendous saving of cost to the county," said Chief Justice McGoorty. "It will enable the judges to exercise some discretion in the selection of proper men."

Spend Million on London Hotel, Haunt of Yankees

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Claridge's hotel at Brook street and Mayfair, one of London's leading hotels and well known to Americans, is to be extended at a cost of $1,000,000. For the vast new building a whole block of property between Claridge's and the Guards' club has been acquired.

WIDOW, MOTHER OF SIX CHILDREN, KILLED BY AUTO

Driver Speeds On After Striking Woman.

Six small children were made orphans yesterday by a reckless driver who struck and killed their widowed mother as she was hurrying home from work.

The victim was Mrs. Lillian Thomas, 33 years old, 6334 Normal boulevard, a waitress in a restaurant at Roby. She had finished work shortly after midnight on Tuesday and with Mrs. Marion Calewarts, 3049 Darwin terrace, another waitress, was hurrying to catch a street car home. The motorist, speeding north on Indianapolis boulevard, struck the widow at 112th street and drove on without stopping.

Mrs. Thomas was killed instantly. Her companion was uninjured. In her excitement she failed to obtain the license number of the automobile. She said the impact of the crash shattered a headlight and damaged a fender.

Mrs. Thomas' husband died several months ago and she was the only support of her family of six children, the eldest of whom is only 15 years old.

Girl Killed by Auto.

While roller skating to her home from the grocery store where she had been sent on an errand by her father, June Pierman, 8 years old, of 435 North St Louis avenue, was run down and fatally injured yesterday. At Fulton street and Homan boulevard the girl encountered a traffic jam caused by a stalled machine. A man who was acting as volunteer traffic officer in an effort to straighten out the tangled cars, motioned to Walter Kelly, 821 North Keeler avenue, to go ahead just as the girl darted in front of his car. She was dead when Kelly took her to the Garfield Park hospital.

Motor Toll Raised to 685.

These two deaths and one other raised Cook county's motor toll for the year to 685. The other victim:

Frank Majewski, 56 years old, 5520 South Francisco avenue. Died at the Southwest General hospital of injuries incurred when he was struck by an automobile while cross West 55th street at Ashland avenue. Fred Fitzsimons, 430 South Hoyne avenue, the driver, was held.

Bury Bulgar Chief, Alleged Spy, Secretly After Suicide

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Col. Marinopolski, deputy chief of the general staff, has committed suicide, reportedly because he was ordered to do so after discovery that he had been engaged in espionage for some foreign power. A secret funeral was held. It was a civil ceremony attended by no military representatives

HELD ON EXTORTION CHARGE.

Benjamin Markowitz, 17 years old, 1136 East 43d street, captured last week after he had sent letters to two south side women demanding $7,500, was yesterday held to the grand jury under bonds of $10,000 by Judge Joseph Burke in Boys' court.

RENEW DICKER FOR AIR RIGHTS POSTOFFICE SITE

Negotiations for the air rights site for Chicago's new $14,000,000 postoffice have been resumed and an agreement between the government and the Union Terminal company, owners of the property, is expected in a few weeks, federal officials disclosed yesterday.

The negotiations had been delayed because of the illness of Thomas W. Hume, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, who has recovered and is attending conferences at which details of the transaction are being worked out.

It is also announced that the architects, Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, have completed plans for the new building and are ready to submit them to Washington authorities. It is the belief of federal officials here and others attending the conferences, including Joshua D'Esposito, consulting engineer for the Union Terminal company, that work on the structure will get under way before the end of the year.

Mr. D'Esposito announced yesterday that he intended proposing to the city council the replacement of the Van Buren and Harrison street bridges while the postoffice is being constructed.

"Those bridges are old and dilapidated, especially the Van Buren street bridge, and will have to be replaced anyhow in a few years," D'Esposito said.

ROBBERS LOCK UP MANAGER.

Two bandits yesterday locked Clare Bartsch, manager of a tea store at 1815 West 99th street, in a rear room and then rifled the cash register of $40.

REWARD
For a Salesman

SOMEWHERE there is a man who can measure up. He is now a sales manager, owns his own business, or is a star salesman. He can sell. He can close. He is keenly observant. He is dynamic, active and pleasing to meet. He has character, resourcefulness, mentality, personality, and the—"3 G's." He is a man who is experienced in presenting cold facts in a forceful manner to the chief executives of large businesses. Our clients, sales counsellors and trainers of national prominence seek him. We propose to find him. And when we do he will be presented with a $10,000 job, the opportunity of contacting the biggest executives in big business, operating from the finest suite of offices in Chicago. Don't reply unless you have earned at least $5,000 a year selling. We'll double it if you click. If you measure up we want you——badly. If you can't don't reply. • Smartly dressed women, who prefer lizard because it is expensive, are used to paying $8.50, $10 and even $15 for rajah lizard slippers—that's what makes this Cutler value so astounding!

Fashionably Dull Grenadine Twist Hose—$1.35

Most of us know from sad experience how sheerness used to go hand-in-hand with runs, snags and ruined hosiery. Because the silk strands in Cutler Grenadine hose are twisted tighter, the hosiery is both sheerer and more durable. French heels, of course, and full-fashioning, with graceful narrow ankles.

At most stores $1.95 . . . a typical Cutler value at $1.35

NYE DENOUNCES INQUIRY INTO HIS ACTIVITIES

Declares He Will Not Be "Intimidated."

he had been retained by Mrs. McCormick to shadow Chairman Nye and the two principal investigators for the committee, William Hunter Baldwin, former chief of the secret service of the Ku Klux Klan, and E. M. Daniel.

Almost immediately he was asked whether he had brought with him the records of his operations requested by the committee the day before. He said that he had not. Then, with the permission of the chair, Attorney Charles O. Rundall, who said he was Dannenberg's personal counsel, made a statement.

Attorney Asks More Time.

"The character of my client's business is such," he said, "that disclosure of his records would be of far reaching importance. My first impression was that this inquiry had gone beyond the powers given the committee, but I haven't had time to study the authorities and I'd like sufficient time to consider the matter."

"You have raised a very fine question," said Senator Dale. "It has been running through my own mind for several days. I haven't been able to decide it myself."

Chairman Nye thereupon granted Attorney Rundall until Sept. 15 in which to determine the position he will advise his client to take.

At this point Dannenberg was asked only if he had an investigator working at one time on this case in Atlanta, Ga. He said that he had and that the employé's name was Bodecker.

Detective Is Next Witness.

The next witness was Kenneth Wilson, an operative who, Dannenberg testified on Tuesday, pretended to sell out to David Stephenson Groh, also a private detective, who Dannenberg and his associates insist was employed by the Nye committee. Wilson was allowed to tell his story in his own way.

He said that Groh, calling himself "James Milton Dunn," approached him in a restaurant and offered him money in exchange for Dannenberg secrets, giving him $25 as a retainer. Wilson said he reported the matter to Dannenberg and turned the money over to him. Later, Groh, he said, paid him $42 a week for two weeks, making a total of $109. This was the currency Dannenberg on Tuesday offered to turn over to the committee because of his belief that it "belonged" to the United States senate.

"He said he would pay me $42 a week plus expenses for various kinds of entertainment," Wilson went on. "Dannenberg told me to go ahead and see how far he'd go and we made up some information to give him. Later he asked me to take the office secretary out and get her drunk so she would tell some things she wasn't supposed to. He said he would stand for expenses up to $20 for the stenographer and the expense of whisky and other entertainment for other operatives.

"Once he told me he knew I had called up Dannenberg and I asked him if he had a lot of telephone wires tapped. He said he had 'W. C.'s' (Dannenberg's) tapped at the apartment and that he had a number of others tapped. He asked me about the files on this case and said his clients were willing to spend $100 for them but that he couldn't go any farther without talking to his clients."

As soon as Wilson left the stand Chairman Nye called Lloyd E. Bemis, a Chicagoan, auditor for the committee, who immediately was followed by two of his office employés, Roy Niles Maxon and Grace R. Johanning.

Bemis testified that on Aug. 8 a man who refused to identify himself called at the Bemis offices and asked to see him about business which could not be disclosed to anybody else. Bemis said he declined to see the visitor and that that evening he was called on the telephone by a man who gave his name as "Dennis."

"This man," said Bemis, "asked me if I knew I was being shadowed everywhere I went and wanted to know if it wasn't worth something to me to know about it so that it could be stopped. He asked if it wouldn't be worth $10 to me. He told me some of the places I had been that day. But I told him I didn't see there was anything to be gained by talking to him further."

"Have you since recognized that voice anywhere?" asked Chairman Nye.

"I believe the voice was the same as the last witness'," answered Bemis, and added that Maxon and Miss Johanning had seen the man who called at his office. In succession they were called to the stand.

"I'm very certain it's the same man," said Maxon, after he had asked for a profile view of Wilson, who obligingly turned.

Wilson Cross-Examines.

Chairman Nye gave Wilson the right to cross-examine. Wilson asked only one question.

"What time of day was it?" he asked Maxon.

"Three o'clock," answered the witness.

Wilson referred to a pocket note book and said he had no further questions.

"I am quite sure it's the same man," said Miss Johanning. She was not cross-examined.

Wilson denied that he had been in Bemis' office on Aug. 8 or any other date.

Attorney Rundall, representing Dannenberg, then stepped up to the committee table and asked that the three witnesses—Bemis, Maxon and Miss Johanning—be asked if they knew Groh, the man Dannenberg insists has been working for the senate committee. Chairman Nye objected that this would serve no valuable purpose. Senator Dale disagreed. Maxon and Miss Johanning were recalled and said they knew Groh, that they had seen him in Bemis' office. Bemis was not questioned.

Accounts for Movements.

This part of the testimony was referred to again in the afternoon when, at Dannenberg's request Wilson was recalled to the stand and said he had examined his daily reports and accounted for his movements throughout Aug. 8. He offered to produce corroborative witnesses.

A similar tilt occurred after Peter H. Keelan, a Dannenberg man, said he had shadowed Senator Nye some time in July. When the chairman pointed out that he left Chicago on July 18 Keelan agreed that might have been the day. Dannenberg previously had testified that his services were not engaged until July 21 and, at his request, Keelan was recalled and said that Dannenberg had refreshed his memory and that he had not shadowed Senator Nye until some time in August.

This August shadowing and other trailings were mentioned by witnesses who said that among other places they had trailed Chairman Nye to the offices of Harold L. Ickes, a Deneen supporter, and to the office of Customs Collector Anthony Czarnecki, a Deneen lieutenant and appointee.

Two Brothers Questioned.

Two brothers and business associates of W. C. Dannenberg—John E. and F. Earl Dannenberg—told of their part in the investigation of Chairman Nye and Investigators Baldwin and Daniel. John said he once followed Nye to a Dakota-bound train. Earl's principal testimony concerned his employment of R. F. Bashford to follow the committee's sleuths.

It developed that Bashford apparently was the "R. F. Bash," whom Senators Nye and Dale discovered at Fargo last week, the man who disappeared after he had been served with a subpoena ordering him to appear at the Fargo hearing last Saturday. Earl Dannenberg said he had hired the man on the previous Monday and had instructed him to follow Baldwin wherever he went. Baldwin, he said, went to Fargo and Bashford went with him.

"I think now," he said, "that he was one of Groh's men. I haven't heard from him since he took the train for Fargo. He just disappeared."

Earl Dannenberg was closely questioned by Nye, particularly about the fact that the Dannenberg witnesses had said they discovered Groh's repeated efforts to "plant" a man in their offices.

RUTH MC CORMICK IS SILENT.

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Informed here tonight that Senator Nye had expressed "amazement" over her admission she had employed detectives to investigate activities of the senate campaign funds committee, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick said she had no statement to make until she saw Senator Nye's statement.

G. O. P. Caravan Comes Up Out of Egypt Still Smiting Sen. Nye

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

East St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—The Republican caravan finished Egypt tonight and started for the black loam country of central Illinois with the observation that to teach the Egyptians politics is teaching ducks to swim. This is where they invented it.

Cyer at Mount Vernon, in Gov. Emmerson's home town, this afternoon a typical southern Illinois county seat audience sat under the maple trees on the courthouse lawn while party luminaries set forth that, compared with Egypt, political organization in the rest of the state is still in primitive form.

Political Organization Perfected.

"This is where we come to take post-graduate courses in politics," remarked Gen. Milton J. Foreman and Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling. In reply to which, Gov. Emmerson, who is popularly supposed to have taken lessons from the Sphinx, observed that, north of the Vandalia line, in politics they haven't seen anything yet.

"I tell my audiences in the northern counties," the governor said, "that they know nothing of concrete organization compared to the way it has been developed in Egypt. Down here, after the primary contests are over, everybody gets together right away and everything begins to click.

"The purpose of this caravan is not to discuss issues but to get together and meet the nominees, headed by Ruth McCormick, the wisest woman in politics in the U. S. A. She's going to be elected in November and she'll be seated after she's elected."

Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota and his methods were again a theme for Cornelius J. [Tip] Doyle, state chairman and former secretary of state. Mr. Doyle referred to him as a Nonpartisan leaguer from North Dakota who, while elected as a Republican, is an "assistant Democrat."

"If Senator Nye is a Republican, then I'm a bishop," cried Mr. Doyle. The audience under the maple trees ate it up and yelled for more. "Go to it, Tip," they shouted.

"Senator Nye," continued Mr. Doyle, "comes from the wide open spaces out in North Dakota. We've got more votes in Egypt than he's got in his whole state.

Charges Obstruction Program.

"Nye's sole purpose as an assistant Democrat is to prevent, if possible, the election of a Republican, honestly and fairly nominated, to the senate in November. There is not a scintilla of basis for charges of fraud, but they hope to send a man to the senate opposed to the policies and principles of the Republican party and the administration—anything to obstruct the government.

"Egypt and Illinois will not bow the knee to dictation of this character."

Speaker David E. Shanahan and Mrs. McCormick spoke on questions of organization.

Praise for Administration.

"We have never had a sounder administration in Washington," said Mrs. McCormick. "We have not one thing to regret in the election of a man who will go down in history as one of the greatest Presidents in the White House."

So far the audiences have been of unusual size, according to the local leaders. At Harrisburg last night they drove in from forty miles around, whole families, and after the meeting groups sat on the hotel steps until 1 a. m. talking politics.

Charged with Laziness—

Guilty Simply of Acidity!

More than one man today is misjudged and unjustly penalized because of a not understood physical condition rather than any lack of willingness or ability.

So many of us are only half ourselves, only fifty per cent efficient, because we are victims of an insidious condition of acidity! That persistent tired feeling—that clouded mind—that lack of dash and fire—that missing punch that decides so many situations in business—are all usually due to an acid system.

Acidity is brought on by our unnatural eating, excessive smoking and irregular hours. It impairs digestion, and causes fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines and drags us down physically and mentally.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany.

This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids which do not have to be chewed, but may be swallowed whole.

Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active, oxygen. Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It exercises a stimulating effect upon the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity and Magnesia Oxoids supply them in a perfectly natural manner.

Make This Acidity Test

See for yourself how much acid has to do with your run-down condition and that persistent feeling of tiredness. Make this acid test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores, Economical Drug Stores or any other druggist on our money back guarantee. Take two after each meal. Note the pick-up in your pep and vigor. Mark the new peace of your stomach and nerves. If after taking contents of one bottle you don't notice a decided improvement in your health, return the bottle to your druggist and he will refund your money.

DEMOCRATS, LED BY LEWIS, TO GO FOR STATE TOUR

Will Open Campaign at Jacksonville.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—The Democratic campaign in Illinois will open one week from tomorrow in every congressional district of the state with James Hamilton Lewis, the nominee for United States senator, addressing the Democratic day assembly at the Morgan county fair in Jacksonville.

This was decided at a meeting here today of downstate members of the state central committee, who met to map out an itinerary and discuss details of the campaign.

Will Open at Jacksonville.

Mr. Lewis will speak in Jacksonville during the early afternoon and arrangements will be completed that will take him to some other city in that section of the state for a night rally.

With many localities demanding presence of the former senator, plans for drafting a complete itinerary today hit a snag and a committee of three was named to complete this work. It is composed of Thomas Donovan, Joliet, chairman of the state central committee, who presided at today's session; Edward P. Allen, Quincy, and J. R. Houston, Peoria. A proposal to establish downstate headquarters in Springfield was discussed but no action was taken.

Lewis Urges Organization.

Mr. Lewis addressed the gathering, stressing the need for complete organization throughout the state. The Cook county and downstate campaigns will be conducted separately.

Among Democratic leaders attending the meeting were: Edward J. Barrett, Chicago, candidate for state treasurer; Sarah Bond Hanley, Monmouth, chairman of the state convention; Congressman Henry T. Rainey, Carrollton; William H. Dieterich, Beardstown, and Walter Nesbit, Belleville, candidates for congressman at large.

Hunt Missing Boy

WALTER SWOBODA.
[Bodtke Photo.]

Otto Swoboda, 1448 North Wood street, appealed to the police yesterday to help him in his search for his oldest son, Walter Swoboda, 13 years old, who has been missing since Saturday.

The lad, when he left home, wore brown overalls with a wide blue stripe, and a baseball jacket. He had sought to work as a caddy at the Sunset Ridge golf club, but his father objected, and this is believed to have led the boy to leave home.

There are four other children, and the missing boy's mother, who is soon to give birth to another child, is in a critical state through worry over her first born.

King Baggott, Film Actor, Writer, Sued for Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—King Baggott, motion picture director, actor and writer, today was sued for divorce by Mrs. Baggott, who charges desertion. They were married Dec. 3, 1912, and separated Aug. 1, 1926. They have one son.

ALBERT RETIRES FROM RACE FOR COUNTY BOARD

G.O.P. Chiefs Cast About for a Successor.

The resignation of Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d] as Republican nominee for county commissioner was received yesterday by Bernard W. Snow, Republican county chairman, who immediately called a meeting of his managing committee and discussed plans for selecting Albert's successor on the county ticket.

Mr. Snow convened an executive session at the Bismarck hotel, but announced that it probably would be several days before a new candidate is named. However there was much comment concerning the probabilities of naming Samuel R. Ballis, Twentieth ward business man, who polled a large vote for the commissionership nomination in the primaries.

Albert Explains Withdrawal.

In announcing his withdrawal Ald. Albert said he had entered the race for commissioner merely to qualify as a candidate for president of the county board. Having been defeated for the presidency nomination, Mr. Albert said he felt he best could serve his constituency by remaining a member of the city council.

Several members of the Republican county committee, speaking unofficially, remarked that Ballis appeared to be the logical successor to Albert on the ticket. Ballis led the list of defeated candidates for commissioner in the primary by several thousand votes, and was only a few hundred behind the last of the ten candidates nominated.

Ballis Heads Business Group.

Ballis, who is the head of a chain store system, is vice president of the Halsted-Roosevelt Business Men's association, which sponsored his candidacy in the primary. He also was supported by Morris Eller, Twentieth ward committeeman and city collector.

Among the committeemen at the session yesterday was Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney. Eden T. Brekke, vice chairman; Edward F. Moore, and Charles Peace also attended the meeting.

Democrats Plan Rally.

Cook county Democrats were also active yesterday, Chairman Clayton F. Smith meeting with the county committee to arrange a program for their inaugural rally of the fall campaign at Riverview park Sunday, Sept. 14.

At another meeting of Democratic candidates and ward leaders in the Hotel Sherman, Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman, assailed the national Republican leaders for objecting to criticisms of President Hoover, saying these Republicans appeared to be trying to apply the ancient doctrine of divine right to American politics.

The 50th ward Democratic organization is to have a picnic on Saturday at Engsteler's grove, Lincoln and Devon avenues. The 30th ward Democrats will hold their annual picnic on Sunday at National grove, 28th street and Des Plaines avenue.

LONGEST, SMALLEST LETTERS CREDITED TO THIS IOWA WOMAN

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Measuring 1,340 feet by three-fourths of an inch, the longest letter ever mailed, was posted here today by Mrs. Lizzie Carson, 73, of Iowa City.

The missive of 32,160 words was addressed to Mrs. Carson's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Foster, of Fort Dodge, Ia., and is intended for their thirtieth wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Carson also claims the distinction of mailing the smallest letter in the world, having posted one the size of a postage stamp to the same destination several months ago.

HURT DEHORNING A COW; DIES.

HOOVER ACCEPTS 2 MORE DATES TO TALK IN OCTOBER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—President Hoover accepted two additional speaking engagements today, crowding his schedule so as to include four speeches during the first seven days of October.

Invitations accepted today were for addresses before the American Bankers' association in Cleveland, O., on the night of Oct. 2, and the annual congress of the American Federation of Labor at Boston on the afternoon of Oct. 6.

The President already had announced acceptance of an engagement to speak at the American Legion convention in Boston on the morning of Oct. 6. He will leave there late in the afternoon by special train for a twenty hour trip to King's mountain, on the line between North and South Carolina, where he will deliver an address as part of the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the battle of King's mountain.

TWO GANGSTERS JAILED UNDER VAGRANCY ACT

Judge Lyle Speeds Trial in Attorney's Absence.

clerk, and he went on: "Do you demand a jury trial or trial by the court?"

"I want a lawyer," Alderman repeated.

"He stands mute," the clerk recorded, and the trial proceeded to the accompaniment of newspaper photographers' booming flashlights. Alderman sought to hide his face behind his straw hat.

The judge turned to Lieut. Johnson and asked him to state the evidence against Alderman. The witness explained the circumstances of the arrest, told of Alderman's criminal activities, and how, despite the $650 in his pockets, he had no lawful occupation.

Detective Tells of Past.

Detective Sergeant David Levin amplified Johnson's testimony with similar recollections of Alderman's evil past, and then the judge turned to Alderman.

"What have you to say in defense?" he asked the gangster.

"I want a lawyer," the hoodlum lamented. "My lawyer's getting a writ for me now." Judge Lyle cleared his throat.

"There being no further defense," he said, "the court finds the defendant guilty of being a vagrant, a dissolute person, a gangster whose only occupation is that of peddling alcohol, and an enemy of society, and the court [now the judge looks Alderman in the eye] therefore sentences you to serve six months at hard labor and to pay a fine of $100. Call the next case."

Condi Is Tried Next.

He pleaded not guilty. When the question of whether he desired trial by court or jury was asked, Condi looked about, as though for a lawyer, and then he began to say:

"I don't know—"

"He stands mute," the clerk intoned, and another trial was started. Lieut. Johnson said he had no information concerning Condi except Condi's own admissions that he had served a sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for violation of the anti-narcotic act, and that he had been arrested on suspicion in Kansas City, Detroit, and Chicago. Investigator Roche verified the gangster's admissions. Condi had also admitted that he had no job since leaving the penitentiary, but $250 was found in his pockets.

Then the judge turned to Condi.

Gambling No Offense, Says Court.

"Well, judge," the hoodlum said, "I haven't been able to get a job. I didn't do anything wrong. I ran a couple of horse race books—"

"That's no crime," the judge interposed. "Gambling isn't any offense so far as this court is concerned."

Asked how he happened to be in the company of Alderman, Condi said he had met the hoodlum casually in various gambling houses. He pleaded that he had a wife and three children to support and in the next breath admitted that he was separated from his wife.

Gives Photographers Opportunity.

Then the judge imposed the same sentence on Condi. He whispered a few minutes with the photographers and then ordered that Alderman be returned before the bench. With both gangsters standing there, the photographers boomed repeatedly while the judge busied himself with signing papers.

"Have you had enough?" the judge asked the photographers, and when it was indicated the photographers had had plenty of shots the udge turned to Alderman and Condi and said:

"I'm going to see to it that you men really get hard labor out there at the Bridewell and not the soft jobs that I hear they have been handing out to favorite customers. And when your six months is done and you are released take this advice from me: Get out of Chicago. If you don't you'll be in for another dose."

"These Cases a Pleasure."

Then the judge turned to Investigator Roche and said:

"Mr. Roche, it is a pleasure for the court to function in these cases."

The hoodlums filed away in the custody of bailiffs, the judge ordering that they be taken immediately to the Bridewell.

As a prologue to the main event, Judge Lyle had accepted bonds of $15,000 for Peter von Frantzius, gun dealer, who surrendered in court yesterday on a charge preferred in a warrant issued by Judge Lyle, to the effect that Von Frantzius was an accessory before the fact to the murder of Lingle. The case of Von Frantzius, who has admitted having sold the revolver with which Lingle was killed, was set for hearing Sept. 24 in the Felony court, to which Judge Lyle expects to be transferred.

Attorney Wants Aiello Guns Returned.

The judge also considered the plea of attorneys for Joe Aiello, notorious leader of the Zuta-Moran-Aiello gang, for the return of a revolver and a shotgun and ammunition, which were taken from the Aiello home on a search warrant issued by Judge Lyle.

"You bring Joe Aiello and his brother Dominick into my court on next Tuesday," said Judge Lyle. "If they can prove to the satisfaction of the court that they are honest, reliable citizens, and that they have a lawful purpose for possessing these weapons, and that they are not kept for the purpose of killing people, the court will take those facts into consideration. I am sure Mr. Roche here will be most anxious to question your clients."

"We will present a sworn petition setting forth their claims," Attorney Benjamin H. Vanderveld responded.

Wants Clients, Not Epistles.

"No," the udge said. "We don't want any missiles sent in here. Wait—do I mean 'missiles'? Ah, missives, no, I have it, epistles! We don't want any any epistles in here. Bring in your clients next Tuesday and we'll have a look at them."

"I'll communicate your honor's request to my clients," the lawyer said.

"Where are they?" the judge asked.

"I will ask your honor not to press that question."

Judge Lyle smiled.

"Well," he said, "if I never see you again, gentlemen of the Aiello counsel, you will have done your work exceedingly well."

When Judge Lyle was informed of the impending action before Judge McGoorty in the habeas corpus action, he said:

"When Judge McGoorty considered the writ he had in mind the booking of Alderman and Condi. They were properly taken before me by Pat Roche, whose prisoners they were. They got a little speedy justice. Let the records speak for themselves."

Alcock Hostile, Says Lyle.

The epilogue in the Lyle program came when the judge, accompanied by Lieut. Johnson, visited Acting Police Commissioner Alcock in the latter's office. Judge Lyle said he went to give what aid he could in the preparation of a proper return to be made by the police in response to the habeas corpus writ issued by Judge McGoorty for Alderman and Condi.

Judge Lyle said Alcock immediately assumed a hostile attitude, berating the judge and Lieut. Johnson for the methods employed in prosecuting Alderman and Condi. Finally the acting police commissioner, according to the report, shouted at Judge Lyle:

The judge whipped off his glasses. During his days on the city council Lyle was noted for his readiness to defend himself from attack, and he has engaged in numerous fistic encounters, never yet having taken the count, so far as is known.

Lyle advanced toward Alcock, and a battle seemed imminent, but Lieut. Johnson jumped between the heated antagonists and succeeded in preventing any blows being struck.

RECOVER BODY IN DRAINAGE CANAL; PASSPORT CLEW

A body, believed to have been in the water six weeks, was taken from the drainage canal yesterday at Lockport. A passport to Italy, dated Oct. 2, 1924, found in the coat, bore the name of Francisco Pasquale.

Whether he had been a victim of gang killers could not be determined in the first examination. A postmortem is to be conducted at the county morgue.

The man was about 55 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, with brown hair and eyes.

M'CABE, ACCUSED BY A DIVORCEE, IS EXONERATED

Edward J. McCabe, 39, 4926 Washington boulevard, president of the Kingsbury Beverage company and formerly secretary to several prominent Democratic politcians, was exonerated yesterday by Judge John Sbarbaro in the Felony court on a charge of operating a confidence game. The judge ruled that there was not even sufficient evidence to justify belief that there was a probable cause for action.

The warrant against McCabe was obtained by Miss Alta Brineman, 31 years old, 1111 Hyde Park boulevard, a divorcée. Before she took out the warrant she started a $100,000 suit. McCabe testified yesterday that the woman also placed a Mann act charge against him. The confidence game charge was based on Miss Brineman's claim that she had given McCabe $3,500 to invest in stocks and that he failed to do so or to return the money.

Attorney Thomas D. Nash said that Miss Brineman often asked his client, McCabe, for money, and that when he could not afford to give her any she started court actions.

Test this amazing Kolynos Antiseptic Foam with its Unique Dry-Brush Technique that gets astonishing results — quickly restores teeth to their natural, gleaming whiteness

by removing Bacterial-Mouth (you have it)

IF the mere thought of your teeth causes bitter regret, switch to Kolynos. Within a few days you will discover to your delight how brilliant and sparkling white your teeth can be.

As your dentist will tell you, ugly yellow discoloration, decay, and even gum diseases are unnatural. They have a common source in a condition that confronts all of us—all the time.

It is due to germs that sweep into the mouth with every breath. They thrive and attack teeth and gums. Authorities call it Bacterial-Mouth.

Remove this condition and teeth whiten amazingly. The ordinary tooth paste won't do it. But Kolynos will. It quickly and safely kills the germs that cause Bacterial-Mouth.

Dentists Approve Amazing Dry-Brush Technique

Use no water with Kolynos. It is totally different from any toothpaste you have ever used. It permits the wonderfully effective Dry-Brush Technique, approved by dental authorities. For each brushing a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush is prescribed.

As soon as it enters the mouth Kolynos instantly multiplies 25 times. It becomes a surging, antiseptic FOAM, cooling, refreshing, and smooth.

This FOAM gets into every crevice, pit and fissure. It kills germs that cause Bacterial-Mouth. It purifies oral tissue and neutralizes acids that promote decay. It combats tartar.

Without injury to teeth or gums it cleans teeth down to the naked white enamel—makes them sparkling white as they were in your childhood.

Safeguards Beauty

For 3 hours after each brushing this famous Kolynos Antiseptic FOAM continues to polish teeth and guard you against Bacterial-Mouth.

Switch to Kolynos and see how gloriously white your teeth can be. Scrub teeth and gums vigorously morning and night—using the Dry-Brush Technique. Within 3 days your teeth will look whiter—fully 3 shades. Gums will look firmer, pinker. Your mouth will feel cleaner and fresher. And you'll understand why this amazing dental cream is winning thousands of new users every day. Get a tube from your druggist.

That DIRTY moulding looks awful!

To clean it quick use* GOLD DUST—*It will not scratch or mar . . .

DON'T you just HATE to see a moulding with a thick coat of DUST? Nothing looks as CARELESS and SLOPPY. But it IS so hard for many women to get the moulding really CLEAN.

That's because they use the WRONG kind of soap. They try to make expensive CHIPS or FLAKES do the job. Or one of those GRITTY CLEANSERS that contain so little soap.

That's no way to get rid of DIRTY DIRT. No WONDER so many housewives SIGH and GROAN when they have heavy-duty cleaning to do. If those foolish housewives were SMART they'd use Gold Dust, that PEPPY soap that gets things really CLEAN.

Just a tablespoonful of Gold Dust to a pail of water is enough for cleaning woodwork. No hard RUBBING or SCRUBBING. No backbreaking work. This magic soap DISSOLVES the dirt and WASHES it away.

Remember, for all housework where there's dirty dirt to clean, use Gold Dust. Get a package from your grocer TODAY. He carries it in two convenient sizes.

Woodwork washed with expensive flakes or chips looks gray and smudgy, not quite clean.

Harsh cleansers are so likely to scratch and mar. And they leave unsightly deposits of grit.

Your grocer—newspaper—and your own eyes, when you go to market—will tell you that this is the year to put up fruit.

DON'T let this summer go by without putting up some preserves, jellies and jams. Your family will certainly thank you, and with every jar and glass you open next winter, you'll save real money.

Every menu has a place for canned fruit of some sort. You can make economical desserts and salads with it that are wholesome and delicious. For breakfast, a dish of canned peaches, plums or pears is a pleasing variation from fresh fruit and often better for children.

Remember, too, that appetising sweet relishes, made of tomatoes, cabbage, cucumbers and melon rind, are delicious with meat and fish.

Plan now to put up some fruit for next winter's needs. Even though you only have a few jars stored away you will be well repaid when you enjoy their goodness. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

VETERAN PILOTS PUT TO TEST BY LOW MISSISSIPPI

Navigation Is Precarious, Hurley Party Learns.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard U. S. Gen. Allen, near Clinton, Ia., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—A large glass cage sits atop each of the stern wheeler steamers which ply the upper Mississippi, convoying fleets of the Inland Waterways corporation, the government organization which has 17 tow boats and 145 barges in service.

Here is the sanctum where none save the most privileged may intrude. A calm personage known as the master pilot presides. A pilot whose experience does not date back to the '90s maintains a modest reticence. Capt. Henning of this steamer took his position at the wheel in 1890 and has been peering over the prow of a river boat ever since.

From these old time river men may be gained perhaps the truest picture of present transportation conditions on the Mississippi as compared with the past.

River Lowest in Years.

They will tell you that the river has not been as low in 27 years; that if it were not for the dams and other works built by the government, navigation would be entirely stopped for this season. Secretary of War Hurley and his party of engineers, cruising down the Mississippi from St. Paul to New Orleans, are learning much from the steamboat pilots.

The glass enclosed pilot house is roomy and comfortable. The great steering wheel is the center of attention. Only one-half of the wheel is visible, the lower half disappearing beneath the floor, but the pilot's head barely tops the uppermost spoke. The wheel is a good eleven feet in diameter.

The pilot does not spin this great wheel with his hands. Instead, he wields an appliance which resembles nothing so much as a street car motorman's lever. He turns this lever to the right and the wheel spins. He brings the lever back to neutral position and the wheel stops. Turning the lever to the left spins the wheel in an opposite direction. The flat bottomed stern wheeler responds slowly to the whirl of the spokes.

Course Is Tortuous One.

In the rear of the pilot house is a broad cushioned seat where privileged persons may sit, observe and converse. On a moonlight night the broad river, a rippling highway of silver stretching ahead, this reporter watched Capt. Henning, tranquilly chewing a toothpick, guide the steamer through tortuous bends and turns.

He pulled a cord and the hoarse panting exhaust from the two tall chimneys became subdued. The boat slowed to a drifting speed.

"Kinda feel there's a shallow spot here," he explained. "When she's goin' fast she squats down in the water and is liable to scrape. Slowing down brings her six inches up and that's a lot of space for this river."

"River hasn't been so low in a long time," he continued. "The government's dams and such have kept it up so far, but a lot more work has got to be done if the ships and barges are to be kept going."

The boat increases its speed.

Pilot Senses Deeper Water.

"Nice deep hole along here," remarked the captain. "We can make a little time."

"How do you know it's deep here?"

"Can't you feel her gettin 'along easier? She knows when the bottom ain't so near."

Various natural landmarks, buoys and lights are guide posts for the pilot. He named a few as the boat progressed. They were hardly discernible from the pilot house, but the great wheel spun as they were passed and the boat veered from one side of the river to the other.

A 9 foot channel, planned for the future, will allow a deck hand to take his turn at the wheel.

Hurley Visits Dubuque.

Secretary Hurley today spent an hour at Dubuque, Ia., where the citizens put $350,000 into the construction of a terminal which allows freight to be loaded from barges on to railroad cars and vice versa.

P. S. Falkes, president of the dock commission, said that 9,000 tons of freight passed through the terminal last June and 5,000 tons in July.

"Our tonnage increased during the spring, when the railroads were losing business," he said. "It is only the low water scare which is holding us back now. Give us the assurance of a navigable channel throughout the season and our river freightage will increase immensely."

The new government boat, Herbert Hoover, under construction at Dubuque, which Maj. Gen. Thomas Q. Ashburn, chairman of the Inland Waterways corporation, declared will be the most powerful steamer operating on any river in the world, when complete, was also inspected by Mr. Hurley.

Ask Mrs. Hoover to Launch It.

Mrs. Hoover will be invited to launch the boat, Gen. Ashburn announced, and Mrs. Hurley, wife of the secretary of war, to christen it.

The Hoover, 415 feet long, will develop 2,600 horsepower and will be able to pull 10,000 tons on barges upstream, or 16,000 tons downstream, the latter load being the equivalent of 10 freight trains of 80 carloads apiece. The boat will be launched early next spring.

At Clinton, a conference was held with local officials regarding a proposed terminal, completion of which has been held up by the failure of a city bond issue.

"Joint rates highly desirable to shippers could be put into effect with the Chicago and North Western railroad if a terminal is built here," Maj. Gen. Ashburn told the officials.

As a result of the conference, the Clinton representatives were said to have told Mr. Hurley that an endeavor would be made to procure funds for the terminal.

GIRL BALKS SAFE ROBBER.

Held up twice before, Miss Genevieve Ruttberg, 23 years old, cashier of a realty company at 129 East Pershing road, told a Negro bandit yesterday who had demanded she open the safe, "I can't; you'll have to do the best you can." He couldn't open it, so departed with $27 taken from the cash register.

WHEELER CALLS U.S. 'SUCKERS' FOR IGNORING RUSSIA

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—From Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and from S. Stanwood Menken, president of the National Security league, both of whom returned from Europe today, came statements that soviet Russia should be recognized by the United States.

Senator Wheeler declared the United States is "a bunch of suckers" in failing to recognize the soviet government.

"Everywhere I went abroad I found the argument that America should not recognize Russia, while everywhere abroad Russia is recognized and the European countries are getting all of the business.

Menken, avowed foe of communism, who recently advocated deportation laws to oust communists, declared recognition would be "the moral and the sensible thing to do," but that his opinion of communism remained unchanged.

"Russia to my mind represents the greatest potential market in the world for American made goods."

30 INDICTED FOR FRAUD IN SALES OF LAND IN WEST

False Promises Charged Against Group.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—After an investigation occupying the best part of a year, the federal grand jury for southern California today returned indictments against thirty persons, charging conspiracy to misuse the mails in connection with land sales operations of a corporation known as Romola, Inc.

Millions of dollars and the investments of thousands of persons were involved in the operations which were reviewed and challenged by the grand jury. Among those indicted was John F. Eagan, described as Chicago representative of Romola, Inc.

False Promises Charged.

According to Assistant United States Attorneys Peter Davis and Gwyn S. Redwine, who handled the investigations and were consulted by the grand jurors, the land selling corporation disposed of acreage both in Riverside county, California, and Maricopa county, Arizona, on a grand scale. The grand jurors in their indictments charged that the company misrepresented and made hollow promises about fig growing land in California and grapefruit orchards in Arizona.

One of the charges is that the company promised to cultivate the land, irrigate, prune trees and replace those which died. This it is asserted, was not done. Another charge is that officials and representatives of the corporation promised investors, many of whom were attracted from the middle west, that they would have a steady income from their investments, whereas this did not take place.

Water Supplies Promised.

Other charges were that the company falsely promised that it would install investors on lands with an ample water supply, whose soil would be fit for irrigation and domestic use, but this was not carried out. Other alleged misrepresentations concerned the value of the acreage.

One of those indicted is Freeman H. Bloodgood, former deputy real estate commissioner of California, who, United States Attorney Davis said, had objected to the operations of Romola, Inc., while he was occupying his state job, but later entered employ of the land company.

If you suspect

KIDNEY TROUBLE

The symptoms of kidney trouble are often obscure—and sometimes a serious condition has developed before people are aware that they have kidney trouble. If you are bothered with headaches, backaches, sluggishness, dizziness, nervous, tired feeling, investigate the condition of your kidneys. Mountain Valley Mineral Water has been famous for over 75 years as an aid in the treatment and prevention of kidney disorders. It relieves the burden on the kidneys by promoting elimination through all four of the body channels. A well-known physician has written, "It has become routine procedure with me to prescribe Mountain Valley Mineral Water for my kidney disease patients." It is wise to be suspicious of your kidneys—they can start a lot of trouble. Learn more. Phone for booklet today.

EMPLOYERS DEMAND TRAINED MEN

Big business no longer has the time or inclination to educate untrained help. Today, nine times out of ten the first question asked is: "What training have you had?" "What can you do?" There are two ways of acquiring experience. One is to spend long years at poorly paid routine work. The other is a Walton Course in Executive Accounting with its unequaled record of more than 1,000 Certified Public Accountants, nine successive years of American Institute honor winners, and twenty medals for high honors in the Illinois C. P. A. Examinations. Why not take the short route to a high salaried executive position by entering our classes in—

When Pain Comes
Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle — any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

ALD. McDONOUGH PEPS UP SUBWAY BUILDING PLANS

Gets Pledge of Funds and Spurs Engineers.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Some progress was apparently made yesterday in subway planning, with Ald. Joseph B. McDonough [13th], chairman of the council local transportation committee, taking an aggressive part.

He headed a delegation which prevailed upon the South park commission yesterday morning to permit a surface car line in 51st street between South Park way and Cottage Grove avenue. He followed this by inducing City Controller Schmidt to make available $5,000,000 of the city's traction fund for subway construction. Later in the afternoon he appeared before the board of advisory engineers to urge construction as soon as practicable.

Urges Start on Jobs.

"Every one interested in Chicago wants subways started," Ald. McDonough told the engineers. "Why cannot some digging start at once. If some sections of the subway—such as the tunnel under the river—are not to be built by special assessment, let's have such jobs started.

"You must make some speed, if we are to have a subway for the World's fair. Work now would relieve unemployment. Workmen who spent $17 for a silk shirt a few years back now haven't $17 with which to pay their rent.

"You asked for $2,500,000 for subway construction before March 1 next, and I have prevailed upon the city controller to make $5,000,000 available. Why can't you go faster?"

Want Legal Question Cleared.

"If the lawyers will settle some questions it would help us," spoke up Edward J. Noonan, one of the advisory engineers.

"Maj. Kelker asked them a number of specific questions," said George Lenth, another member.

"That was last July—latter part of July," added Chairman George Wisner.

"It was in the form of a letter," explained Maj. Kelker, chief subway engineer.

"What are these questions," asked Ald. McDonough. "I'll see the lawyers about them."

"Principally the questions of what part of the subway can be constructed by special assessment and the liability for damages," answered Mr. Noonan. Later Chairman Wisner expressed the opinion that the engineers are getting along well with their work.

Contractors Are Consulted.

The meeting yesterday was primarily for the purpose of getting the opinion of contractors. The advisory engineers have been discussing for several days the advisibility of making borings to determine the character of the soil to be encountered in building a subway in State street. They have also been considering the merits of putting the subway on caissons or on piles.

The contractors consulted are William J. Newman of Newman & Co., Arthur H. Wells of John Griffiths & Son Co., Henry Paschen of Paschen Brothers, J. J. Casey of the Underground Construction company, and F. J. Herlihy of the Herlihy Mid-Continent company. These Chairman Wisner described as having the largest experience with subsoil of any contractors in Chicago.

Each man told of the buildings erected along the route, of the soils encountered, and of the soil excavated in the construction of the freight tunnels under the streets and the street railway tunnels under the river.

Favor Clay Level 34 Feet Deep.

It was their opinion that no borings are necessary. They said that they had all the information they needed on the character of the soil, and if they deemed borings necessary they would not rely on the borings of the city, but would do their own boring.

It was also their view that the subway can be laid on the clay at 34 feet below the street level. They agreed that caissons to rock were an unnecessary expense and that a foundation on piles is not needed. Each contractor also said that a subway without piling or caissons will permit new buildings to be erected along State street without serious damage to the subway, if proper care is exercised in the building operation.

No formal action was taken setting forth the policy of the advisory engineers, but Chairman Wisner said later that he thought they will follow the advice of the contractors, except in an extraordinary situation.

Robert Ridgway, chief consulting engineer, who is in charge of subway construction in New York, attended the meeting. He did not indicate by his questioning that his views oppose those of the contractors.

"I would like to see Chicago contractors and Chicago labor employed on the subway," commented Ald. McDonough.

"If they cannot build your subway, I do not know who can," commented Mr. Ridgway. "They know more intimately than any others the character of your soil."

The contractors said that they would be glad to supply all information they have on soils at different spots. They also suggested that each architect has a record of soil on each building designed and constructed.

"The contractors tell me on the side they are hungry for work," said Chairman Wisner at another point.

"We are ready to bid," said Mr. Newman.

COUNTY AGAIN DELAYS PRINTING OF ASSESSMENTS

Publication of 1928 real estate assessments to enable property owners to know how their neighbors were assessed was delayed again yesterday by the county board. For the second time the county commissioners rejected bids for printing. The failure of the board to make a decision on the letting of the contract has held up the publication for two months. The latest postponement by the board will delay the publication at least two weeks.

The commissioners voted against the recommendation of a subcommittee, headed by Commissioner Oscar W. Schmidt, that the contract be awarded to the Atwell Printing company at a bid of $52,697 as against a bid of $40,283 by the Magill-Weinsheimer company. The subcommittee recommended the acceptance of the higher bid because it was made by a company employing union labor, while the low bidder employs nonunion men.

Williams Oil-O-Matic announces the greatest advance since oil heating was invented
THE DIFFUSOR

AMAZING new quietness and still greater economy is made possible by this latest and greatest development of Williams engineers... the new Oil-O-Matic Diffusor. Now, with the new Diffusor, Williams Oil-O-Matic becomes so quiet you do not hear it start or stop!

Built into the burner this new Diffusor creates a new and more perfect mixture of fuel oil and air inside the furnace. An absolutely even pressure is assured. The resulting combustion is so complete that you can quickly see the saving on your oil bills. This latest saving is in addition to the economy of low priced fuel oil which Williams advanced engineering permits you to burn.

Stop at the nearest Oil-O-Matic showroom today. Learn other interesting facts about this new Diffusor, the Williams metering pump and other exclusive Oil-O-Matic advantages. Without a moment's thought or effort, your entire house is automatically maintained at exactly the temperature you prefer.

Learn why neighboring home owners say the cleanliness and comfort of Williams automatic oil heating costs little more per year than old, dirty, wasteful ways of shoveling coal! See why Oil-O-Matic was chosen by far more buyers than any other burner! Then ask about our special September offer which will install a new Oil-O-Matic in your present heating plant before the first chilly fall days.

"It's the Diffusor that makes it so quiet"

Read how Williams new OIL-O-MATIC DIFFUSOR
Saves you money—and makes your burner unbelievably quiet

It seems almost incredible that this simple Diffusor could make a burner operate so quietly and so economically. Built into the burner, the new Diffusor automatically creates a more perfect mixture of fuel oil and air inside your furnace. An absolutely even pressure is assured. The resulting combustion is so complete that you can see the saving on your oil bills. Your own ears will tell you this Oil-O-Matic is more quiet than any other burner approved to burn low cost fuel oil. This latest saving is in addition to the saving in operating cost from using low cost fuel oil instead of expensive distillate oils. Government tests show fuel oil heating costs as much as 30% less than using lighter grades of distillate oils.

PROFITS FROM 50-CENT WHEAT.

The other day in Des Moines, Alexander Legge, chairman of the farm board, in the course of his campaign for a reduction of wheat acreage in this country, said:

"There is slight prospect of the American farmer getting a profitable return on wheat in the export field. So long as he produces a surplus far in excess of the quantity that the domestic market will consume he must be content to accept the world price for his entire crop. . . ."

The average cost of raising a bushel of wheat in the United States has been estimated at $1.24. September wheat has been selling of late at less than 90 cents in Chicago. Such a relationship cannot continue indefinitely. Mr. Legge's recommendation to reduce acreage, if followed, will tend to right the balance somewhat, but it is evident that in addition to acreage reduction there will have to be extensive abandonment of acres now in cultivation. If the average cost is $1.24, there must be hundreds of thousands of farmers whose costs are far higher. With a price of less than 90 cents in the open market, the present tariff of 42 cents a bushel could not save the high-cost farmers even if the United States had to import wheat.

We can no longer count upon a growing demand from abroad to advance prices. On the contrary, a recent memorandum compiled by the economic and financial section of the league of nations shows that in the last few years the production of foodstuffs in Europe, excluding Russia, has increased more rapidly than in any other section of the world. The result is to be explained, probably, by the increased use of machinery and especially by extremely high tariff protection for European farmers. There is no reason to anticipate a change in either regard. Meanwhile the agricultural production of other parts of the world is growing. Canada, the Argentine, Australia, and now Russia are competitors for a European market whose demands on the rest of the world are growing slowly if at all.

The difficulty of the problem which faces Mr. Legge can hardly be exaggerated. While he is seeking to induce wheat growers to reduce acreage Mr. Hickman Price of Amarillo, Tex., announces that on his 30,000 acres in the panhandle he can grow wheat which will yield a profit if he receives only 50 cents a bushel for it. Any success which Mr. Legge has in raising prices by bringing about acreage reduction may serve only to stimulate increased planting by low-cost producers like Mr. Price, for human nature has never resisted the lure of high profits. In consequence, the high-cost producer may be forced to abandon his unprofitable acres sooner than he otherwise might have done. That is not what the farm board was set up to do, but it may prove to be the salvation of American agriculture.

A good deal of the suffering incident to this transition might be avoided if the state and national governments and private capital would cooperate in a plan for converting the abandoned acres into timber lands wherever possible. It is clear, now, that the farm board's purchases of wheat in the open market were costly and ineffective in keeping prices up. The money might have been better spent in encouraging the marginal farmers to grow timber.

A GOOD DAY'S WORK IN CRIME PREVENTION.

The federal government the other day sent 156 aliens back to the countries they came from. The number included criminals, mental incompetents, and a good many who had entered this country illegally. Seventy-eight of the 156 were collected in the Chicago district.

That was a good day's work and it ought to be followed by others devoted to the same high purpose. By no means are all the criminals in this country aliens and the deportation of all alien criminals would not put an end to gangster violence in Chicago and other large cities, but there is no doubt that wholesale deportations of felons will go a long way toward relieving the situation. In this matter the federal government must cooperate with the state and local governments if anything is to be accomplished.

For a good many years the federal government has taken its responsibility in this matter too lightly. Of late, thanks, we believe, in large part to agitation in this newspaper, Washington has awakened to its opportunity to prevent crimes by deporting the men who may be expected to commit them. The vigorous pursuit of this policy will serve better than any other measure which has been suggested to check criminal tendencies in our immigrant colonies. The penalty of deportation as the inevitable consequence of conviction of crime may deter some men from committing felonies and cannot fail to eliminate a dangerous element from our population.

Every immigrant is here on sufferance. There is no inalienable right to come to the United States to live. The standard is not high: all that is required of an immigrant is that he behave himself after admission. It is the federal government's duty to see that this minimum standard is maintained.

AVIATION MOVES ON.

The brilliant achievement of Coste and Bellonte adds two names to the roster of fame. France is justly proud of her gallant sons and America joins the applause that runs round the world.

But the French airmen's wonderful flight is more than a historic feat. It marks another stride forward in man's conquest of the air. Since the first tragic attempts to cross the Atlantic knowledge has steadily grown and means have been perfected. The plane that Coste and Bellonte used is a better vehicle than their earlier predecessors had, its engine more reliable. They planned their flight more thoroughly, with more knowledge of the complex problem involved. The accumulations of information and experience they were able to draw upon diminished the margin of chance which every aviator has had to meet, many of them to their destruction. That they made the best possible use of these accumulations is greatly to their credit and makes their victory more valuable to the world as well as more honorable to themselves and to French aviation. They have not only proved their own skill, knowledge, and gallantry but they have reminded us that the art and science of aviation is moving rapidly and that a new epoch in man's progress is here.

BACK TO AMERICANISM.

The ideas of the new prohibition director as to dry law enforcement methods represent a new phase of the prohibition experiment which will be welcomed by every good citizen whether a supporter or opponent of prohibition. It has arrived tardily and with difficulty, the result not of inner grace or enlightenment, but of a rising storm of public indignation so violent as to alarm even the fanatics and hard boiled professionals who have been dictating to weak kneed politicians.

The methods of dry law enforcement have written a shameful chapter of American history. At first public opinion reserved judgment on the assumption that they were or might be the excesses of irresponsible individuals. But as these outrages on law and justice multiplied and their perpetrators were energetically defended by the government the full significance of the situation became clear. It then began to be realized that a definite régime of tyranny was being established in Washington, morally and politically supported and directed by the Anti-Saloon league, the W. C. T. U., and associated agencies purporting to represent religion and morality in action. THE TRIBUNE and other American newspapers had been pointing out this reality and protesting against each outrage against American justice and liberty, and it is to a free press which has refused to be bullied into silence that the promised reform of method is primarily due.

If this reform is realized it will be a notable victory for American principle and the American spirit. If it is not realized it will hasten the end of the prohibition experiment. Opponents of prohibition might logically prefer the latter alternative, but THE TRIBUNE'S opposition runs deeper than the problem of liquor control. THE TRIBUNE believes as thoroughly as any dry that intemperance is a misfortune and the abuse of alcohol a curse. It fought the organized liquor traffic and favors the most efficient control we can contrive for it. But it believes also that the maintenance of the principles of American liberty under law is more important to the welfare of the nation than anything else and that any effort to control or suppress the evils of the liquor traffic must respect those principles as prohibition does not. Any movement, therefore, which is clearly toward a responsible recognition of the fundamentals of American government and of the American spirit is to be welcomed. Although the proposed reform of enforcement methods has been forced upon the prohibition régime and will not be perpetuated unless the American public stands guard over its rights, it represents a victory for Americanism, its principles and its spirit.

ARMY AND NAVY PUBLICITY.

The retiring chief of staff, Gen. Summerall, urges officers of the army to write for the service publications. We wish he would broaden his appeal and urge them to write for the civilian press. In doing so he would have to bring about a change in the official attitude which has never been friendly to the frank discussion of army or navy conditions or problems by officers. War and navy department censorship has been unduly fearful of indiscretion and at times tyrannically jealous of dissent. Its general tendency has been injurious to candor and to intellectual initiative, like that of all bureaucracies.

Yet it is of great importance that public opinion should have the benefit to be derived from the discussion of military science and experience, of the just principles of policy, of the conditions of defense. This is essential to wise lawmaking and to wise public policy. It is essential to an appreciation of defense objectives and of the army and navy as agencies of the public welfare. We will not and cannot adequately provide for the common defense unless the nation is indoctrinated with sound principles and the public kept interested in the problems which defense involves. It is not as easy as it ought to be to gain access to the press for informative discussion in this field of vital national interest, but certainly the effort should be persistently made and not discouraged or even suppressed by bureaucratic hostility.

Editorial of the Day

WASTED ADVERTISING.

[Enquirer and Evening News, Battle Creek, Mich.]

News that was different from that which puts Chicago affairs on the front page so often came out of there the other day, reporting that more than 100,000 persons attended a music festival, 60,000 others craned necks at the national air races, and 45,000 jammed in to a baseball game.

That indicates a considerable reach of public interest and a wide variety of worth-while events to attend. Few cities in the world could offer as diversified a program on the same day or expect to attract as large and enthusiastic audiences.

Such news is far better advertising for the city of Chicago than an account of the latest gang murder or the newest city hall scandal, yet crime is so frequent and so violent there that it cannot be kept in the background. It is highly unfortunate that a great city which has so much that is worth while should become known throughout the world as the home of gangland.

NEW MOSQUITO TYPE.

A NEW variety of mosquito has been found in the Chicago area; that is, it is new to that area or to those who are now interested in it. Those interested in mosquito control in the tropics have known of this troublesome customer for some time. The peculiarity of this fellow is that his larva or wriggletail can live under water for an indefinite term, and also that he customarily freezes up in winter and then changes to a mosquito the following spring. The eggs are laid as rafts on the surface of the water. When the wigglers hatch they dive for a water plant and hang on. They have a hard trunk or sticker which they plunge into the plant and through which they suck from the plant the air needed by the larva.

Plainly, efforts to suffocate the larva by covering the water with oil cannot reach this fellow, since he dives and stays down. Even if oil acts as a larvacide more than as a suffocater, as is now the general opinion, it cannot satisfactorily reach him as he holds on to the vegetation. For the same reason, the use of paris green as a larvacide, and the use of minnows, are not entirely satisfactory. There are small permanent bodies of water in which these troublesome mosquitoes are breeding. It does not seem possible to drain these ponds. In spite of the shortcomings of both methods, the use of larvacides and of minnows should be tried.

Mr. J. L. Clarke, a sanitary engineer of broad experience in mosquito control, recommended that the railroad companies whose men are made uncomfortable by this mosquito nuisance make use of repellents. A spray of kerosene in which pyrethrum is suspended and dissolved would be effective inside cars and other somewhat inclosed spaces. It is efficacious against mosquitoes in places to which it is suited, but volatilizes and needs to be used frequently. A wood tar oil or coal tar oil could be painted and slopped around with some advantage. These preparations are more enduring than kerosene. Mosquitoes do not like their odor or their taste.

It is not known that this mosquito carries any disease, but it is a nuisance, and nuisances run into discomfort, inefficiency, and waste of money.

SOAP CHAPS BABY'S SKIN.

E. D. writes: What is the best way to care for the skin of a child 3 years old when the skin is sensitive to soap and chaps very easily? Is soap necessary? Should a cold cream be used to keep the skin from chapping?

REPLY.

If the skin will not stand soap, clean with a cream. Some sensitive skins stand steam baths. Some can use borax water instead of soap and water. Bran water sometimes is acceptable to a delicate skin. No soap substitute equals soap as a cleanser, but some of them are fair cleansers as well as bland. A cold cream may be used to prevent chapping.

NO AID TO HAIR.

Mrs. M. C. writes: Does burdock tea help to make hair grow?

REPLY.

No.

TO GAIN WEIGHT.

A. H. N. writes: What is the best thing to take to increase weight? I never see much about how to increase weight, but a lot on how to lose it.

REPLY.

Get eight hours of sleep at regular hours each night. Take an afternoon nap. Cultivate calm and poise. Avoid worry, nervousness, and fidgeting. In addition to three regular meals of good, wholesome foods, eat a bowl of milk and crackers or sugared rice at least once daily, preferably at bedtime. Wild rice is the better kind for you.

DIET YOUR ONLY HOPE.

M. G. writes: What can I take or do internally to reduce about 30 or 40 pounds? I am not a sympathizer of dieting. I only mean a medicine or certain baths.

REPLY.

You cannot reduce your weight 30 or 40 pounds by taking medicines or baths. It is diet or nothing, in spite of your lack of sympathy. You are right: fat people are not in sympathy with restrictive diets. If they were, they would not be fat.

ACCREDITED NIGHT SCHOOLS.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In June I graduated from an accredited high school and received my diploma. Now the board of education is trying to compel me to go to the Jones continuation school until I am 17 years of age.

I am now holding a position which may become permanent, but if I have to go to school I shall have to give up the position. What shall I do? Will going to night school absolve me from going to the Jones school? Can they compel me to go? D. R.

WEEDS CUT.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—[Friend of the People.]—Hundreds of vacant lots throughout the city have been cleared of weeds recently, but the vacant property in South Ashland avenue, between 71st street and 76th street and in 74th street, between Ashland avenue and Loomis boulevard, is overgrown with weeds every summer. If our present administration can remedy this situation it will be an achievement. E. W. P.

Report is made that weeds have been cut in parkway space and along edge of sidewalk in South Ashland avenue between 71st and 76th streets and in 74th street between Ashland avenue and Loomis boulevard.

DEEDS.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1, What is the difference between a warranty deed and a quitclaim deed? 2. Should a deed be put on record as soon as one receives it? 3. Can you force a party to give you a warranty deed when you buy real estate from him? J. C.

1. In a warranty deed, the grantor guarantees the title. In a quitclaim he merely conveys such title as he may have.
2. This is advisable.
3. Depends on the wording of the contract. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

HEROES.

Who rides alone across the sky
To make a New Dominion fair,
Counts not the hour of tragedy
Nor any peril lurking there.
To him has high achievement sung
A pæan, holier than fame . . .
Who rides alone with destiny
Waits not to sign a hero's claim.

The pioneers who cast aside
The common things of settled ease
Have greater business with fate
Than fame, or gold, or proud degrees.
They tread on dream-made roads who go
Apart from life, to better find
What life has hidden from the need
Of fortune-fed and spirit-blind.

That we shall know the mighty urge
To walk with faith, from star to star. . . .
O give us heart, though late we pray,
To make us nobler than we are!
No litany of life we voice
Bound to some obsolete machine.
Give us, O Lord, brave reason more
And faith to find the truth unseen.

These heralds . . . no insignia
Of pomp or station slows their flight.
Across the mystery of time
And space they see a beacon light!
There shall we trail across the years . . .
The littered way of outworn things,
Again to hear the copied song

ARROW-HEAD.

EARTH-MINDED as we are, our wonder concerning the heroic flyers in their epoch-making adventures is what they think about during the flight. We can conceive daring, bravery, or heroism in any field, but the loneliness of these flights where a mistake means death always has made us shudder as we read of the exploits. Perhaps that's because we are earth-minded. These airmen have so many other things to do, watching all the intricate mechanism and nautical charts, they may have no time for anything else, only a feeling of elation over impending success, or a feeling of dismay over impending disaster. Nevertheless, we'd like a replica, if such were possible, of their mental workings during one of those trips.

When the Cat's Away.

Dear Harve: Bloomington, Ill., has produced so many geniuses, concerning all of whom certain tales are told, that I feel uncertain whether the following should be credited to R. H. L. or Cartoonist Sidney Smith. Anyway, the subject was sadly in arrears to a certain Chinaman on Front street. Far from feeling any humiliation, the subject made it a point to walk past the laundry every day and snap a silver dollar on the window either to aggravate or encourage the cleanser of soiled linen. Then one day the celestial hurled a flatiron through the window, narrowly missing the humorist, followed by a bunch of laundry.

Back in 1867.

City Affairs—While looking out of our office window the other day we noticed a couple of dusky maids of the forest (Indian girls) tripping along Second street with their cheeks painted a crimson red; and we could not help thinking how extremes often meet, how the semi-civilized Indian maiden and the highly civilized belle manifest a like weakness of mind in vainly trying to improve nature by artificial means in a disgusting effort to attract attention.

PUBLIC-SPIRITED citizens are urged to take part in public affairs, to become candidates for elective or appointive office at the sacrifice of their own interests for the public good. And what a welcome they receive. First, they must oppose a well organized political machine whose interests are not their interests. If successful, innuendoes and petty annoyances from demagogues or investigating committees seeking political or partisan capital. If appointed to office, the criticism, seldom sincere, of certain mental vacuums gracing our legislative bodies. That's why the Wake-Line has such sincere admiration for men like Mellon of the treasury and candidates for elective office who have no motive other than service in seeking such office.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 4, 1914.

LONDON.—The Daily Mail hears from two sources that the German army is bombarding Senlis, 32 miles northeast of Paris. Senlis is a fortified town outside but allied to the first line of defense of the French capital. Martial law was proclaimed in Paris and the city declared to be in a state of siege. The capture of Amiens and confirmation of the report that the Germans had taken La Fère, causing the allies to abandon the whole of the valley of the River Somme, indicate that the German advance continues despite the desperate opposition being offered. A dispatch to the Mail says: "The German right wing is too far advanced and there is a chance that it will be cut and caught between two fires if the British should be found in force. Our center is resting well, and the right wing of our army appears to be taking the offensive."

PETROGRAD.—The general staff officially reported that Austria lost 100,000 men, killed, wounded, or captured in the battle in defense of Lemberg, in which the Austrians were overwhelmingly defeated. The Russians have occupied Czernowicz without encountering resistance and are now marching south in the direction of Suczawa.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 4, 1900.

CHICAGO.—Theodore Roosevelt, Republican candidate for Vice President, and William J. Bryan, Democratic nominee for President, watched the Labor day parade side by side. They shook hands and chatted amiably, leaning forward so they might see each other, as Samuel Alschuler, Democratic candidate for governor of Illinois, sat between them. Across Michigan avenue 10,000 people cheered first one and then the other with good-natured impartiality, but the marchers, openly urged to do so by their grand marshals, gave their shouts almost entirely for Mr. Bryan.

MANILA.—An outbreak in Bohol, an island of the archipelago 365 miles south of Manila, has been reported to Gen. MacArthur. First Lieutenant Lovack, 44th volunteer infantry, also reports an engagement near Carmen. At Bohol the Americans lost one killed and six wounded. The enemy's loss was 120 killed.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 4, 1865.

NEW YORK.—The Saxonia from Southampton arrived with news from Europe. The Great Eastern had arrived at Shearness. Capt. Anderson fully believes in being able to lay the Atlantic cable. The Atlantic telegraph companies have resolved to lay a new cable next June and pick up the old one. The cholera is disappearing at Constantinople, Barcelona, Gibraltar and Valencia. The Suez canal flood gates were opened and a vessel laden with coal passed direct from the Mediterranean to the Red sea on the 15th.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's Richmond correspondent says that Gen. Lee has set about the task of writing a history of the war.

CHICAGO.—The Illinois state fair begins today on the grounds of the Chicago Driving Park association between State street and Indiana avenue, just south of 31st street. Our city is a very large one, covering 27 square miles, and bounded on the east by Lake Michigan, on the north by Fullerton avenue, on the west by Western avenue, and on the south by Egan avenue. For the information of the thousands of strangers now in our midst we list among the principal objects of interest the following: The courthouse, occupying the whole square bounded by Clark, Randolph, La Salle, and Washington streets; Sherman house, opposite the courthouse on the northwest corner of Clark and Randolph; Tribune office, on Clark street opposite the Sherman house; museum, on the north side of Randolph, just east of Clark; Bryan hall, on Clark street nearly opposite the center of courthouse square; Tremont house, Lake and Dearborn streets; McVicker's theater, on Madison between Dearborn and State streets.

THE OPENING OF SCHOOL.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Each year, immediately after Labor day, the newspapers devote considerable space to the overcrowded condition of the roads due to the immense throngs of people returning to the city from the holiday week-end. Has it ever occurred to the citizens of Chicago that the board of education is largely responsible for this congestion, not only of the highways, but of the steam roads and the steamship lines, by continuing their practice of long standing of opening the schools on the day following Labor day?

I have long advocated the opening of the public schools on the Monday following Labor day. In that way mothers and their families could remain away from the Labor day congestion, returning to the city leisurely during the following week, thus permitting those who must return to their work the opportunity of getting back to the city a bit more conveniently by alleviating to that extent some of the mad rush that is now in evidence each Labor day.

The argument has been presented by the board that it would interfere with the schedule, delaying the closing of the schools in June. If necessary, it would seem practicable to eliminate the spring May vacation. In New York the public schools do not open until the Monday after Labor day, yet they seem to be able to work in their schedule somehow. L. M. H.

GLAD TO RETURN.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—At the beginning of each school year the press endeavors through cartoons, pictures, and write-ups to depict the child returning to school as an utterly miserable individual. It may interest you to know that the result of a canvass at our school shows 90 per cent glad to return. I dare say that this is typical of all Chicago schools, so why do you waste so much time and space on the lower 10 per cent? HARRY L. TATE,
Principal, Eli Whitney School.

HOOVER AS ADMINISTRATOR.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 26.—Everybody seems to be upset about the condition of things today. How easily we forget. It has not been so long since we had Hoover as food administrator. Have we forgotten those meatless, coalless, and heatless days? Well, he is the same old administrator, the same Hoover, and we are the same old people. And we are having the same old order of things; only they are just a bit worse. Jobless days, restless days, and just about eatless days for a great many. PAT WHITE.

THE HIGH COST OF CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—I would like to make a protest, through your column, against the high fee now charged before one can become a citizen of the United States. The fee for one's second papers used to be $4 and it has now been raised to $15. This seems extortionate, and perhaps some of the readers of your paper will explain just why this high rate should be charged. I am now ready to become a citizen of the United States, but hesitate to file my papers and pay $15 at this time, when work is so uncertain. PROSPECTIVE CITIZEN.

STADIUM CONCERTS.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—I have just returned from New York, where I attended one of the justly popular and famous stadium concerts at which thousands of people hear symphonic and other music at a nominal cost. Throughout the evening my thoughts reverted to Chicago with its larger and more accessible stadium. Night after night this great arena lies idle. Yet we boast of being a music loving city and advertise our attractions as a vacation center.

The success of THE TRIBUNE'S venture with the music festival proves that the people want outdoor music and that Soldiers' field has the proper acoustics for all types of music. Why not make this great festival a starting point for something permanent and continuous—orchestra, band, opera, group singing and community singing? We have not nearly enough music in our rushing city to counterbalance its sounds of industry and construction. MUSICIAN.

RATES FOR GAS.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—A communication in the Voice of the People this morning said:

"The people of Chicago are about to receive approximately a 10 per cent increase in the gas rate," etc.

There is no action that would tend to increase the cost of gas service in the city of Chicago, either pending or contemplated.

BERNARD J. MULLANEY,
Vice President, the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company.

BUTTERFLY MATING.

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 29.—Here at my summer home at Lake Geneva a white butterfly convention is on. They are coming from all directions and a large ash tree is just loaded. It looks like an apple tree in bloom. About tomorrow evening after the convention they will mate and the next day thousands will be found under the tree dead; also all about the woods.

There used to be such a convention held on a large tree near Edgewater Beach hotel before the hotel was there, but only the large red butterflies gathered there.

When you see a number of butterflies all flying in one direction, follow them up; it is a sight worth seeing. This happens every year.

DR. J. M. NICHOLSON.

SIGN HIM, DR. STOCK.

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug 30.—In regard to whistling in the throat while eating, as I read in your paper of Aug. 25, I will say that I have been doing that ever since I was a lad 10 years old. I can whistle almost any tune with my mouth closed tight or with it wide open. I also imitate all of the song birds, but not in the throat. I have whistled for a good many people, and this is the first time I have ever heard of any one that could do that in the throat, and I am a man 71 years old. A. A. WOODWORTH.

CAN'T SAY WE DID.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Did you notice that Mr. Wickersham selected a wet French boat when he sailed for Europe? MARK WHITE.

ARGENTINE CHIEF DEFIES DEMAND TO QUIT OFFICE

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 3.—Argentina's capital is uneasy tonight following reports that President Yrigoyen had bluntly refused the request of his own party leaders to resign. According to information, Dr. Osvaldo Meabe, the president's private physician, was designated by the members of the radical party, erstwhile adherents, to urge Yrigoyen to quit.

Report Yrigoyen Flees Home.

There were indications last night that the rumors President Yrigoyen had fled his home were well founded. The vigilance about his residence was perfunctory, though troops and police are still on guard.

The resignation of Gen. Luis Dellepaine as minister of war yesterday occupied political circles today. The text of his resignation caused a sensation, particularly in the paragraph which says:

"Those surrounding you, who, while enjoying your confidence, sneer at your ideals and ridicule you to fellow citizens."

War Chief Hits Régime.

The war chief's resignation states that he frequently countersigned decrees conceding privileges and gifts against his will and conscience.

"I am not a politician and I have felt a repugnance for the intrigues I have seen woven around me," he said. "Finally, I desire now, as in the tragic week when I spontaneously contributed to save your government, to proceed to again save the country and the army from the chaos that threatens them."

President Yrigoyen has signed a decree convoking congress Sept. 11. He also signed a decree accepting the resignation of Gen. Dellepaine and appointed Minister of the Interior Elpidio Gonzales to take over the portfolio provisionally.

Yrigoyen was reported to be still under the care of a physician.

Public Becomes Uneasy.

The government organ, La Epoca, tonight said that President Yrigoyen, in appointing Minister of the Interior Gonzales as provisional war chief had instructed him to order the immediate cessation of military precautionary measures and to reëstablish complete normalcy in the army. Immediate release of arrested army officers was also ordered.

The public was mystified by the announcement, because relaxation so far has shown no signs of materializing. The central police station was the scene of extraordinary vigilance, with armed guards stationed at each entrance. Public uneasiness showed itself tonight for the first time in the spare attendance at theaters and picture shows.

N. Y. Supreme Court Justice, Friend of Ewald, Is Missing

New York, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—While investigators searched today for Justice Joseph Force Crater of the Supreme court, whose whereabouts have been unknown to his friends and associates since Aug. 6, it was learned that he was wanted as an important witness in the inquiry by state Attorney General Ward into the $10,000 that Mrs. Bertha Ewald sent to Martin J. Healy, Tammany leader, three days before her husband's appointment as magistrate.

It was also learned that apparently Justice Crater's whereabouts have been known to at least one person during the entire time of his absence. His confidential secretary, Joseph Mara, son of John Mara, Democratic leader of the 23d assembly district, has called each day at the residence of Justice Crater, where he obtained the jurist's mail, presumably to forward it.

Discredit Violence Theory.

Investigators were inclined to discredit theories of violence put forth by the jurist's friends.

His wife does not know where the jurist is, according to a statement made by a lawyer in the office of Senator Robert F. Wagner, Justice Crater's former associate, who is returning from Europe to aid in the search for his friend. On the other hand, a woman at the jurist's summer home at Belgrave Lake, Wis., speaking over the telephone tonight said she would give no information about Crater but intimating that she knew of his whereabouts.

Justice Crater, who is president of the Cayuga club, the Tammany organization in the 19th assembly district, of which Healy is leader, presided at ceremonies inducting former Magistrate Ewald into office, according to information possessed by the state attorney general's office and corroborated by newspaper articles at that time.

Moreover, Justice Crater, who was appointed to his position in April, was toastmaster at a banquet given for Magistrate Ewald on May 12, 1927, in the Grand Concourse hotel, in the Bronx, and at that time lauded the magistrate and described him as one of his best friends.

Pursue Other Angles.

It was also learned that the attorney general's office has received a letter charging that there were irregularities in Justice Crater's appointment by Gov. Roosevelt. In addition, it was learned on good authority, representatives of Mr. Ward have questioned Mrs. Betty Ewald, the first wife of the former magistrate, concerning Ewald's relations with Justice Crater.

Before Justice Crater disappeared on Aug. 6 he withdrew $3,500 from his bank account, and his wife says he had with him $1,500 in addition.

The state attorney general's investigation of the Ewald appointment will get under formal headway on Monday. It will be conducted by Hiram C. Todd, especially appointed by Attorney General Hamilton Ward.

MRS. F. D. GRANT'S ILLNESS CONTINUES AT CRITICAL STAGE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Physicians said today Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant, daughter-in-law of President Grant, remained in a critical condition in her illness.

The 76 year old woman, once Washington's society leader, has been in virtual retirement for the last few years because of heart disease.

Mrs. Grant's husband died more than ten years ago. Her son, U. S. Grant III., resides here, while her daughter, the Princess Michael Cantacuzene-Speransky, who was born in the White House, has returned to Washington from London.

SCRATCH ON LEG PROVES FATAL.

CHINA PROTESTS BRITISH SALES OF SILVER HIT TRADE

Claim Dumping Policy Is Weapon Against India.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 3.—Dr. T. V. Soong, finance minister of the Nationalist government, in an interview through the official Koumintang agency today, stated that the government is inquiring of the British government regarding reports published here that the British-Indian government is preparing to sell 40,000,000 additional ounces of silver considerably below the prevailing market price, as this is bound to further depress the price of silver, and is likely to cause grave injury to China.

Dr. Soong said that the Chinese minister to London, Alfred Sze, has already been instructed to call the British government's attention to the detrimental effect which would result on the Chinese as well as the entire orient's trade if the Indian government were to pursue this policy of selling silver below the world market prices. He expressed the hope that the Indian government would refrain from such action.

Chinese officials as well as business leaders here are closely following the hearings of the Pittman committee on the Pacific coast regarding the cause of the oriental trade depression.

Many Chinese leaders also strongly criticize the British for dumping vast quantities of silver in oriental markets. The Chinese allege Britain is using this method of draining India of silver as a means of smashing the Indian revolution.

VAN LEAR BLACK LEGALLY DEAD; WILL PROBATED

Hint Eldest Son May Contest It.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Van Lear Black, publisher, capitalist, and world flyer, who disappeared into the night from his yacht, the Sabalo, on Aug. 18, was legally adjudged to be dead today, and his will, disposing of an estate of more than $3,000,000, was admitted to probate.

The presence in court of an attorney for Van Lear Black Jr., the eldest son, and two minor children of the publisher, who asked for a delay in recognizing the instrument, indicated the possibility that an attempt to break the will might be made.

After John N. Kelly of the Sabala, a steward, and Mr. Black's valet, Percy Sellers, testified that they believed he had fallen overboard accidentally while sitting on the rail of the yacht, three judges of the Orphans' court ruled that the fact of death had been established and that the will should be admitted.

Small Bequest to Elder Son.

Van Lear Black Jr. was made the beneficiary of a lifetime trust fund of $50,000 by the will, made in London in January of this year, shortly before Mr. Black started a flight to Tokio.

A daughter, Mrs. T. Buchanan Blakiston, was bequeathed $255,000 and a shar in the residuary estate, and her husband $100,000. The publisher's widow, Mrs. Jessie Gary Black, and the other four children are to share in the residuary estate after special bequests totaling more than $1,000,000 are paid.

The control of the A. S. Abell company, publishers of the Baltimore Sun and the Evening Sun, was given to the publisher's brother, Harry C. Black, who was bequeathed all Van Lear Black's share in the company and made trustee of the estate.

Woman Left $100,000.

The special bequests included $100,000 to Mrs. J. Walter Lord, widow of a man who was Mr. Black's lifetime friend. Mrs. Lord, a distant family connection, was aboard the publisher's yacht the night he disappeared, when the yacht was off the New Jersey coast en route from New York to Chesapeake bay.

Sums of $100,000 also were bequeathed to Thomas W. Rogan of Baltimore, for 30 years the publisher's confidential secretary, and to Miss Allison Bone, his London secretary.

To the two Dutch pilots who accompanied him on his flight to Tokio, the Dutch East Indias, and to Cape Town the will made bequests. G. J. Geysendorffer was given $25,000 and J. B. Scholte $15,000.

W. T. SHEPHERD, VETERAN OF '61, IS DEAD AT 88

William T. Shepherd, 88 years old, a sergeant in the First Illinois Light artillery in the civil war, died yesterday at his home, 1724 Chicago avenue, Evanston, of heart disease. He was one of the early settlers, having lived there for almost a half century. He was a member of the first library board of Evanston.

A widower for several years, he is survived by his daughter, Rebecca. His wife was Mary E. Bragdon, whom he married in 1867. Her parents were pioneer residents of Evanston. Mr. Shepherd was born in Kenosha, Wis. He joined the Union army July 16, 1861. At the close of the war he was a sergeant major attached to the headquarters of Gen. Sherman.

Funeral services will be held from the home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial at Rosehill cemetery.

LEGGE'S SPEECH ON LABOR COSTS IS CHALLENGED

Increase Small, Says William Green.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Chairman Alexander Legge of the federal farm board today was taken to task by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, for a statement interpreted by Mr. Green as unfair to the country's wage earners.

In a speech made at the New York state fair at Syracuse, N. Y., the labor official charged Mr. Legge stated that much of the ills from which agriculture is suffering is largely due to the advance in labor rates.

"This statement," Mr. Green telegraphed Chairman Legge today, "is neither justifiable nor accurate. For that reason I trust as a matter of fairness and justice to the wage earning class and the farmers of our country you will correct your statement.

Says Increase Is Small.

"Since 1914 the cost of wages to employers has changed five-tenths of a per cent only. In 1913 employers in the United States paid 16.8 per cent of the wholesale price of their products to workers in wages. In 1927 they paid 17.3 per cent. Obviously your statement that 80 per cent of the wholesale price of many manufactured articles can be directly traced to somebody's pay envelope is incorrect."

Mr. Green asserted that 80 per cent of the consumers of the country are composed of wage earners and their families who spend 55 per cent of the nation's income and make up largely those to whom the farmers look for buyers of their products, adding that "it would be a calamity if this portion of the consuming market was destroyed through the establishment of low wage rates."

Legge Addresses Grange.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, declared today to the New York state grange that the farmers' increased tax rates are due "largely to the advance in labor rates."

"It is a fact," he added, "that is not generally understood that on many manufactured articles 80 per cent of the wholesale price can be directly traced to somebody's pay envelope."

The speaker declared that when "properly organized, the farmers' business should be and can be the most stable of any industry in the world."

Greece Orders Priests of Rome to Alter Their Garb

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 3.—In order to check the alleged Roman Catholic proselyting among Greek orthodox followers, the Greek government has ordered Catholic priests hereafter to refrain from wearing a garb similar to the orthodox dress.

THREE BID FOR JOB OF BUILDING GIANT AIRCRAFT CARRIER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Bids for the construction of the first of five aircraft carriers which the navy department hopes to add to the United States fleet within the next five years were opened in the presence of high naval officials and representatives of private shipbuilding companies today.

The Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation submitted the highest bid, offering to construct the hull and machinery of the 13,800 ton carrier for $16,760,000. The lowest bid was sent in by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company, Newport News, Va. This company offered to build the ship for $15,560,000. The proposal submitted by the other bidder, the New York Shipbuilding company, was $16,334,000.

The 13,800 ton carrier is the outcome of ten years of experimentation with plane carriers on the part of the navy. It will carry seventy-five planes, 80 per cent as many as the 33,000 ton Lexington. It is of flush deck construction, generates 50,000 horse power, and will have a speed of 29 knots. The upper deck of the ship will be as level as an airport landing field. The smokestacks are hinged so they can be put out of the way while planes are landing or taking off.

$1,750,000 LEFT TO CHARITY BY WILL OF MRS. KENNEDY

New York, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—The will of Mrs. Emma B. Kennedy, noted philanthropist and widow of John Stewart Kennedy, the banker, disposing of an estate estimated at more than $20,000,000, was filed here today.

It bequeathed the bulk of the fortune to charity. Mrs. Kennedy died on July 23 last in her ninety-seventh year.

Specific bequests aggregating $1,750,000 are made to 120 charitable, educational and religious institutions, as well as a share in the residuary estate. The testator's sister, Mrs. Julia B. Schauffler, gets $250,000 outright and the home at Bar Harbor.

The board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church in the United States, $500,000. The woman's board of the same foreign missions, $100,000; the American Waldensian Aid society, $100,000; the Auburn Theological society, $100,000; the Elizabeth [N. J.] Orphan asylum, $50,000, and the American University of Beirut, Syria, $50,000.

COUNTY AWARDS $137,276 BRIDGE AND ROAD JOBS

Contracts for a new bridge, two culverts and two road work projects were awarded yesterday by the county board. The work will cost a total of $137,276. Bids on six other bridge and paving projects were deferred or rejected. The contracts awarded are as follows:

Bids for the paving of Avenues O and L from 114th to 130th streets were rejected. Projects deferred are Kedzie avenue paving, Devon to Granville avenues; Cicero avenue paving, Elston to Devon avenues; Avenue L paving, 95th to 106th streets; Chicago avenue bridge over Des Plaines river and 1st avenue bridge over Salt creek.

THREE COLLEGE HEADS ELECTED FAIR TRUSTEES

Three university presidents and eleven others were appointed yesterday to the board of trustees of the Chicago World's Fair. The university heads are Robert Maynard Hutchins, University of Chicago; Dr. Walter Dill Scott, Northwestern university, and Dr. Harry W. Chase, University of Illinois.

Dry Agent Is Acquitted of Slaying Georgia Youth

Columbus, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP)—W. K. Johnston Jr., federal prohibition agent, tonight was acquitted by a federal court jury of a charge of murder in connection with the death of Ray Rodgers, 20. The shooting occurred the night of July 25. Johnston said the shooting occurred when he attempted to take Rodgers into custody as the youth delivered a gallon of liquor to an informer. Miss Eunice Johnson, Rodgers' companion, said Johnston fired without warning.

JAILED FOR CHURCH THEFTS.

Caught stealing purses of parishioners at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, 9th street and Wabash avenue, Augusto Sossetti, 28 years old, 1017 South Wabash avenue, was yesterday sentenced to six months in the Bridewell by Judge Fetzer.

P. J. TUOHY, NOTED IRISH PAINTER, ENDS HIS LIFE

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Patrick J. Tuohy, 37, Irish painter, who was regarded as one of the leaders in the literary and artistic renaissance that grew out of Ireland's search for political freedom, was found dead today. Police said he had committed suicide.

He was found on a couch in his gas filled Riverside drive apartment and apparently had been dead for several days. A friend said Tuohy had recently suffered a nervous breakdown.

Tuohy numbered among his friends James Joyce, Padraic Colum, William Butler Yeats, and George Moore, and he had painted portraits of several of them. Among his better known paintings are "Baptism of Christ" and "The Agony in the Garden," both of which hang in Dublin.

He came to America about a year ago, and was recently represented in an exhibition of contemporary Irish work.

Throngs Attend Funeral for J. Scott Matthews

Funeral services for J. Scott Matthews, chief examiner of titles under the Torrens system, were held yesterday at the First Presbyterian church, Kimbark avenue and 64th street. Hundreds of his associates and friends attended, including a delegation of judges and attorneys. Mr. Matthews died on Sunday at the age of 50 years. He is survived by his widow and two children, Merritt W. and Bonita. Interment was at Oakwoods cemetery.

GANGSTERS HURL MAN'S BODY INTO NEW YORK STREET

New York, Sept. 4 [Thursday].—[Special.]—Residents at Tiermann place and Riverside drive early this morning witnessed the latest episode in gang reprisal when an unidentified body of a man about 40 years old, killed by five bullets, was thrown out of an automobile in front of 550 Riverside drive.

According to witnesses, a large sedan pulled up to the curb and stopped. A few seconds later the body was thrown to the street and the car raced north in Riverside drive and was lost to sight at 125th street.

A woman and six men were said to have been in the car. The police said the man had been "taken for a ride." A small quantity of powder, believed to be cocaine, was found in a pocket.

One man was killed and two bystanders were wounded in Meyer Cohen's candy store in Brooklyn tonight in a row that is said to have grown out of a feud between slot machine racketeers. The dead man is Samuel Cohen, 24, of Brooklyn. The Cohens were not relatives.

GANDHI SILENT AFTER 4 HOURS' PLEA FOR PEACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

POONA, India, Sept. 3.—Mahatma Gandhi listened for four hours to the proposals for peace in India and arguments for their acceptance which were advanced by Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakra, moderate Nationalists, in the Yervada jail today. Tomorrow he will confer with the negotiators again, withholding his final decision either to continue or call off the revolution, until Friday.

"You may say that Mr. Gandhi has given us and our proposals every possible consideration," Sir Tej Sapru told THE TRIBUNE tonight. But otherwise the peace envoys guarded with silence what happened in the interview in the prison.

GIVES VERDICT ON CAPT. PAGE'S FATAL AIR CRASH

A coroner's jury inquiry into the death of Capt. Arthur H. Page, marine corps pilot, who was killed on Monday while racing during the national air meet at Curtiss field, yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death.

One possible cause of the crash, given by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, contest director of the races, was that the centrifugal force developed in rounding the pylon at 200 miles an hour or more had caused the supports of the pilot's seat to give way and that the seat rubbing against the control tubes regulating the tail surfaces had fouled the controls. Maj. Schroeder said inspection of the plane wreckage bore out such a theory. He said he was confident that motor fumes had not affected the pilot materially.

The second theory was advanced by Dr. William D. McNally, toxicologist of the health department, who said that sufficient carbon monoxide was found in the blood of the victim to cause dizziness which might have resulted in the pilot losing control of the plane.

Maj. John A. Macready, noted flyer who was injured when his plane crashed during an earlier race, had recovered sufficiently from his injuries yesterday to leave the hospital. Later in the week he plans to take off for San Francisco accompanied by Jimmy Doolittle, former army flyer, and R. G. Irvin.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is the vicar of a country village in England. His attractive wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist, who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The day before the vicar had discovered the artist and Mrs. Protheroe in each others arms and they had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel sprawled across the desk, shot through the head, murdered apparently, as no weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is sent for and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour, and calls the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it always was kept a quarter of an hour fast.

Lawrence Redding confesses he murdered Colonel Protheroe. Shortly after Mrs. Protheroe tells Col. Melchett, the chief constable of the county, that she shot her husband.

Melchett and the vicar call on Miss Marple, whose house adjoins the vicarage. She tells them she saw Mrs. Protheroe going to the vicarage about 6:15. From there she went to the studio. Redding came along shortly after and went to the studio. They came out about twenty minutes later and walked towards the village.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

THE SERVANT PROBLEM.

"So it was Anne Lawrence was after all along! Not Lettice. How blind we've been. That must have been what old Miss Marple was hinting at yesterday. Don't you think so?" Griselda asked.

"Yes," I said, averting my eyes.

Mary entered. "There's a couple of men here—come from a newspaper, so they say. Do you want to see them?"

"No," I said, "certainly not. Refer them to Inspector Slack at the police station."

Mary nodded and turned away.

"And when you've got rid of them," I said, "come back here. There's something I want to ask you."

It was some few minutes before she returned.

"Had a job getting rid of them," she said. "Persistent. You never saw anything like it. Wouldn't take no for an answer."

"I expect we shall be a good deal troubled with them," I said. "Now, Mary, what I want to ask you is this: Are you quite certain you didn't hear the shot yesterday evening?"

"The shot what killed him? No, of course I didn't. If I had of done, I should have gone in to see what had happened."

"Yes, but——" I was remembering Miss Marple's statement that she had heard a shot "in the woods." I changed the form of my question. "Did you hear any other shot—one down in the woods, for instance?"

"O! that." The girl paused. "Yes, now I come to think of it, I believe I did. Not a lot of shots, just one. Queer sort of bang it was."

"Exactly," I said. "Now what time was that?"

"Time?"

"Yes, time."

"I couldn't say, I'm sure. Well after tea time. I do know that."

"Can't you get a little nearer than that?"

"No, I can't. I've got my work to do, haven't I? I can't go on looking at clocks the whole time—and it wouldn't be much good anyway—the alarum loses a good three quarters every day and what with putting it on and one thing and another, I'm never exactly sure what time it is."

"That's the truth of it, and we needn't look further."

"Was it long before Mr. Redding came?

I nodded my head, satisfied.

"Is that all?" said Mary. "Because what I mean to say is, I've got the joint in the oven and the pudding boiling over as likely as not."

"That's all right. You can go."

She left the room and I turned to Griselda.

"Is it quite out of the question to induce Mary to say sir or m'am?"

"I have told her. She doesn't remember. She's just a raw girl."

"I am perfectly aware of that," I said. "But raw things do not necessarily remain raw forever. I feel a tinge of cooking might be induced in Mary."

"Well, I don't agree with you," said Griselda. "You know how little we can afford to pay a servant. If once we got her smartened up at all she'd leave. Naturally. And get higher wages. But as long as Mary can't cook and has these awful manners—well, we're safe; nobody else would have her."

I perceived that my wife's methods of housekeeping were not so entirely haphazard as I had imagined. A certain amount of reasoning underlay them. Whether it was worth while having a maid at the price of her not being able to cook, and having a habit of throwing dishes and remarks at one with the same disconcerting abruptness was a debatable matter.

"And anyway," continued Griselda, "you must make allowances for her manners being worse than usual just now. You can't expect her to feel exactly sympathetic about Col. Protheroe's death when he jailed her young man."

"Did he jail her young man?"

"Yes, for poaching. You know, that man Archer. Mary has been walking out with him for two years."

"I didn't know that."

"Darling Len, you never know anything."

"It's queer," I said, "that every one says the shot came from the wood."

"I don't think it's queer at all," said Griselda. "You see, one so often does hear shots in the wood. So naturally, when you do hear a shot you just assume as a matter of course that it is in the wood. It probably just sounds a bit louder than usual. Of course, if one were in the next room you'd realize that it was in the house, but from Mary's kitchen with the window right the other side of the house, I don't believe you'd ever think of such a thing."

The door opened again.

"Col. Melchett's back," said Mary. "And that police inspector with him, and they say they'd be glad if you'd join them. They're in the study."

I saw at a glance that Col. Melchett and Inspector Slack had not been seeing eye to eye about the case. Melchett looked flushed and annoyed and the inspector looked sulky.

"I'm sorry to say," said Melchett, "that Inspector Slack doesn't agree with me in considering young Redding innocent."

"If he didn't do it, what does he go and say he did it for?" asked Slack skeptically.

"Mrs. Protheroe acted in an exactly similar fashion, remember, Slack."

"That's different. She's a woman, and women act in that silly way. I'm not saying she did it for a moment. She heard he was accused and she trumped up a story. I'm used to that sort of game. You wouldn't believe the fool things I've known women do. But Redding's different. He's got his head screwed on all right. And if he admits he did it, well, I say he did do it. It's his pistol—you can't get away from that. And thanks to this business of Mrs. Protheroe—we know the motive. That was the weak point before, but now we know it—why, the whole thing's plain sailing."

"You think he can have shot him earlier? At six-thirty, say?"

"He can't have done that."

"Couldn't you've checked up his movements?"

The inspector nodded.

"He was in the village near the Blue Boar at ten past six. From there he came along the back lane where you say the old lady next door but one saw him—she doesn't miss much, I should say—and kept his appointment with Mrs. Protheroe in the studio in the garden. They left there together just after six thirty and went along the lane to the village, being joined by Dr. Stone. He corroborates that all right—I've seen him. They all stood talking just by the postoffice for a few minutes, then Mrs. Protheroe went into Miss Hartnell's to borrow a gardening magazine. That's all right, too. I've seen Miss Hartnell. Mrs. Protheroe remained there talking to her till just on seven o'clock, when she exclaimed at the lateness of the hour and said she must get home."

"What was her manner?"

"Very easy and pleasant, Miss Hartnell said. She seemed in good spirits—Miss Hartnell is quite sure there was nothing on her mind."

"Well, go on."

"Redding, he went with Dr. Stone to the Blue Boar and they had a drink together. He left there at twenty minutes to seven, went rapidly along the village street and down the road to the vicarage."

"Not down the back lane this time?" commented the colonel.

"No—he came to the front, asked for the vicar, heard Col. Protheroe was there, went in—and shot him—just as he said he did! That's the truth of it and we needn't look further."

"There's the doctor's evidence. You can't get away from that."

[ALTALKER.]

Produced by Paramount.
Directed by Richard Wallace.
Presented at the Roosevelt theater.

THE CAST.

Willie Crow.....George Moran
Amos Crow.....Charles Mack
Mary Jane Robinson.....Joan Peers
Ted Reinhardt.....Neil Hamilton
Sergt. Skipp.....Walter Weems
Camilla.....Betty Farrington

By Roberta Nangle.

Did the Two Black Crows draw a crowd to the Roosevelt yesterday? As the taller and funnier of those two black face comedians would say, "Why Bring That Up?" The theater was packed with Moran and Mack fans for the first show, and there were long lines waiting on the street for admission to the second and third performances.

It's not surprising that the picture should attract a box office crowd, for Moran and Mack's first movie, "Why Bring That Up?" was funny enough to make the fans come back for more. They won't be disappointed in "Anybody's War," even though its plot lacks the color and interest of its predecessor.

This time the two Crows, Amos and Willie, are found happily practicing the art of relaxation in a quiet little town in Tennessee. Amos is a dog catcher by occupation and preference and Willie, his pal, is just a blissful idler.

Comes the great war, and Uncle Sam sends recruiting agents to induce the colored brethren of the town to don uniforms. Our two friends, much against their will, are lured into the army by the threat that "anybody who don't join up is gonna get into a lot of trouble, includin' WORK."

They meander through the war, blundering into all sorts of trouble and eventually, with the aid of Amos' pet dog, "Deep Stuff," stumble into a citation for valor.

The picture abounds in the Black Crows' unique brand of slow, easy-going humor which provokes a quiet chuckle rather than hilarious laughter. Charles Mack's lazy, dulcet voice and his side kick's sharper tones are so soothing and pleasant to the appreciative listener as to make the wobbly plot unimportant.

Also present in the cast are Joan Peers and Neil Hamilton, whose romance reaches a happy ending, thanks to the connivance of Amos and Willie, and Betty Farrington, in the rôle of a dusky belle, at whom Amos looks with longing and affection.

Women's Golden Age Dawns, Feminists of England Declare

LONDON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Recent achievements of women in aviation, science, and numerous other fields today aroused British feminists to exultation and enthusiastic belief in recent newspaper statement that: "We are on the threshold of the golden age of women."

Feminists point to Amy Johnson's flight to Australia and the winning of the king's prize at Bisley by Marjorie Foster, an English girl, as proof of their progress in aviation and shooting. Miss Foster defeated her men opponents in the rifle matches recently staged at Bisley.

Feminists hailed the fact that 30 women are on the program for addresses before the British Association for the Advancement of Science, opening its congress at Bristol today, as another triumph for femininity. Among women speakers will be botanists, archeologists, zoölogists and psychologists.

Prussian Science Academy Honors Yale Professor

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The Prussian Academy of Sciences today elected Prof. Ross Granville Harrison of Yale university as corresponding member of its physico-mathematical class.

Prof. Harrison, is an anatomist. In 1914 he received the Archduke Rarier medal of the Imperial Royal Zoölogical and Botanical society of Vienna, and later the John Scott medal and premium, given by the city of Philadelphia for "the invention of devices for tissue grafting and for tissue culture." He was born in Germantown, Pa.

FOX FILMS OBTAIN CONTROL OF THEATER CHAIN IN AUSTRALIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 3.—Arrangements have been made for an association of film producing and exhibiting interest between Fox Films corporation and Hoyt's Theaters, Ltd., which controls over 100 picture theaters in Australia.

The syndicate will be formed with the object of producing pictures in Australia, assisted by American technical experts. The director of Hoyt's stated every facility for producing films in Australia is now available and that the first really serious effort to supply a portion of the local requirements will be made under suitable conditions.

Fox Films have given assurances of practical support and that Australian operators will be trained on the latest developments of successful picture making.

The merger represents the largest film deal in the history of Australia, and when completed the Fox Films will have obtained a share in the interests of Hoyt's worth $700,000.

Girl's $7.50 Dress, Made by Her, Wins Aurora Fair Prize

Jean Pyatt, 16 years old, a high schoolgirl of Morris, Ill., wearing a gown she had made herself, yesterday was awarded the first prize in the style show at the Central States fair at Aurora, Ill. The low cost of Miss Pyatt's gown also figured in the award, it was said.

Miss Pyatt's gown was composed of a tan wool cametoille, with a collar of lighter tan silk crêpe and flared at the hips. It cost $7.50. Second place went to Hazel Blackman, 16 years old, of Plainfield, who wore a dark wool plaited cover cloth dress which had cost her $6.70. Helen Mayland, also 16 years old, of Morris, took the third prize.

A night attendance at the fair of more than 8,000 persons was announced for last night. James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic candidate for United States senator, will be guest of honor at the fair today, which is designated as Democrat day.

La Fayette Relics on Show for Anniversary of Birth

The birthday of Marquis de La Fayette will be commemorated at the Chicago Historical society on Saturday by an exhibit. Among the relics are an invitation to the ball given in his honor when he visited Illinois in 1825, a finely embroidered fichu and bonnet worn by Mrs. Thomas Mather at that ball, a reticule stained by wine in toasting La Fayette, and a glove said to have been kissed by him.

Open Campaign for Referendum to Put Women on Juries

The campaign in behalf of the referendum to make women eligible for jury service in Illinois opened yesterday at a meeting of the chairmen of the Illinois League of Woman Voters at the Woman's City club. Members expressed satisfaction over the indorsement of the referendum on woman jurors by both the Republican and Democratic parties in recent state conventions.

"We are confident of the successful outcome of the jury referendum," said Mrs. C. P. Fowler of Evanston. "This confidence is based on the encouraging support daily coming to our attention."

Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch reviewed the progress made by woman proponents of the referendum. She urged women to make a house to house canvass, as is being done in Wilmette and Highland Park, to inform voters that Illinois needs women on juries.

The movement for women on juries was indorsed yesterday by the Illinois League of Republican Women in its annual session at the Morrison hotel.

Another Vanderbilt Moves Northward in New York

New York, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Another member of the Vanderbilt family is to forsake the older social center of the city, it became known today with the filing of plans for a new home for Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt on East 93d street, between Madison and Park avenues.

The house, a five story structure, will cost about $200,000. It will be the most northerly of the Vanderbilt homes and is another instance of private homes being crowded from Fifth and Park avenues by the intensive apartment campaign that has been waged along those former leading private home centers.

Several years ago Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt provided a thrill for society when she announced she was to build a new residence on Sutton place. This was followed by purchases in that section by Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. Stephen H. Olin, Mrs. W. Seward Webb, and others who had maintained homes in the Fifth avenue section.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Plans for a development scheme for making a new spa at Saratoga Springs have been materially advanced by a tour of the principal European spas just completed by Joseph H. Freedlander, architect, and a commission of seven appointed by the New York legislature. Among those who have taken part in the tour were Bernard Baruch, Pierpont Noyes, and Dr. E. L. Corwin.

Greeks Recall Yankee Help to Win Freedom

Unveil Monument with Athenian Ceremony.

BY STAVROS PAPADAKIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 3.—Under a bright Attic sun, in the presence of Greek born veterans of the American Legion, a monument to Americans who helped in the Grecian struggle for independence was unveiled here during an impressive ceremony last Saturday.

The statue stands in a little green triangle in the middle of the fashionable Amalia boulevard, facing the statue of Lord Byron, and it was here that the ceremony took place in the presence of a large crowd, while a regiment of picturesque Greek troops presented arms.

"The committee respectfully hands over to this world famous city, this monument erected in memory of Americans who fought for Greek independence."

Deputy Mayor Gerassimou replied:

"The city, in receiving the monument, pledges to preserve it as long as the sun shall rise from Hymettus [Trelo Vuno] and set behind the Parthenon. The city raises its voice in gratitude to the noble country that stands amidst the oceans, a world example of altruism. The city lays at the feet of the monument as a token in honor of the noble Americans, a simple wreath of the laurel of Athens, that will remain green forever."

The president of the Greek academy, the well known poet, Kostes Palamas, then said:

"I lay this wreath of honor in gratitude to the great idealism of American Philhellenism through the generations, as symbolized by this monument. In the neighborhood of the monuments of Lord Byron, a leader in the Greek struggle for independence as well as poetry, and Melas, a martyr to Macedonian freedom, American idealism is given a due place of honor. The figures of Edward Everett, Henry Clay, Daniel Webster, Samuel Howe and other brave companions, will personify before the eyes of their beholders the lofty meaning of the 'Andres agathi,' by which the ancients characterized men immortal to memory."

Prof. Volonaki of Athens university, also laid a wreath to the heroism and self-sacrifice of American Philhellenes. The ceremony ended amid the cheers of the crowd.

SEAT SHORTAGE IN SCHOOLS PROBLEM AS MORE ARE ENROLLED

The second day of the 1930-'31 school year brought an enrollment of 448,070, an increase of 27,130 over the first day's attendance. Pupils continued to register at the various schools until closing time, and school authorities predicted that registration would continue throughout the week.

The present enrollment is divided as follows: Elementary schools, 330,412; junior high schools, 31,028; senior high schools, 82,596; Crane Junior college, 1,592; Chicago Normal college, 1,021; continuation schools, 1,421. All branches showed an added enrollment with the exception of the continuation schools. The greatest increase was in elementary schools with a second day registration of 19,447.

Incomplete figures obtained yesterday indicated a record year for parochial schools in Chicago. Four hundred and sixty-nine schools opened with an estimated attendance of 214,000. The teaching staff will be approximately 6,000.

The public school seat shortage, as estimated from first day attendance, will be more acute in senior high schools this year than last, according to Don C. Rogers, director of the department of building survey. He estimated 32,000 pupils would have to be seated in portables or their schools placed on a two shift basis. The shortage for other branches will not be figured for several days. Mr. Rogers said total seat shortage this year would be lessened by the building of three new junior high schools and one elementary school.

The Chicago school system has opened this year under more favorable auspices than in any previous year, in the opinion of William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. He gave credit for this brighter future to the improved morale of the teaching staff, due to the placing of the school system on a cash basis, thus assuring payment of salary checks, and to the building program.

"Especially encouraging," he said, "is the increased enrollment. Not only does this show increased population; it also shows a growing belief that education is essential. This is evidenced by the increase of high school registration, where attendance is not compulsory."

Birthplace of Lindbergh Will Become Memorial

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The house at 1120 Forest avenue in which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was born has been leased by a group of men acting as trustees for a proposed Lindbergh memorial association.

This announcement was made today by a law firm which stated that the association will be incorporated as a nonprofit organization with memberships ranging in price from $1 to $25. The association affairs would be administered by a board of 15 trustees, the announcement said, and the building would be remodeled into a museum and club house.

Facilities would be provided for a travel and registry bureau for the flying public and for registration of all persons employed in aeronautical work.

Sun Hot Spots Hailed Season Weather Teller

U. S. Expert Here; Reveals Results of Tests.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Changes in the sun itself, 90 million miles away, as it points, on its four weeks' rotation different parts toward the earth, may be responsible for a large part of our weather variations. These sun changes, whose effect lasts for a week, hold promise for long-distance weather forecasting, Dr. C. G. Abbot, director of Smithsonian institution and an authority on solar radiation, said yesterday.

Dr. Abbot delivered a paper on solar radiation and weather before a group of men and women astronomers assembled yesterday for the first of a three day annual meeting of the American Astronomical society in the Adler planetarium.

Dr. Abbot expressed to reporters his trepidation before anything by nature "sensational." He modestly pleaded that his observations and hypothesis appeared "too good to be true," and that he couldn't believe them all himself.

Nevertheless, his paper stood out as the most sensational of the papers listed for the sessions, including papers on "The Spectrum of P Cygni," "Hydrogen Emission in Mu Cephei," "Herschel's Fifty two Extended Diffused Nebulosities," "Causes of Negative Parallaxes in Determination of Ordinary Stellar Parallaxes," and other topics.

Just why parts of the sun are hotter than other parts [these are called faculae] and why they form unexpectedly, then pass away, is not known, Dr. Abbot said. One theory, advanced by Dr. Bjerknes of Norway, is that the faculae are due to something inherent in the sun, a sort of internal whirlpool which in a complicated way comes to the surface irregularly. Another theory, he said, is that the planet Jupiter, which has a revolution of 11¾ years, corresponding to the 11 1-5 year cycle of sun spots, exerts an attraction for the sun which causes the sun spots and other accompanying phenomena.

Be that as it may—and Dr. Abbot has no opinions about the cause of it all—he and his associates, is the only observation of their kind thus far conducted, have learned that when the sun's radiation varies 8-10 of one per cent, it is followed by a variation of 5 degrees Fahrenheit at Washington, D. C., and something less at Yuma, Ariz.

Dust and vapor and other terrestrial hindrances make correct observation of the sun's radiation extremely difficult, Dr. Abbot said. "If we could go on the moon, where there is no atmosphere, we could be much more accurate," he said.

"As it is, scientists go to Mount Montezuma, in Chile, the mountain being 9,000 feet high. The observers have to bring water 12 miles, as there is none there. It's fine and dry. And we have one in Mount Brukharos, in a Hottentot reservation in South Africa, and on the edge of the Mojave desert."

The Smithsonian institution started the observations of the sun's radiation in 1903. Then no one knew the sun was variable. Dr. Abbot, in Algeria, near the Sahara, and a colleague in California eventually discovered the sun was variable. It was not until 1924 that they learned how to make accurate enough observations to compile for their present hypothesis that weather may be forecast a week in advance by means of the sun.

Because of regular periodicities of sun spots, in cycles of 11 years, 3 years, 2 years, 15 months, and 11 months, scientists hope to be able to predict something of weather activities for whole seasons in time.

Among the astronomers of other countries to arrive yesterday were Bernard Dawson of La Plata observatory in Argentina, affiliated with one of the national universities, accompanied by Mrs. Dawson, and two of their four children, Genevieve, 12, and Lawrence, 10; and Dr. R. M. Stewart, director of the Dominion observatory, Ottawa, Canada, who, with his Van Dyke beard, nose glasses, and high stiff collar, is one of the most distinguished of the guests in appearance.

Mrs. Dorothea K. Roberts of England, formerly with the Paris observatory, will deliver an address on diffused nebulosities.

The stargazers will gaze at Chicago's skyline this afternoon and evening, when they will be guests of Commander Eugene F. McDonald Jr. and Capt. Ed Evers of the Great Lakes Naval Training station, aboard McDonald's yacht, the Mispah.

Her Wedding to Take Place of Debut Party

BY THALIA

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harris Brewer of 1811 Ritchie place today are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Corinne, to Herbert F. McLaughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. McLaughlin of 1300 Ritchie place and Lake Forest.

Miss Brewer was to have made her debut this season, but is choosing to become a bride instead of a debutante. The wedding is to take place some time this winter. She was graduated in June from Farmington, and was to have been presented at a tea to be given for her and her cousins, Miss Virginia Waller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Waller Jr., and Miss Winifred Wheeler, daughter of Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler, on Oct. 1.

Mr. McLaughlin was graduated from Yale in 1926 and has been an active and popular member of the younger set. There is to be a dinner this evening formally to announce the betrothal.

Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey, will give a large dinner party on Saturday evening at Mimentop, his summer place at Bar Harbor, for Miss Jane Addams, who also summers at Bar Harbor. The occasion is Miss Addams' 70th birthday.

George Carpenter was one of the ushers for his cousin, Alfred Lee Masarre, son of Mrs. Alfred Lee Masarre of New York City, at the latter's wedding to Miss Cornelia Cochrane Colt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stockton B. Colt of Elizabeth, N. J., which took place on Monday at the Colts' summer place at Cazenovia, N. Y.

Our latest London letter tells of a party given recently at Antibes by a Capt. White for Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin. Sir Oswald and Lady Cynthia Mosley were among the guests.

Mrs. Edward L. Spiers [Mary Borden] has completed her new novel, to be called "The Woman with White Eyes." She has been working on the book since early spring at Naworth castle, the Cumberland seat of Lord and Lady Carlisle. She also has been assisting her husband in his political work. He is standing for parliament as a Conservative from Carlisle. At present Gen. and Mrs. Spiers are on vacation in Brittany.

The I. Newton Perrys are on their way back to Chicago from their summer place at Marion, Mass., and are stopping for a few days in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift of 199 Lake Shore drive will be returning shortly from their western trip. They were at Banff, in the Canadian Rockies, during the last part of August, when the annual Scottish festival and highland gathering took place. Mr. and Mrs. Swift took the Canadian Rockies trip instead of going to Europe, as they had planned to do before Mrs. Swift was taken ill in the early part of the summer.

Mrs. Wilbur C. Smith [Edwina Litsinger] is to give a luncheon next Tuesday at the Exmoor Country club for Mrs. J. Allen Newton, who was Miss Gertrude Lucey before her marriage in July. Mr. and Mrs. Newton returned recently from their wedding trip in Canada and have taken an apartment at 210 East Pearson street.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Root have taken an apartment at 73 East Elm street.

Mrs. John A. Ryerson of Evanston has as her guest this week Miss Ellen Cardwell of Philadelphia, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua R. H. Potts of 3750 Sheridan road announce the marriage of their daughter, Evelyn Borde, to Harold Sheel, son of Mr. and Mrs. John George Sheel of Williamstown, Australia, on Tuesday. Owing to the severe illness of the bride's mother the ceremony was performed at the Potts residence in the presence of only the members of the immediate family. A wedding breakfast followed. Mrs. Eugene Vincent Clarke of Evanston, the bride's sister, was her only attendant, and Mr. Clarke served as best man for Mr. Sheel. After Oct. 15 Mr. and Mrs. Sheel are to be at home in Baltimore, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Mitchell have returned from their summer in Europe and are living in Rock Island, Ill. Work has been started on their new residence, which will be completed, it is hoped, by next April. Mrs. Mitchell was Mrs. Charles M. Kittle before her marriage to Mr. Mitchell last spring.

Public Utility Employes Giving Own Flower Show

More than 2,000 exhibits of the most choice blooms, raised by employes, covered tables yesterday in the Edison building at 72 West Adams street as judges began awarding prizes and ribbons for the tenth annual two day autumn flower show which cusomers will see today from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Hot Theme.

O, we were so much in love—Tom and I. And I remember now how disappointed he was on the day when I met him after class and did not have with me the little love letter which I had promised him. But I had not failed to write it and at last convinced him that it was lost. How sorry I was, for this letter, in particular, was so long, so beautiful. He would have read it over a thousand times.

But lovers are not sad long and the following day I went to class again with the light of love in my eyes. After taking my customary seat in my English class I began my customary letter, taking advantage of the professor's near sightedness.

But alas, love is blinder than he was and I realized this when I suddenly became aware that he was speaking to me thusly:

"Miss J., are you now in the act of composing another theme similar to the one you turned in to me yesterday? It was very delightful, I do admit, but after this you had better pay a little attention to instructions. I wanted the subject matter of yesterday's theme to be on French customs and not Spanish love."

My letter, of course. What a terrible mistake! Not even all these hilarious laughs could equal my embarrassment.

Home Made Golf Course Wins Dollar for the Ice Fund

For days Robert B. Fridstein, 11 years old, an eighth grade pupil at the Kenwood school, labored in the Fridstein back yard at 1216 Madison park. He shoveled, rolled, and polished up his work, and when it was all done he had constructed a miniature golf course.

"I made this money running my golf course," wrote Robert in a letter accompanying $1 for THE TRIBUNE free ice fund. My brother Donald and Buddy Jacobson help me run it. I charge three cents for children and five cents for adults."

Three more children who found time to give a benefit for a TRIBUNE charity on the eve of returning to school were Lois Berliner, 854 Ainslie street, and Bob and George Ten Eyck, 848 Ainslie street, who earned $1.10 for the ice fund.

The camp fund barely was hoisted over the $3,500 mark yesterday by the addition of $25 in gifts. Although the camp closes in two weeks contributions are needed just as much as during the hot summer. The bills incurred by giving hundreds of tenement mothers and children vacations must be paid—bills that require several thousand dollars.

Too Much Work for Children Is Bad as Too Little

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Here is part of a letter which may interest a number of mothers:

"I wonder how much work one should expect children to do. Sometimes my children think they are a little abused because they do not have as much time to play or sleep late in the morning as many (they think most) of their friends.

"They get up (that is, those between 10 and 13 years) at 6:15 and help until 8:15, after their breakfast and cleaning up for school, of course. At noon they help with the dishes, always leaving at 12:45 for school. Then, with the exception of one or two evenings, I seldom ask them to do anything until the supper dishes.

"I wonder what you and other parents think about this. I do not want to take too much of their time, neither do I want them to grow up as idlers."

The answer:

You wanted me to tell you what I thought about the schedule of work that you have arranged for your children between 10 and 13 years of age.

I do think that you are giving them too much to do in the morning. In the first place, children at that age need a great deal of sleep and few of them are slept out by 6:15. I think it all right to give them small duties, but growing children never ought to be pushed too much on routine work in anq quantity. My feeling would be that 7:15 would be a much more healthful hour for them to get up.

I don't think that you need worry about their becoming idlers simply because they are not strenuously occupied with household duties. Play is an essential part of their lives and really is not idling, as it often seems to adults, but is part of their legitimate development. Also, they need plenty of sleep.

NEW YORK SOCIETY.

New York, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Scott have issued invitations for the marriage of her daughter, Miss Mary Lee Borden, to Frank Wells McCabe on Saturday, Sept. 20 at Lakeville, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold I. Pratt will give a dance this season at Welwyn, their estate at Glen Cove, Long Island, for their debutante daughter, Miss Barbara Pratt.

Mr. and Mrs. William Warren Hoppin, who went abroad the early part of August to join Mr. and Mrs. G. Beekman Hoppin of Four Winds, Syosset, Long Island, at their shooting box in Scotland, will return about the end of September.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh A. Murray and Miss Paula Murray have returned from a several weeks' stay in Europe and will be at their country place in the Wheatley Hills for the autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Severin Bourne will introduce their daughter, Miss Barbara L. Bourne, at a supper-dance at the Ritz-Carlton on Dec. 22.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

Nicolaus Miller at 2443 Byron street in Chicago lets his garden provide him with work, recreation, and inspiration during the summer time and lets winter provide inspiration for his summer garden, he recently informed a visitor.

He proudly points to the flower garden and lawn in the rear of his home as proof. The design, he says, is a copy in plan and color of the carpet in the parlor where he sat one night last winter wondering how he might change the appearance of his flower beds.

Neat gravel borders provide contrast for the beds of flowers which encircle the creeping bent turf which is kept closely mowed to simulate a carpet-like appearance. In the center of the grass area is a diamond shaped bed of smaller flowering plants, providing color and brightness. The yard is not large but Mr. Miller says he finds plenty to do, with mower, shears for trimming the edges of the grass plot, trowels and larger tools for keeping the soil in shape and a spray gun for curbing insects and the spread of possible blights.

With flower gardens and smooth lawns becoming more common each year throughout Chicago and its suburbs, home owners are finding an even increasing interest in their yards through rock pools, rock gardens, fish ponds, new designs in flower planting, shaded retreats in their gardens and in unusual plants grown from seed or bulbs or slips and obtained from friends or dealers locally or on trips to many parts of the United States.

Della Bosworth and Gordon L. Padley of London Are Married

The first wedding of the fall season, that of Miss Della Bosworth and Gordon Lawrence Padley of London, England, took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bosworth of 225 Hamilton street, Evanston.

The service was read in the library at 4:30 o'clock before a small group of friends and relatives. A reception followed. Miss Bosworth's bridal costume consisted of a gown of ivory satin shot with silver, a court train, tulle veil and a cap of heirloom lace. She carried lilies of the valley and gardenias.

Miss Frances Bosworth, the bride's sister, and her cousin, Miss Mary Dawes, who were her only attendants, wore frocks of deep periwinkle blue lace with matching velvet hats, and carried bouquets of Talisman roses.

Capt. Randolph Thompson was best man for Mr. Padley, and Charles S. Motter assisted in seating the guests. The bride and groom are to sail on Sept. 20 for London, where they are to reside.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover returned to the White House this afternoon from the recreation camp on the Rapidan. She and a few of the guests had remained over for a few days, the President returning here Monday evening.

Mrs. Stark McMullin of California returned to the White House with Mrs. Hoover.

Mrs. E. E. Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis presided yesterday over the sales of the thrift shop for charity which opened yesterday in its new home on E street. It is a pet charity work among the leading hostesses in society here. Mrs. Allan Dougherty is its chief sponsor.

Edwin Cameron MacVeagh, brother of the bridegroom-elect, who married Miss Thoron's sister, Miss Louise Thoron, will be the best man. He and his wife and children have arrived here for the wedding. Their small daughters, Ellen and Edith, with Peggy, the daughter of another brother, Lincoln MacVeagh, will be the only attendants of the bride. Mr. MacVeagh's four brothers and their wives, Ewen, Charlton, Lincoln, and Rogers, are here for the wedding. They are sons of Charles MacVeagh, former American ambassador to Japan, and Mrs. MacVeagh, who now make their home here. Miss Thoron's mother formerly was Miss Ellen Warder, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Warder of this city, and formerly of Chicago.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This pretty dress shows the molded silhouette with belted natural waistline, and the circular flared front of the skirt provides interesting fulness. Flat silk crêpe in sky-lark blue, dusty pink shantung, coral red crêpe de chine and striped silk shirting are pleasing suggestions.

The pattern, 3473, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Girl Doesn't Need to Kiss Romeo When He Arrives, to Win Him

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"A certain young modern, Dorothy, wrote you giving out the following advice: 'Don't be afraid to show a boy that you like him.' I beg to differ with Dorothy. It is a very bad policy to show a boy that you think he is even half way decent. And I speak from experience. I lost a boy for whom I cared terribly just because I showed him that I did. I suppose he resented the familiarity with which I treated him. My advice is not to kiss a boy after he's taken her out three or four times. The men like it better when they have to wait and fight for the girl.

RUTH."

The last line or two of advice is excellent, Ruth. We'll pass it on as particularly valuable with your experience.

But what on earth form did your expression of feeling take? Surely not by action rather than by words? Dorothy's idea was not to cheapen yourself with familiarities given or encouraged.

There are countless ways in which a young woman can let a man know she likes him, without submitting either him or herself to any embarrassing moments. She can say charming things to him; she can be pleased at his invitations or his desire to be in her company. She can be quite frank in expressing herself as glad to see him. She can be appreciative of any little gifts or treats he has to offer. And she can always offer pleasurable little flatteries. And best of all, a girl can let a young man know she likes him by believing in him, which, after all is said and done, is the quickest of all routes to hearts, regardless of their gender.

One need not feel impelled to greet the young Romeo at the door with kisses or embraces. She needn't feel that she has to be pawing his hair or his shoulder or his coat lapel to indicate a heart interest. Neither does she need to feel it incumbent upon her to make him gifts, as some girls do, in order to give expression to her feelings. A look in the eye could easily outweigh in directness of the message we're talking about, an expensively monogrammed present.

Words, flattering, encouraging, good natured are messengers for the service you want to employ, with a few smiling, indulgent glances thrown in for good measure.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Better Accept.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a boy who does not care for me. Another boy has asked me out, but I refused. Should I accept the invitation?

"BLONDIE."

If you believe he does not care for you, you might better accept the invitation.

Shorter Evening Gowns Make Paris Appearance

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—There is a strong effort on the part of the Paris couturiers to equalize the hems of day and evening frocks. The double standard of Paris fashions inaugurated this spring had its drawbacks. It made it hard for the busy ants of society always to be appropriately dressed, and even a number of the most fashionable lilies of the field have persistently clung to the shorter skirts for formal occasions.

Sartorial signs and portents indicate that shorter evening skirts will be smart this winter, especially for dancing. Patou, Vionnet, Chanel and Martial et Armand all sponsor dance frocks that stop eight or ten inches from the ground.

A deep flounce of unpressed plaits is attached to the under dress six inches above the knees. Another one which ends on either side of the central panel is mounted on the skirt below the hip line, giving the smart tunic effect that will be prominent in fall fashions.

Overweight? Try Living on Liquid Diet for 3 Days

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A good many members of the fair, fat, and forty sex who went forth to swim off their fat will come home to reduce. A half dozen such populate the beach community around which I have been playing hookey from the city's sweltering heat.

Their story is the same. They swim twice a day; some of them take an extra dip before calling it a day. But the raids on the icebox undo their noble intentions. There's no doubt that it requires more will power to keep away from the temptations of the table at a seaside than at home, unless one is lucky enough to strike a boarding place at which the food is not attractive.

Swimming has this in common with vigorous walks. The exercise isn't half the cure. The appetite has to be mastered. And it is a hard old tyrant to down. One woman out here where the waves roll in as I write this came with every honorable intention of drowning at least ten pounds. She's leaving tomorrow with the ten and five extras to keep them company. She says she's going back to the land of unfilled iceboxes and restaurant eating where she'll do what she couldn't do out here, where the appetite is sharpened with every lungfull of ozone.

Looking over beaches and the women upon them in their hip frankness, one wonders why there was so much to do about the evils of the reducing craze. As the old beach comber suggests: "They weren't half crazy enough." (Going on 72, the old boy has a taste for the lean 'uns, he says, because they let the waves roll by.)

Anyway, the feminine figure keeps on being just about the livest subject for observation and treatment extant. While we have varied a bit to leeward from the string bean variety, still the thickly quilted figure is no more popular than it ever was. On man, woman, or beast it is not admired. And it takes a summer outing to convince one of how devastatingly ugly great pouches of fat can be. Also, how perfectly glorious a symmetrical arm, leg, back, and figure proper may be.

While summer is still with us, there is the liquid diet you can go on for a few days that gives you anywhere from a three to five pound start on the road to a younger figure. You won't suffer if you're overweight. There's enough fat stored up on the body to live on comfortably for days.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

K. T.: THE WHITE OF AN EGG applied to the face and allowed to dry on has astringent value. You can feel a tightening of the sagging skin. Some find a second coating even more satisfactory than just one.

L. F.: PEROXIDE SOLUTION may bleach out the freckles, or use a peroxide cream. Lemon juice is satisfactory for the light summer variety of freckle.

Food Talk.

What cook is not interested in mint jelly and mint sauce, those two delightful accompaniments of lamb? Women who are not botanists and who do not grow mint are often confused about the kind to use. "When I gather mint or when I purchase it, which kind shall I choose? And can I substitute the mint oils for the green mint?" are questions often raised.

The mint family has many members, many of which are useful in cooking. Thyme, spearmint, peppermint, summer savory, sage, and sweet marjoran are among the list.

The most important members of this family are peppermint and spearmint, and of these two peppermint is of first importance because of its oil, that is widely used for medicinal and flavoring purposes. Spearmint has long been grown as a culinary herb for flavoring sauces and cooling drinks, but recently it has come into extensive use for flavoring chewing gum, liqueurs, and confectionery.

Peppermint is of two varieties—black and white—and the black is the variety grown on nearly all the peppermint farms in this country. It has purple stems broadly lance shaped, slightly toothed leaves. White peppermint has green stems and light green leaves more pointed in form and deeply toothed. The white yields the finest oil, but the plant is less hardy.

The leaves in either variety are provided with minute oil glands, chiefly on the under surface, but the whole plant exhales the well known peppermint odor, which is greatly increased when the leaves are handled or pressed. Peppermint oils are used chiefly for the flavoring of candies, chewing gum, and tooth paste.

Spearmint is a plant of more vigorous growth than peppermint and usually tends to crowd out the latter when the two grow together. The leaves are longer and lighter green in color than the peppermint. Spearmint has a distinctive odor and taste, which to most people is much less agreeable than peppermint. The oil glands are distributed throughout the plant in the same manner as in peppermint, but are rather less abundant. Spearmint oil is less in demand than peppermint oil and its use is confined almost exclusively to flavoring chewing gum.

The cook who wishes to make sauce, drinks, or jelly uses spearmint if she follows the custom. For making candy or ice cream peppermint is usually preferred and the use of the oil is just as satisfactory as the green herb. The oil, however, is much more convenient, but it must be used with discretion.

MEDICAL SOCIETY ASSAILS HEALTH INSTITUTE ANEW

Protest Sent to Board of Doctor Advisers.

The Chicago Medical society through Dr. Charles B. Reed, former president of the society and now chairman of the public relations committee, has written a letter protesting against the present conduct of the Public Health institute, a not for profit corporation engaged in the treatment of venereal diseases on a low fee basis.

The letter is published in the current issue of the official bulletin of the society, issued yesterday.

It is addressed to seven noted Chicago physicians, all members of the medical society, who have been serving as an advisory medical board of the institute, striving to bring the functions of the institute into the ethical standards fixed by the society.

The seven physicians, who, Dr. Reed says, appear to be used as "stool pigeons" for Dr. J. G. Berkowitz, medical director of the institttue, are Drs. Ernest E. Irons, Ludvig Hektoen, Joseph A. Capps, Arthur D. Black, W. W. Hamburger, C. A. Elliott, and Joseph W. Miller.

Dr. Reed's Communication.

The letter from Dr. Reed follows:

"Nearly a year has elapsed since the so-called reorganization of the Public Health institute, and so far as can be learned there is no radical change in the conduct of the institution.

"Apparently the medical director continues to carry on his usual policy of delay, tergiversation, and possibly an outward assurance of coöperation which finds no stay or maintenance in works.

"According to our information, the rules of the house which have required the selling of examinations, heart, lungs, etc., where they are unnecessary are as yet unaltered.

"It is reported, too, that unlicensed physicians and even 'the porter' are engaged in medical practice and are giving treatments at the institute.

"There are no signs of effort to divide the work of the establishment into departments as the plan of reorganization professed to do, and the medical director, to all appearance, is using the medical advisory board for stool pigeons, as he boasted he would, and just as he has for years used the lay board of trustees.

"In THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE advertisement for Sunday, July 20, the impression is conveyed that the works of the Public Health institute is wholly indorsed by the medical profession through its representation in the medical advisory board.

A Change Is Advised.

"You know, and we know, that such indorsement is not according to facts, and that such official and professional encouragement gives the public a far more erroneous opinion of the kind of work done at the institute than any reader could obtain from the associated publication of the names of the lay board of trustees.

"To the public relations committee of the Chicago Medical society it seems desirable, therefore, that you should make your position plain to those in charge of the institute, and either bring about a recognizable alteration in the conduct of affairs or, for your own sakes, to refuse to allow your names, reputation, and standing as physicians to be further imperiled by the association.

"This letter is sent to each member of the advistory board in duplicate because we have no information as to who constitute the officers of your board. It is unthinkable, of course, that body of high minded medical gentlemen would permit themselves to be organized and ruled by laymen, like the staff of the institution, to which you are lending your personal honor and professional eminence."

The efforts to have the Public Health institute recognized by the Chicago Medical society were launched by Michael Davis, medical director of the Rosenwald foundation, during the celebrated controversy in the medical profession which resulted in the ouster of Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, noted physician, from the medical society. Dr. Schmidt's indirect connection with the Public Health institute was cited as the reason for his dismissal.

REDS BREAK UP BRITISH LABOR UNION CONGRESS

Guard Home Secretary from Attack.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Home Secretary John R. Clynes was howled down in the trades union congress at Nottingham today by a score of communists who gained entrance to the gallery by faked tickets, and converted the day's two sessions into disorderly brawls.

At one time nine separate fights were being waged in the gallery as the stewards struggled with the biting and kicking Reds, seeking to oust them. Mr. Clynes, the fraternal delegate of the Labor government, stood pale and silent during the series of uproars, while the union leaders beneath shouted, banged tables or rushed upstairs to take a hand in the general mêlée.

Brawl Breaks Up Session.

Quiet was never restored permanently and the meeting broke up for the day after a representative of Indian labor disclosed communist activities among the membership of the organization.

One of the agitators was a girl of 20. She slapped the sergeant at arm's face as he attempted to eject her, and continued to fight while three men struggled to get her out of the building. One man was severely bitten on the hand during an attempt to throttle a yelling communist, and many of the stewards were nursing swollen noses and lips after the encounters. Two dozen policemen guarded the entrance while a crowd of communists stood outside shouting.

Police Guard Clynes.

Mr. Clynes had just started an appeal to judge the Labor government on its accomplishments when men in the front row of the gallery jumped to their feet and demanded:

"What about employment?"

It was evidently a prearranged plan, and the violent interruptions continued in relays throughout his address. Mr. Clynes, realizing the effect of his words were lost, slipped out the side door under police escort in order to avoid a mob of communists gathered at the main entrance.

LIEUT. GOV. CYR OF LOUISIANA SOCKS OPPONENT

New Orleans, La., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Lieut. Gov. Paul N. Cyr had a fist fight with R. Theriot, New Orleans business man, in a coffee shop here today after Theriot had taunted the lieutenant governor over betting on the outcome of the senatorial campaign between Gov. Huey P. Long and Senator Joseph E. Ransdell. Theriot received a gash on his cheek and Cyr cut his fist on his antagonist's teeth.

BOY'S MURDER OF EMPLOYER KEPT SECRET WEEKS

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 3.—(AP)—A sixteen year old boy confessed today to the police, they announced, that he killed his employer with a monkey wrench, hid his body in a barrel and then started a month's career of luxury with the money he obtained by robbing the safe and forging the victim's name.

The boy, Kennard Thompson, was arrested yesterday in an automobile he had bought with the money obtained by forgery, and last night the body of the employer, Herbert G. Wetters, a chemist, was found in a barrel in the rear of his small establishment in the west end.

Wetters lived in an apartment over his shop, which had been closed for several weeks, but his sister and brother thought he had gone for a vacation.

Kennard, police said, confessed that he went to the shop about midnight Aug. 1. His entry, he said, aroused Wetters and struck the man on the head with a wrench.

The rest of the night, he said, he slept on the floor by the body, and the next day went to New York. Returning three days later, he put the body in a barrel, poured alcohol over it to preserve it, and rolled the barrel into a closet.

M'GRAW SIGNS TO PILOT GIANTS FOR FIVE YEARS

Move Ends Rumors of Quitting.

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—John J. McGraw, for 28 years manager of the New York Giants, today signed a contract to manage the National league club for the next five years.

JOHN McGRAW.

In making the announcement of McGraw's signing another long term contract, Charles A. Stoneman, president of the Giants, said that if had been the club's plan to have the formal signing at the expiration of the present contract, but rumors of McGraw's leaving the Giants and the National league prompted immediate action. Manager McGraw's present contract expires at the close of this year.

Manager McGraw himself handed a statement from President Stoneham to newspaper men at the downtown office of the Giants this afternoon.

Ends Rumors of Going.

"Mr. Stoneham and I reached an agreement six months ago," he said, "and another contract would have been signed about the beginning of the new year, but with these foolish stories going around that I would manage another club, or even leave the National for the American league caused us to conclude the business now."

Rumors have persisted, since the Giants went on their last western trip without the manager, that the man who has been in charge of the Giants since 1903, and is a stockholder and vice president of the club, would not retain his place.

It was explained that ill health has kept the manager from the bench. McGraw's health is reported much improved, but his physician warned him that he could not hope to regain his health if he insisted on braving the heat and humidity of the bench.

Still Hopeful of Flag.

"No, the race is not over yet by a long shot," he said. "We certainly have a chance."

"Will you be able to take a seat on the bench if the Giants get in the world series?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes," was the reply, accompanied by the famous McGraw smile. "I am sure, in that event, the doctor would permit."

The formal statement from President Stoneham read:

"John J. McGraw today signed a contract with the New York Giants for five years, commencing at the expiration of his present contract, which does not terminate until the end of this year.

"It had not been the intention to make a new contract until the expiration of the present contract, but in view of the persistent rumors to the effect that Mr. McGraw intends not only to leave the Giants, but to transfer his activities to the American league, Mr. McGraw and Mr. Stoneham today agreed upon this long term contract.

Health Greatly Improved.

"It has always been Mr. McGraw's intention to wind up his long baseball career as a National league manager. The formal signing of the contract, of course, dispels all the foolish rumors of Mr. McGraw's ever leaving the National league.

"It might be well to state at this time that while at present Mr. McGraw's health is greatly improved, nevertheless for some time he has been under strict instructions from his doctor to keep off the bench.

"The intense heat and humidity of the bench aggravated Mr. McGraw's condition, and while his idleness did not confine him to his bed, his doctor refused to assure him of his complete recovery unless he refrained from going on the bench.

"Mr. McGraw has, of course, been in constant touch with the team both while it has been on the road and at the Polo grounds. Those who know Mr. McGraw well will realize how difficult it is for him to obey the doctor's orders, especially in as close a race as we are having now."

Night Baseball Is NobleExperiment, Cards' Boss Says

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—The St. Louis Cardinals, who played an exhibition game here with the Indianapolis American Association team last night, have added their bowl to that of the Cincinnati Reds against night baseball.

Members of the Cardinals, like the Reds, said that baseball under the arc lights may be all right for the minor leagues, but that it is no good for the majors. Fast balls 'cannot be hit except by guesswork, they said, and their batting eyes squinted a good deal before the evening was over.

"It's a noble experiment, and you know all about these noble experiments," said Manager Gabby Street.

Maybe This Will Explain Lure of Golf

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Golf seems to be the only game in which you can find night club musicians, mounted policemen, alienists, and dynamite experts taking an active part. There are half a dozen other sports which draw a following from equally diversified classes, but their popularity hinges on the fact that a few highly specialized entertainers put on a good show for the benefits of thousands who sit more or less idly in their seats.

Go to a race track and the man at your elbow may be anything from a steeplejack to a certified public accountant, but he will be hanging on the rail—not riding a horse.

At the big football games, the chap behind you who booms forth the college songs in a robust baritone may be a comic opera singer or a train dispatcher during his working hours, but for the afternoon he's just a spectator, quite incapable of making a five yard slant off tackle or flipping a pass on the run.

The American public has become essentially a nation of spectators, golf remaining the only game which the people actually play. It would be difficult to imagine the dean of a college becoming a prize fighter, but it would not be at all incongruous for him to take up golf.

Golf is a game which furnishes only about three great spectacles a year—the national open, amateur and professional tournaments. Yet its following numbers hundreds of thousands.

Just wherein its charm lies has always been a mystery to those who have not taken it up, and there are some things which golfers do and call it pleasure which leave the layman completely puzzled.

For instance, on a holiday recently during which the sun blazed down with unremitting intensity, a group of neighbors gathered at a home made golf course in a vacant lot. There was not a patch of grass on the layout to relieve the glare of the sun and when the wind blew it whirled choking blasts of dust into the air. There was not a single tree under which to take refuge from the blistering heat.

Yet here were these men and women spending their day off knocking golf balls over this dreary looking strip of desert and calling it fun. But so long as they liked it, who can kick? It was just another example of how the game takes hold of people.

GIRL NET STARS TO MEET TODAY IN SEMI-FINALS

Miss Marlowe defeated Helen Bidwell of Scarsdale, N. Y., 6-0, 6-2, to advance. Miss Workman won by the same score over Mary Cutter of Boston. Miss Cutter was responsible for the only upset in the title event when she eliminated Helen Fulton of Winnetka, Ill., yesterday.

Miss Marlowe, representing the University of Southern California, drove with all her might to take the first set at love from Miss Bidwell. The loser sent over a number of soft shots in the second set, but Miss Marlowe put many of them away for earned points.

Sarah Palfrey of Brookline, Mass., the 1928 and 1929 national girl champion, defeated Carolyne Roberts of New Rochelle, N. Y., 6-0, 7-5, to enter the semi-final.

Miss Marlowe will meet Miss Workman tomorrow.

Caroline Babcock of Los Angeles was the last to enter the semi-finals. She defeated Hilda Boehm of Boston, 7-5, 6-3, and will meet Miss Palfrey tomorrow.

Pid Purdy, Columbus Outfielder, Is Married

Columbus, O., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Everett Virgil [Pid] Purdy, Columbus Senator outfielder, today was married to Miss Marie Jean Bogen, Columbus. Purdy's home is in Beatrice, Neb. He attended Beloit college, Beloit, Wis., where he starred on the diamond as well as in football. In 1926, playing with the Green Bay Packers, he was picked as all-America professional quarter back.

IS DROP KICKING LOST ART? BOYS' TESTS TO TELL

Tribune to Hold First Trials Sept. 20.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[ENTRY BLANK ON PAGE 21.]

The point after touchdown will determine the result of many football games this fall, just as in previous years it frequently has meant the margin of victory or defeat. And many teams, probably because the ball is put in play only two yards from the goal line in the try for the point, will continue to forward pass and plunge the line rather than attempt a place kick or drop kick.

In short, the drop kick, particularly with prep teams, is a lost art. Many college elevens also have abandoned the drop kick, because university coaches find no men on their squads who can boot the ball consistently over the cross bar.

Planned to Revive Interest.

THE TRIBUNE'S drop kicking contest for boys, which will be held in seven sections of the city Sept. 20, are designed to revive interest in this important feature of football. There will be two age divisions. Boys 14 years of age and under will attempt five drop kicks 29 yards from the goal posts. Each kick must be completed in four seconds. This rule was adopted because, with hundreds of competitors, it would be impossible to have the ball passed back from center. Then, too, a poor pass from center would penalize the kicker through no fault of his own.

The older boys, between 15 and 19 years of age, inclusive, also will have five chances each. They will drop kick 30 yards from the goal posts. The winners, or those tied for first place in the seven sectionals, will meet Sept. 27 in the final competition at Mills' stadium. Preliminary contests will be held at Bessemer park, Washington park, Douglas park, Mills' stadium, Kelvyn park, De Paul university, and Loyola university. All contests start at 9 a. m.

Forward passing competition will be held at the same time. All boys are eligible to enter each contest. The same age divisions will be made. The younger group will have five passes at a stationary target from a distance of 15 yards. The senior boys will try five passes for 20 yards. Winners of the passing contests will meet in the finals at Mills' stadium Sept. 27.

Winners to See Big Games.

The four champion passers and kickers will be guests of THE TRIBUNE at the Notre Dame-Navy game in South Bend, Oct. 11, or the Northwestern-Illinois game at Champaign, Oct. 18. Each boy may choose the game he prefers to see.

With more than two weeks for practice many boys should be able to score perfectly in the drop kicking contests. This practice may later earn them positions on high school or club elevens. Coaches say a good drop kicker is preferred to a place kicker if for no other reason than that ten men are available to block while the attempt is made. In place kicking a team mate holding the ball reduces the number of blockers.

There are no requirements other than mailing the entry blank which is printed daily. Specify the district in which you wish to compete. Perhaps you may win a Chicago championship and the right to see two famous college elevens in action.

THREE JOCKEYS HURT IN SPILL AT BALTIMORE

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Three jockeys were injured at the Timonium fair, Baltimore county, in a spill in the sixth race at the half mile track today. J. O'Malley was brought to a Baltimore hospital with injuries said to be critical. R. Haines was also taken to a hospital but with less serious hurts and J. Shanks was able to hobble to the jockeys' quarters.

O'Malley, riding Daisy Buck, the favorite in a six and a half furlong $500 claiming race for 3 year olds, was tossed in a jam just after the start, and the horse then ran into the rest of the field.

British Win, Americans Lose in Final Polo Test Matches

New York, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—By way of final performances before the opening of the main act on Saturday, when they ride out at the Meadow Brook club for the opening match of the tenth international polo series between Great Britain and the United States, the tentative lineups of both teams went through shortened games today.

At Sands Point the American team was defeated on handicap, 11 goals to 8, by the Reds, and on Cochran field at the Meadowbrook club the British scored over the Roslyns, a team on which five men shared the opposition, 8 to 5.

Both games were played with five minute periods instead of the regulation 7½ minutes and both sides were at times apparently saving themselves for the more serious doing of Saturday. In neither game was the performance of the rivals outstanding.

Yanks Face Stronger Team.

The Americans were facing perhaps the sterner opposition and omitting the handicap, they won by a single goal. The game left the impression that the team was a bit stale.

With the British there was the feeling that they were still short of work. Today was the first time the visitors had ridden for eight periods with the starting lineup, and there was plenty of evidence that they were not quite used up.

The fault of the American side was harder to diagnose. In the past, the Americans have been encountering no difficulty in rolling up much bigger scores against opposition equally strong. Elmer Boeseke, the lanky Californian, has begun to play brilliantly for the Red team, but the improvement of one man could hardly account for this second handicap defeat.

Hopping at No. 2.

Today the American team had Earle A. S. Hopping at No. 2, Eric Pedley at No. 1, Thomas Hitchcock Jr. at No. 3, and Winston Guest at back. They were defeated by Pete Bostwick, Cecil Smith, Stewart Iglehart, and Boeseke, riding in that order. Every man on the Red team is just a shade below international form or very nearly on a par with those they oppose.

Ordinarily there would be no complaint over failure to defeat this team with a four goal handicap to overcome, but the earlier performances of the American team have created a rich appetite among the followers of the American team. When any team opposed to the Whites fails to be slaughtered surprise is felt.

Hitchcock played well and Guest was again a good back. Hopping, who has been shunted back and forth so often he has had no chance to accustom himself to any set of teammates, played well in spots but not always up to the level he has shown at his best and Pedley was not the accurate scorer he has been.

The British were riding as they finished their match at Sands Point Sunday with Gerald Balding, Lewis Lacey, Capt. C. T. I. Roark, and Lieut. Humphrey Guinness. They were opposed to Stephen Sanford at No. 1, J. C. Rathborne at No. 2, Robert E. Strawbridge Jr., back, and James

CLEVELAND TO OPEN SERIES AT SOX PARK TODAY

The White Sox will open their final home stand against a western team today when the Cleveland Indians come to town for five games in four days. When the Indians depart the four eastern teams will start their final invasion of the west, the Boston Red Sox coming here next Tuesday for a three game series.

Red Faber probably will be Manager Donie Bush's pitching selection for today's game, while the White Sox expect to face Willis Hudlin, who started against them last Saturday in Cleveland.

The Tribe will meet the Sox in single games today and tomorrow, with a double header on Saturday, closing the series with one game on Sunday.

SOX WIN, 8 TO 1.

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox defeated the Kari-Keen team in an exhibition game here today, 8 to 1. Kerr and Cissell hit home runs for the big leaguers while Ed Walsh hurled airtight ball. The Karriers' only run was unearned, the result of Campbell's three base error on Mudloff's fly and Delp's infield out. Score:

TARPAULIN GIVES MAN OF WAR'S SON TURF LESSON

BY FRENCH LANE.

Frigate Bird, son of Man o' War, brought grief to the favorite players at Lincoln Fields yesterday when he finished out of the money in the South Shore Country Club purse.

It was a dash at six furlongs and Frigate Bird, as a result of his fast training drills and his royal breeding, was the choice of almost every one. There was a late plunge on Tarpaulin, but the wise men laughed and asked, "What can a son of Supremus expect to accomplish when competing with a son of Man o' War?"

But Tarpaulin did plenty to Man o' War's young son. He took a long lead as the barrier lifted and continued to make such a fast pace to the head of the stretch that Frigate Bird was far back and didn't know what was happening.

Porternesia to Fore.

Then as the stretch run started there came a challenge. Not from Frigate Bird, but from Porternesia, a son of The Porter who didn't fancy this fellow Tarpaulin running away with the spoils.

For a sixteenth of a mile these young thoroughbreds staged as stubborn a battle as any one could care to witness. They ran head and head. Then Tarpaulin conquered Porternesia. He drove on into a longer lead and wound up by beating Porternesia by two lengths. Town Limit hung on to be third. Frigate Bird was trying his best to run in the difficult muddy going but was 10 lengths back of the winner and in fifth place when the verdict was returned.

Those Nevada Stock farm people bet everything but their shirts that Tarpaulin would win and they plunged so heavily that Tarpaulin paid only a little better than 3 to 1.

But the defeat of Frigate Bird was only a sample of what was to happen to the favorite players 30 minutes later.

Honey Locust, stable mate of Frigate Bird in the Camden barn, went to the post one of the heaviest backed favorites of the day. And when she turned for home two lengths in front the favorite players were shouting and cheering. Tannery, also heavily backed, was nowhere and it looked like they might start paying off then and there on Honey Locust.

Jockey James Errs.

But Jockey James, one of the stars here, made a mistake and hugged the rail with Honey Locust. This forced the Camden filly to run in the deepest going and while she put everything she had into the struggle the going was too deep. Coming on the outside with a rush was Calome with Jockey C. Corbett in the saddle.

In the final strides Calome got up to win. Honey Locust was second. Tannery finally found a dry strip and came like a thunder bolt, but the best he could get was third. A few strides more and he would have been in front.

LOU GEHRIG ONLY BIG SIX SLUGGER TO REGISTER GAIN

[By the Associated Press.]

Lou Gehrig led the big six batsmen into action and registered the day's only gain in the batting averages of the sextet. Lou made two hits in four trips to the plate and brought his average up two points to .395.

This gave him a margin of twelve over his leading rival for the American league championship, Al Simmons, who hit but once in five attempts and dropped two points to .383. Babe Ruth, third American league member, hit once in three times up and held his mark at .360.

Bill Terry, the only National league member to play, lost a little of the ground he had gained in previous days by hitting three times in eight attempts in a double header. His average went down one point to .410.

Hack Won't Discard His Straw Hat

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 3.—Hack Wilson, though he accomplished three hits in today's sad contest with the Pittsburgh Pirates, continued in an irate mood, only more so.

It is a Cub custom to destroy all straw hats after the first victory in September. Last night in Cincinnati a committee waited at the train and wrecked all the summer sky pieces that had escaped destruction in the clubhouse immediately after the game.

All the summer sky pieces, that is, except Hack's. Hack served notice that he was in no mood for playfulness, and that he personally would slap down the first athlete who sought to maim his hat. Hack gave two reasons for this belligerent attitude:

1. He is concentrating on the pennant race and his home run record.

2. He bought a brand new straw hat in Chicago last Saturday night, paying a silver dollar for same.

Tonight every member of the Cub squad was decked out in brand new felt fedoras. All except Hack. The pudgy one said he would defy the committee until the pennant race is decided. He intimated, however, that he might relent after he socks his 50th homer.

Petrolle Opens Training for Stadium Bout

Fight Decisions

At Newark, N. J.—Jack Berg, England, beat Buster Brown, Baltimore [10].

Billy Petrolle, hard hitting lightweight from Fargo, N. D., long will be remembered in Chicago as the lad who stopped Jack [Kid] Berg at Mills stadium two years ago. Now, with a new list of knockouts, Petrolle comes back to the wars next Thursday night when he faces Tony Canzoneri at the Chicago Stadium.

The ten round bout may be so much dynamite to Canzoneri, for, if he loses, Petrolle may get Tony's chance against Al Singer in New York on Oct. 5.

Petrolle starts work this afternoon at the Arcade gymnasium. King Levinsky, who will meet Leo Lomski in the second half of the double windup, is training at the same gym. Lomski also is scheduled to begin drills this afternoon at Barry's gymnasium, while Canzoneri will arrive Saturday.

Mique Malloy yesterday announced he had signed Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, for his feature bout in the Stadium on Sept. 29. Mique is said to be seeking Paul Swiderski as Walker's opponent.

Alas, Poor Phillies; They Lose to Allentown, 7-5

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Bullet Joe Bush's Allentown Buffaloes of the Eastern league tonight defeated the Philadelphia National league club, 7 to 5, in the first night game played by the Phillies. The Phils collected 11 safe hits off the delivery of Eddie Pipgras, brother of the Yankee hurler.

Maier Stops Pantaleo in 2d Round at Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Inaugurating Milwaukee's indoor boxing season, Dave Maier, Milwaukee, tonight won a one sided fight from Paul Pantaleo, Chicago. In the second round the referee called the fight after Maier floored the Chicagoan six times.

BROADSIDE OF 6 RUNS IN SIXTH ROUTS BRUINS

Teachout Surrenders, Then Blake.

By losing to Pittsburgh yesterday while the Giants were dividing two games and the Cardinals and Robins were resting, the Cubs lost a half a game of their lead over each of those three teams. As a result the Giants are now only 3½ games behind the Cubs, the Cards 4½ and the Robins 5½.

If the Cubs break even in their remaining 22 games, the Giants would have to win 16 of their 23 games to win the pennant.

If the Cubs, however, continue to play at the pace which they have set for the season, and win 13 while losing 9, the Giants would have to win 18 while losing only 5 to pass Chicago.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 3.—There was a deafening explosion at Forbes field this afternoon during the sixth inning of the baseball game between the Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates. When the Cubs, their raiment in tatters, regained consciousness they discovered the Pirates had chased across six runs, the bulk of a 9 to 6 score by which the Pittsburghers thrashed the Chicagoans in the first game of the series.

WOODY ENGLISH.

Cubs Lead, Then Explode.

The blowup here was made especially gruesome because at the time the fuse was touched off the Cubs were leading by a score of 5 to 2 and the deceitful fifth place Pirates were showing definite symptoms of being in the doldrums.

We do not wish to be an unpleasant fellow, but we must plunge right into this devastating second half of the sixth inning.

Teachout was pitching. The convalescent Lloyd Waner, recovered to the point of being just as ornery as he was before he got sick, eased up for the only time in the game and rolled out to Blair. Comorosky then doubled along the left foul line and scored when Traynor singled to right.

Grantham Hits Double.

But when Grantham, who previously hadn't been able to get the ball past the pitcher's box, doubled to right and sent Traynor to third, Teachout was yanked and Blake went to the firing line. Bartell, first gent to face the Sheriff, grounded to English, and Traynor was out at the plate. Blake walked Suhr, filling the bases. Mosolf batted for Hemsley, and, after a count of three balls and two strikes, he walked, forcing in Grantham. Brame batted for Spencer and singled to center, scoring Bartell and Suhr. Mosolf stopping at second. Sankey ran for Brame and Nelson relieved Blake.

P. Waner singled to right, scoring Mosolf and putting Sankey on third. L. Waner, up the second time, singled to center, scoring Sankey and putting P. Waner on third. L. Waner took second on Wilson's throw to third. Comorosky, who started all the trouble, ended it by striking out.

The same clubs will clash again tomorrow and the Cubs, though discouraged by their flop today, took heart on hearing that the Giants had the heebie jeebies two runs worse than they did in the eighth inning of the

Washington Trails A's by 6½ Games.

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—With Bill Dickey showing the way the Yankees today scored their fourth victory over the Washington Senators in nineteen games this season, 10 to 7. Dickey clouted a home run and two triples and drove in six Yankee runs. The Senators are now 6½ games behind Philadelphia.

The Yanks got an early start against sad Sam Jones, who had not been defeated in New York since the Yanks sent him to Washington, and drove him from the mound in five innings. Burke held them hitless in the last three frames.

Southpaw Ed Wells, whose three defeats this season have been at the hands of the Senators, held Washington to five hits up to the ninth, with a homer by Dave Harris as the only run. He weakened in the final inning, and Washington scored six runs with two out. McEvoy retired the last man.

MACKS, 11; RED SOX, 4.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Outfielder Jim Moore, recruit from the Texas league, occupied the spotlight here today in the Athletics' 11 to 4 victory over the Boston Red Sox. Moore hit a double that cleared the bases of three runners in the third inning and he added a homer in the fourth.

Grove, although relieved after the sixth inning, in which Boston got to him for four runs, was credited with his 23d victory of the season. Jimmy Foxx hit his 33d homer of the year. Score:

Giants Split with Braves; Gain ½ Game

Boston, Mass., Sept. 3.—(AP)—After winning the first game of today's double header from the Braves, 5 to 3, the New York Giants lost an opportunity to gain materially in the National league pennant race as they fell victims to an eighth inning Boston rally and lost the second, 11 to 7. With the even break, the Giants gained only a half game on the defeated Cubs, instead of picking up a game and a half.

Home runs by Berger and Chatham, the first being Berger's 33d of the season, kept the Braves in the running through the early part of the second game although Boston errors provided several Giant runs. With the Giants in the lead, Boston drove Bill Walker from the mound in the eighth and continued their attack against Hub Pruett for eight tallies.

Critz's bad throw to Jackson on what looked like the start of a double play, allowed the first run to score and prolonged the inning while the Braves hammered in the rest. Scores:

Pirates' 6 Run Rally Defeats Cubs, 9 to 6

second New York-Boston contest. Guy Bush will pitch for the Cubs and will be opposed by Charley Wood.

The Cubs were possessed of excellent good fortune in both ends of the first inning. They were lucky to get their run in the first half and lucky the Pirates didn't make more than their one in the latter half of the inning, they having propelled two doubles and a single.

Comorosky obligingly muffed Blair's fly and Clarence pulled up at third before the ball was returned to the infield. English singled to right, scoring Blair, but Cuyler and Wilson fanned and D. Taylor tapped to Spencer.

Southern opened the Pirates' half with a double to left center. Lloyd Waner singled to center and Southern stopped at third after being injured coming into the base. Paul Waner entered the game and went to third to run for Southern. Paul scored while his brother was going down in a double play with Comorosky. Traynor doubled to right, but Grantham was thrown out by Teachout.

The Pirates took the lead in the third inning. After English had thrown out Spencer, P. Waner walked and scored when L. Waner tripled over Cuyler's head. Comorosky dumped the ball in front of the plate and was safe when Hartnett made a wide throw to first. L. Waner holding third. Traynor then hit into a double play, Bell to Blair to Kelly.

Cubs Take Lead In Fourth.

It was in the fourth that the Cubs took the lead. Bell started things with a single to right. Teachout fanned, but Blair singled to left, Bell stopping at second. English sent P. Waner to the wall to get his sacrifice fly, Bell going to third. Cuyler singled to center, scoring Bell, Blair stopping at second. Wilson singled to right, scoring Blair and putting Cuyler on third. D. Taylor filed to L. Waner.

The score became 5 to 2 in favor of the Cubs in the first half of sixth. Kelly beat out a slow roller toward third and went to third on Spencer's wild pitch. Hartnett singled to left, scoring Kelly. Bell was safe and Hartnett stopped at second when Grantham juggled Lester's grounder. Teachout forced Hartnett at third and Blair forced Teachout. Bell and Blair staged a double steal, Bell scoring.

Fan Gives a Hand to Cuyler and Hartnett

One fan gives the playing of the substitutes as the chief reason that the Cubs are leading the National league pennant race, while another admires Hartnett and Cuyler. What do you think about it? THE TRIBUNE invites you to express your ideas on the subject, by writing a letter of not more than 200 words to the sports editor. Here are two letters received yesterday:

"In my opinion the Cubs are leading the league because they are playing as a unit. They are working for a great owner, a smart manager [even though the second guessers are knocking], and are a well balanced team, as well as a well behaved set of men that never say quit.

"There are several reasons for their splendid showing, even though handicapped by death, injuries, etc.

"I will not point out any particular individuals, but they have in Hartnett the outstanding catcher in the National league and in Cuyler the greatest all around outfielder, base runner, and thrower of all time. Did you ever stop to consider how many runs he brings in with his steady batting and base stealing, and how many runs he prevents by his great throws to third or the home plate? As a team the Cubs have no superior.

"JOHN M. ROGERS,

SUBSTITUTES BOLSTER CUBS.

"The success of the Cubs' team is due to its substitutes—Taylor, Farrell, Blair, and Beck—who have helped the team a great deal. Another thing which has helped the Cubs is their spirit. When a .330 hitter is laid low, their captain hurt, the league's most dreaded left fielder is in poor condition, it is bound to be a blow to the team. However, with all these accidents, the Cubs are in first place.

"In a letter a few days ago the Cubs were referred to as hod carriers, truck drivers, etc. This shows plain ignorance. The fellow that wrote that must be a mere American league fan, somebody who is dumb and still foolish, thinking the Cubs are no good. With regards to Hezekiah O'Toole,

"H. J. M."

Reach Semi-Finals of Middle States Tennis

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Miss Virginia Hilleary of Philadelphia, defending her title in the middle states women's tennis tournament, today defeated Miss Cecelia Riegel of Philadelphia, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3, to advance to the semi-final round. Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Conn.; Eleanor Cottman, Baltimore, and Alice Francis, Orange, N. J., are the other semi-finalists. Miss Hilleary and Miss Francis will meet tomorrow in the upper bracket and Miss Andrus and Miss Cottman in the lower.

Flying Heels Wins 3 Horse Belmont Race

Belmont Race Track, N. Y., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Gifford A. Cochran's Flying Heels, 1 to 4 favorite, scored an easy victory in the Manhattan handicap, a mile gallop here today. Petee-Wrack was second and Caruso third and last.

The race was run over a muddy track and the time was 1:37 2-5. Out of the original eight carded to start five were withdrawn. Flying Heels was always the choice. The start was good. Flying Heels and Caruso ran head and head for seven furlongs.

At the top of the stretch Kelsay, on Flying Heels, carried Caruso wide and left him out in the middle of the track. Flying Heels then drew away to win by three lengths. Petee-Wrack, who was lengths back in the early part, closed with a rush and was second in the last stride. The race was worth $3,400.

NELSON, LIMA CHICAGO HOPES IN LONG SWIM

When Chicago swimmers try to win back the Thompson trophy in the 22d annual Illinois A. C. marathon swim Saturday, Cy Nelson, Lake Shore A. C. star, and Joe Lima of Great Lakes, will lead them.

Nelson, like his namesake from Iowa who won the Wrigley $10,000 swim in Toronto last week, is noted for his last minute rushes. In the Lake Shore two mile swim earlier in the summer, Lima led the race up to the last quarter mile, when Nelson drew along side, battling stroke for stroke to win out by a few feet.

Lima, who was second to Ray Ruddy last year, has had many years' experience in the I. A. C. swim.

HIKER RIDES IN WIGGINS' AUTO; THEN STEALS IT

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Charles F. [Chuck] Wiggins, Indianapolis heavyweight boxer, today asked Springfield police to help him recover his $3,000 automobile from a hitchhiker he picked up in California.

While driving out of Los Angeles, Wiggins and his wife were hailed by a "tourist" who gave his name as Joe Johnny Hinds of New York.

"The fellow was hungry," Wiggins said, "so I put him up at the hotels where we stopped."

The trio arrived in Springfield yesterday. Hinds asked Wiggins if he could use the car to go job hunting. Wiggins consented and he has not seen his car nor Hinds since.

Al Jolson Back in Racing Game as Owner of Kildare

New York, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Al Jolson, the comedian, once again is a horse owner. He broke away from racing two or three years ago, but he is back and more enthusiastic than ever. He bought Kildare at Belmont Park today from C. W. Leonard of the Newtondale stables for a price said to be $10,000.

MILLS vs. HOUSE OF DAVID.

Crete Win Inspires Pansy Walker to Try Lincoln Stake

Pansy Walker, daughter of Sir Gallahad III., which conquered all the western dash stars in the Crete handicap at Lincoln Fields Saturday, is not satisfied with just a sprint crown. She will step out Saturday in the $25,000 added Lincoln handicap and attempt to demonstrate that she is the best horse in the west at any distance. The rich Lincoln is at a mile and a furlong.

While Pansy was winning the Crete last Saturday Gallant Fox, illustrious son of Sir Gallahad III. was winning a Saratoga cup. About the time Pansy is striving to win the Lincoln handicap Gallant Fox will be running in the Lawrence Realization at Belmont Park.

Pansy will not find it easy to win the Lincoln. Among her opponents will be Brown Wisdom, My Dandy, Pigeon Hole, Islam, Lady Broadcast, Plucky Play, Paul Bunyan, Uncommon Gold, Victorian, Ululu, Galahad, Buddy Basil, Culloden, Blackwood, Reveille Boy, Ironsides, Martie Flynn, Harry Payne Whitney's Bezonian, and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Stars and Bars.

Mills and Michael Phipps for four periods apiece at No. 2.

Have Difficulty Scoring.

They were never threatened with defeat during the course of the match, but they had a good deal of difficulty scoring. Their attempts at team play often were broken up by aggressive and good back field play on the part of either Strawbridge or Rathborne, but almost as often by their own failure at picking up passes.

Gerry Balding was not very comfortable at No. 1 for most of the game, though he did show improvement before its close. Lieut. Guinness was not quite as sensational as he has been in the past two games, but he was a sound back and often a very good one. He continues to have real length to his hitting on both sides of his pony and Capt. Roark is able to leave the major share of the defense to him, though today the young lieutenant ventured forward once or twice on questionable chances. Lacey at No. 2 is able to give free rein to his individualist tendencies and has a very good time there. He did all sorts of things today, varying between clean misses to feats with a mallet that savored of sleight of hand.

Becker Finds Hints of Fall on Duck Hunt

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Au Sable Lake, Upper Illinois River, Sept. 3.—The startled squawk of fat mallard ducks, the cheery whistle of lesser yellowlegs on the mud flat, and a colorful landscape of purple Joe Pye weed, thistle flowers, golden rod, and scarlet thorn apples—this was the picture which greeted us this morning.

We were following the old Illinois-Michigan canal to visit a duck pond, where in former years we had succeeded in outwitting the teal, pintails, and mallards. Driving down the stony hill at Dresden Heights, we looked down the sloping pasture lands and meadows which today are sere and brown from the effect of the hot sun and lack of rain. Mourning doves sat on the telephone wires along the road and seemed to look rather sadly at the yellowing landscape and the noisy flocks of crackles, while a marsh hawk hunted hard for a meal in the tall grass nearby.

But once in the Illinois valley the scene changed quickly. The weed growth along the old canal, where the soil is always moist, has had no trouble in getting water, so the pheasants are happy. They have plenty of cover in which to feed and hide.

We plowed through some of the waste land jungles and found the weeds more than six feet high in certain places, with the deep purple flowers of the noxious common thistle winning the race for height.

On the broad, flat prairie field near our duck club, where in former years we had a number of low, marshy places for the jacksnipe, the ground is dry and dusty. We put Jack, our trained English springer spaniel, in this field and gave him the "hie on" signal to see what he could stir up. With the hunting season close at hand it was time for him to get a workout, reduce his figure, and tune up his signals.

We ordered him by hand signals into the low spots, but instead of water he found dust and, of course, no shore birds. The drought has taken all the water from the small swales. Startled meadow larks rose before the dog's vigorous combing of the weeds and grass, and at last we saw him strike game. He slowed down, nose to the ground and tail wagging faster. Then out of the grass rose a bunch of quail. The snipe grounds are quail cover in our meadow this fall.

CHICAGO STOCKS GET CONTRARY AND PRICES SLIP

Refuse to Get Excited Over Favorable News.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The stock market was in a contrary mood yesterday, showing little inclination to get excited about the bits of bullish news which were held out as bait to lure stocks to higher ground.

The weekly report on car loadings, which was made much of in financial circles, seemed to have little influence on dealings during the fore part of the day. The rather favorable report of steel operations made by Iron Age late in the day failed to turn the tide and the market slipped quietly lower.

Business on the Chicago exchange during the day was a pretty drab affair, with the monotony of narrow price movements unrelieved by any important changes. The trend was lower, with only a few issues escaping without minor losses.

Specialties were off a point or so in most cases. Electric Household was an exception, however, forging ahead again to close the day at 47¾. Majestic lost two points net to 51 after having touched 54 on early trading.

Merchants Is Quiet.

There was little activity in Merchants and Manufacturers to greet the statement by Arthur Greene, president of the company, that earnings for the fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30, will be about the same as in the preceding year. Last year the company earned net income of $271,183, which was equivalent to $1.57 a share on the 150,547 shares of class A stock then outstanding.

Swift issues were quiet. International was unchanged at 35 on light trade. Swift & Co. yesterday called for redemption all the outstanding 5 per cent notes due Oct. 15, 1932. Last month the company marketed a $30,000,000 issue of short term notes, the proceeds of which it was stated at that time would be used to retire the 5 per cent notes and for other corporation purposes. The notes are being redeemed at par plus accrued interest and ¾ of one per cent premium.

Auburn Drops Sharply.

Motor shares were almost uniformly lower. Auburn was the sharpest loser, dropping 5 points following the meeting of directors, at which the regular quarterly dividend on common stock was declared. The stock had a smart runup yesterday in anticipation of the meeting.

Utility shares as a group showed a firmer tone than the rest of the list. A few issues registered minor gains. Cities Service edged up a bare fraction. Reports from New York yesterday said that the company is still negotiating for the acquisition of the Louisiana Oil Refining company. No official confirmation for the reports was available.

STEEL MAKERS AGREE TO STOP PRICE CUTTING

BY O. A. MATHER.

The steel makers of America have decided to stop price cutting as the result of signs of improvement in the industry. This news, recorded in the midweek trade reviews, was the most cheerful development yesterday.

Furthermore, other commodity prices appear to be nearing the end of their long decline, as Bradstreet's monthly index showed a decline of only two-tenths of 1 per cent last month, with six groups of staples advancing, six declining and one unchanged.

"Steel ingot output, notwithstanding the rather general interruption of business during the Labor day weekend, has registered the third consecutive advance in as many weeks," the Iron Age says. "It now averages 55 per cent of capacity, compared with 54 per cent last week and 52 per cent three weeks ago.

"While the gains have been slight, they have encouraged leading independent sheet makers to make the first determined price stand in more than a year. Quotations announced by these mills eliminate recent minimum figures and will apply particularly on September business. The advance reflects recognition of the growing interest in future requirements manifested by buyers in the last two weeks.

Consensus of the Trade.

"Doubtless this move and others reported to be in contemplation are calculated to help replace the depression psychosis with a spirit of confidence. It is the consensus that the trend of trade this month will largely determine the fortunes of the steel industry for the remainder of the year and that even mild seasonal recovery will do much to put business on a firmer basis and lead the way to sustained improvement early in 1931.

"Until a more definite trend is apparent, reference must be made to such straws as are available. Pig iron shipments at Chicago in August showed a gain of 20 per cent over July, while certain Cleveland producers report an increase of 25 per cent. Improvement in orders for both alloy steel bars and carbon bars points to moderate expansion in automobile production. New inquiries for fabricated structural steel are the lagest cated structural steel are the largest plate production has risen to 70 per cent of capacity. Scrap markets have held their recent gains."

In view of these factors, the fact that pig iron production receded 4.3 per cent last month and reached the lowest daily rate since October, 1924, is regarded as water over the dam. August output was 2,526,500 tons, or a daily rate of 81,500 tons, compared with July output of 2,639,537 tons, or a daily rate of 85,416 tons.

Expresses Confidence.

Confidence that an excellent bond market may be expected this autumn is expressed in the monthly review of Lawrence Stern & Co., investment bankers. This conclusion is based on reports from investment dealers throughout the country. Stock market indications, however, are less clear but it is stated that the restricted volume of new offerings, combined with a small volume of trading, has created a technical situation where any definite upturn in general business conditions should be reflected quickly in stock prices.

New security offerings in August totaled only $351,256,438, the smallest volume for any month this year. The total was only about 60 per cent of the July aggregate of $605,168,317 and only about 55 per cent of the August, 1929, total of $625,054,067. The major part of last month's decline was due to a loss of about 55 per cent in the volume of new bond offerings. Stock offerings registered a 32 per cent increase over July, due to the fact that $75,000,000 in stock financing was offered in August in the form of rights to stockholders, which was augmented by two exceptionally large offerings.

Bond offerings last month totaled $250,143,258, compared with $528,426,000 in July and $199,508,337 in August, 1929.

Paints Waterway as Boon to State Mineral Interests

BY SCRUTATOR.

Completion of the Illinois waterway may be expected to act beneficially for the interests owning the mineral resources of central and northern Illinois.

Chicagoans generally are little aware of the mineral wealth that is available along this route. Sand, clay, coal, limestone for building, for crushing and for cement making, and extensive gravel deposits are being worked there for an output valued at many million dollars. There are, according to Dr. M. M. Leighton, chief of the state geological survey, eleven large coal mines in operation now which probably can use the waterway for economical shipping.

Dr. Leighton, who is making a special exhibition of Illinois resources in the headquarters of the Western Society of Engineers, has two parties of field workers making a survey of the entire waterway route to determine not only what industries already existing will use barge transportation, but also those which may be developed.

Quarries Line Whole Route.

In the La Salle district only two mines are now being commercially worked, Dr. Leighton pointed out. The thin coal seam there may be mined more extensively if lower transportation charges to the Chicago market result from water transportation.

Limestone quarries are to be found in abundance along the whole route from Chicago to Joliet. This district, with Kankakee, produces 78 per cent of the state's output, valued at more than eight million dollars. There are two clay mines near Morris, two south of La Salle and one at Peoria, each producing a type of clay having special uses.

Ottawa is easily the center for the entire middle west in the production of high silica sand suitable for making plate glass. Several automobile companies are said to be considering the location of plants there. There are three large cement plants also at Ottawa, and with Chicago and its suburban area an important consumer there should be many thousands of barrels of freight ready there.

Many Ceramics Plants.

Ceramics plants, converting clay into usable goods, are being operated at Joliet, Peoria, Morris, Marseilles, Ottawa, La Salle and other cities adjacent to the new traffic lane. Gravel pits are being worked from Joliet to Peoria and Pekin.

New markets may develop for all these mineral products when attention is directed toward them. The state geological survey has discovered that there are some excellent building stones, suitable for interiors and taking a high polish, in the Illinois valley. It has found stone suitable for conversion into mineral wool, a substance having many of the uses of asbestos.

The state produces cement to a total value of $12,000,000 annually, gravel to a total of $8,000,000 and sand to $5,000,000. Just how much of this comes from the shipping territory adjacent to the waterway is not definitely settled. The survey will not be completed until next summer, and Dr. Leighton and his associates will not disclose any figures until then. They have gone far enough to substantiate the belief that minerals will furnish a heavy traffic.

BOND MART ACQUIRES RENEWED VIGOR; RAIL GROUP AT NEW PEAK

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The bond market acquired renewed vigor today, especially in the rail group, whose average price moved to a new high on steady accumulation of the highest grade issues. Other sections were quiet but firm.

A feature of the session, which saw a volume of business about equal to yesterday's, was a stiffening of prices on several parts of the Latin-American group, based apparently on the receipt of better news regarding the political situations in those republics. Argentine listings advanced a point, while Buenos Aires 6s rose nearly 3. Bonds of Chile and Brazil were mostly firm, but Colombians sagged on small offerings. Sao Paulo State 7s of 1956 sank 9½ points to a new low, while the 6s improved 4. Rio Grande do Sul 8s advanced 1. Mexican obligations continued to move up, although buying was only moderate.

A dozen rails touched new highs for the year. There was a tendency, especially in the later dealings, to extend the demand to the secondary issues of this group, but most of the business was done in the better liens.

Many Companies Announce Cuts in Dividend Rates

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 3.—As a result of the decline in copper prices tending to reduce earnings of copper producers, directors of two leading companies decided today to conserve cash for the time being by reducing dividends on their respective stock issues.

The Kennecott Copper company announced a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the capital stock, placing it on a $2 annual basis, compared with the $3 annual rate established in the previous quarter, which represented a reduction from the $5 rate paid before the June cut.

Nevada Consolidated Copper, a subsidiary of Kennecott, decided to reduce the quarterly dividend to 25 cents a share from 37½ cents previously. The new rate is equal to $1, compared with $1.50 established at the preceding meeting and with $3 a year paid prior to that time. Utah Copper, another subsidiary, declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share.

Bohn Brass Cuts Rate.

Directors of the Bohn Aluminum and Brass company voted a quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share, placing the stock on a $1.50 basis. Previously the quarterly rate had been 75 cents, or $3 annually.

The Glidden company reduced the dividend on its common stock to 30 cents quarterly, or $1.20 a share annually, from the previous rate of 50 cents, or $2 a year. Adrian D. Joyce, president, reported that, notwithstanding adverse conditions existing during July and August, the company's sales are still ahead of last year. The company, he intimated, is in splendid financial condition, with ratio of current assets to current liabilities of 12½ to 1.

Spencer Kellogg & Sons declared a quarterly payment of 20 cents, establishing an 80 cent annual basis, against $1.60 previously. The dividend is payable Sept. 30 to stock of record Sept. 15.

"Volume of business in all of the company's lines has been reduced and consequently earnings are unsatisfactory," Howard Kellogg, president, said. "As it is not possible to foretell how long the present general condition may continue, it seemed the part of wisdom to make a reduction at this time."

National Tea Slices Dividend.

Directors of the National Tea company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis. Previously $2 a year was paid.

Directors of the Maytag company reduced the annual basis of the common stock to $1 from $1.50 by declaring a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 15.

Directors of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada declared an extra dividend of $2.50 on the common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly disbursements of $1.25 on the common and $1.75 on the preferred. On Oct. 1 last year the company paid an extra of $5 and on Oct. 1, 1928, an extra of $1 was paid.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 3.—Wall street's stock speculative community continued its policy of watchful waiting today. Everybody professes to believe that better times are just around the corner, but just when they will burst into the picture is the problem. Pending that blessed event all hands are treading cautiously and keeping a stout hand on the old hip pocket wallet.

The pace of trading seems to slow up anew every day. Today it almost came to a standstill, only 1,744,520 shares changing hands. Modest little declines and rallies followed one another with monotonous regularity, the one running up its fractional gains and the other wiping them out and substituting fractional losses.

Mere child's play it all seemed as compared with the roaring affairs that fairly took the country's breath away in the big bull market of last year and the crash which ended it along in the fall.

No Alarm Felt.

The bear element won the last inning of today's session, with the result that the score sheet going into the overnight record carried a preponderance of minus signs. Some of the losses were quite sharp, too, considering the listless character of the trading. Case Threshing Machine, for instance, showed a drop of 6¼ points, Diamond Match went down 5⅝, Eastman Kodak 4½, Johns-Manville 3⅝, Columbian Carbon 4, American Tobac-

DENNEY POINTS TO OCCASIONAL LOADINGS GAIN

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—C. E. Denney, president of the Erie railroad, said today that one of the definite signs of real improvement in business is that the road's daily car loadings are showing occasional improvement over corresponding days last year.

C. E. DENNEY. [Blank & Stoller Photo.]

"There is no weekly improvement as yet," he said, "but whereas we have been showing daily decreases in car loadings of from 10 to 13 per cent, this figure is now occasionally reduced to 2 per cent and occasionally we are able to show daily loadings of one or two cars over last year."

American Colortype Co. Acquires New York Firm

Officials of the American Colortype company of Chicago announced yesterday that the firm has acquired Samuel Gabriel Sons & Co. of New York. The latter firm publishes juvenile books and printed toys and novelties.

LOANS TO STOCK MART MEMBERS OFF $90,849,228

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Collateral loans to members of the New York Stock exchange decreased $90,849,228 during August to a total of $3,598,633,069 on Aug. 29, the New York Stock exchange reported today. On Aug. 30 last year the loans totaled $7,881,619,426.

The high figure for stock exchange brokerage loans came on Sept. 30, of last year, when they totaled $8,549,583,979. The low since these figures were reported was registered on May 1, 1926, when they aggregated $2,767,400,514.

Chicago Lloyds Reports Gain in Premiums Written

Chicago Lloyds' report for the six months ending June 30, 1930, shows a gain in premiums written of 21.86 per cent over the corresponding period of 1929. Total assets also show a gain over Dec. 31, 1929, being $3,303,843.01 on June 30, 1930. Earnings for the period were comparable with those of the first half of last year.

Vote Favors Compulsory Canadian Grain Pooling

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Saskatchewan wheat pool officials announced today that their membership had voted in favor of compulsory 100 per cent pooling of grain. It is said here that the entire farm population of Saskatchewan would have to vote for the plan before it could be enforced.

UNCLE SAM'S WAR DEBT CUT MORE THAN 1-3

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—(AP)—America's gigantic war debt of $26,596,701,000 has been reduced by more than one-third in eleven years since the debt reached its peak on Aug. 31, 1919.

The treasury statement today showed the public debt on Aug. 31 this year to total $16,187,636,000. This was a slight increase over a month ago but this situation resulted from delay in applying the sinking fund to the retirement, it was said, and is only temporary.

During the first ten year after the world war the debt was slashed by more than one billion annually. This was accomplished through the regular sinking fund appropriation and the application of the annual surpluses amounting to almost $500,000,000 each year.

PULLMAN NET FOR JULY SHOWS BIG SHRINKAGE

Net earnings of the Pullman company in July were less than half those of the same month in 1929 it was shown in the monthly report filed yesterday with the Interstate commerce commission in Washington and made public at the company's headquarters.

July gross in 1930 was $6,485,070 as compared with $7,229,904 in July, 1929. Net after taxes, July, 1930, was $502,074, against $1,032,493 in the same month last year.

The company reported a seven months' gross of $45,891,234 for 1930, as compared with $47,945,524 for the first 7 months of 1929. Net after taxes for the same periods was $8,133,113 in 1930, and $5,219,929 in 1929.

BRITISH CO-OP OFFICIAL GIVES CHICAGO PRAISE

James A. Hewett of Manchester, England, an official of the Coöperative Wholesale society, arrived in Chicago from Canada yesterday for his first visit to America. He is the guest of J. F. Whitney, president of the Kraft-Phenix corporation.

"In Manchester we have heard some unkind remarks about your city," Mr. Hewett said, "but you may be sure that when I get back I am going to contradict them."

The coöperative society with which Mr. Hewett is connected does a business of £240,000,000 (about $1,200,000,000) annually. The retail division, which owns the wholesale unit, feeds 16,000,000 persons daily.

THE MODERN METHOD OF COMMON STOCK INVESTMENT

THE majority of American investors believe in common stock investments. They know that common stocks are a favorite investment medium of the country's great capitalists, and that diversified lists of common stocks are held by most of the nation's great estates.

However, it has been proved by experience that the best results from buying common shares are only achieved by those who can purchase a broadly diversified selection of the highest grade stocks. Through such diversification, any possible decline in the market price of one stock should be offset by increases in the value of others, and the law of averages works for the protection of the investor.

The modern, scientific method of gaining the beneficial results of broad diversification in buying common stocks is provided by Standard American Trust Shares—a fixed trust of the capital accumulation type. Under this plan any investor can buy an interest in a trust deposit comprising the twenty-five high-grade stocks listed at the right.

Planning a Will . . .

Like Planning A Home

Naturally, when you plan a home, you consult an architect. You give him your ideas and ask him to incorporate them in a practical, modern plan. If you are so inclined, you will discuss the details with him, down to the placing of the sink in the kitchen.

You will agree that planning the eventual distribution of your estate is even more important than the planning of a new home. Certainly you need the counsel of specialists. You can get it—without cost or obligation—from our trust officers. An appointment—at your convenience—can quickly be arranged. 'Phone Franklin 7400.

Make a will! Review it at least once each year.

It is of primary importance that you consult your attorney when putting your will in final form.

AUDITOR ADMITS INCORRECT STEEL MERGER FIGURES

Youngstown, O., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Testimony that the Price Waterhouse audit used in the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with Bethlehem Steel corporation incorrectly stated Youngstown's maintenance and depreciation charges, was read into the record of the injunction suit against the merger today.

George O. May, senior partner of Price Waterhouse, admitted under cross-examination that the "defendant's exhibit five" a set of figures loaned to the Youngstown directors in their consideration of the merger, quoted Sheet and Tube's maintenance account at $9,900,000, when it should have been $13,500,000.

May also made a quick calculation at the request of Attorney Clan Crawford of plaintiffs, counsel, and found that by using the higher maintenance figure Youngstown's charge per ton of finished products for maintenance and depreciation on a comparative basis with Bethlehem would be $7.70 instead of $5.39.

WALL STREET IS KEEPING HAND ON ITS HIP POCKET

However, nobody was moved to view the development with alarm, knowing that it merely represented a temporary advantage gained by one of the two professional factions which have for so long had the market all to themselves. The bulls have been carrying off the honors pretty regularly here of late, prices having advanced on the average in twelve out of the last sixteen sessions preceding today's and by the law of averages the opposing forces were entitled to the big end of today's deal.

Obviously the day's news developments, which were a mite more cheerful, including such items as a carloadings report, which showed another increase over the immediately preceding week, and the steel trade journal review, which were moved to stress the more hopeful aspects of the situation as it develops in that industry, cut no ice at all in the market operations.

Just how completely they were ignored was shown by the action of Kennecott Copper which actually advanced a fraction of a point following the action of the company directors in reducing the common stock dividend 2 per cent. News of other similar dividend actions had no more influence.

Leaders Slip Off.

The recognized leaders of the market did nothing particularly noteworthy in either direction. They were generally higher most of the day but slid off toward the last and the close found American Can off 1⅝, General Electric with a loss of a point, General Motors down ⅝, Consolidated Gas off 1¼, New York Central off 2¼, U. S. Steel down 2, and Standard Oil of New Jersey off ⅞.

Groups to feel the strongest pressure were the utilities, rubbers and motors.

With the exception of three or four of the seasoned dividend payers, nobody gave the rails a tumble.

Baking Stocks Rise.

A special feature of the day was a sharp rise in the stocks of baking companies, particularly Ward, the A stocks of which soared some 12 points before profit taking appeared to stop its advance. This stock is classed as an inactive issue, but it was more than active today. Ward preferred rose nearly 7 points while gains ranging from fractions to a point occurred in the Continental Baking issues.

Of almost equal interest was a fresh burst of strength displayed by Bethlehem Steel. Ordinarily Bethlehem moves within a narrow range, but today it was in demand from the start and the closing sale reflected a net gain of more than 2 points. In well-informed circles the opinion was expressed that the buying was based mainly on the assumption that the litigation now in progress would be satisfactorily settled and the way paved for the closing of the Youngstown merger deal.

OFFICE OF THE ARCHITECT OF THE CAPITOL, Washington, D. C., September 2, 1930. SEALED BIDS will be opened in this office at 3 P. M., October 28, 1930, for the construction of the new office building for the House of Representatives, to be built on Square 689, Washington, D. C. The building, as designed, will occupy a site containing approximately 90,000 sq. ft., ten stories high including the sub-basement; fireproof construction, with stone facing. On or after October 8, 1930, drawings and specifications, not exceeding three sets, may be obtained at the Office of the Architect of the Capitol, in the discretion of said Architect or any satisfactory general contractor. A deposit of one hundred dollars ($100) will be required for each set of drawings and specifications loaned, the same to be returned in good condition. Checks therefor to be made payable to the order of David Lynn, Architect of the Capitol.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw easier today under increased offerings of duty free sugar. Refiners confirmed about 81,000 bags of Philippines and 72,000 bags of Porto Rican at 3.16c and 3.21c respectively, the bulk of the business being at 3.16c, with the market closing at the latter figure. Except for a little steadiness at the outset raw futures were easier under liquidation and selling of distant positions by houses with Cuban connections, promoted by the easier trend in the spot market and reports that Java was making concessions on sales of sugar to the far east in competition with Cuban sugar. BULLISH NEWS FAILS TO HALT WHEAT SELLING

Wheat and Corn Prices Dip at Market Close.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bullish news seemingly has little effect on the wheat market, and while there was a small advance at one time yesterday the upturn brought in hedging sales and also local and commission house pressure. As a result all deliveries declined to a new low on the crop, with the finish at net losses of ⅛@⅞c. September touched 82¼c on the break and closed at that price to ⅛c over, while December was 88⅛@88⅜c and May 95¼@95⅝c.

Importing countries of the world need 100,000,000 bu more wheat during the 1930-'31 season than last year, according to Broomhall, who expects that 736,000,000 bu will be required, of which Europe will probably take 608,000,000 bu, against 492,000,000 bu last year. He expects the United States will ship 144,000,000 bu, against 156,000,000 bu the previous year, and Canada 240,000,000 bu, or 32,000,000 in excess of 1929-'30.

If estimates as to the probable amount of wheat fed to live stock are correct, bread, feed and seed requirements this season should be around 750,000,000 bu, and there will be 125,000,000 bu necessary for carryover, a total of 875,000,000 bu accounted for out of an available supply of 1,110,000,000 bu, leaving 235,000,000 bu for export. The carryover on this basis on July 1, 1931, would be around 200,000,000 bu, or about 75,000,000 bu less than the amount on hand at the beginning of the season.

The trade need have no fears of the stabilization corporation unloading its stock of 60,000,000 bu cash wheat on the market at prevailing prices, according to a statement issued by George S. Milnor, president of the corporation. Any wheat sold for drought relief or other purposes will be replaced by purchases in the open market, and its holdings will be maintained at the present size unless the market advances to its cost price. The trade figures that the latter is about 37c per bu above the prevailing level.

Lowers Estimate on Crop.

Nat C. Murray, in a summary of the northern hemisphere wheat situation, lowered his estimates on the aggregate crop about 50,000,000 bu as compared with a month ago, making the total, exclusive of Russia, China and several unimportant countries, 3,025,000,000 bu, against 3,064,000,000 bu last year. He figures the world's carryover is about 100,000,000 bu less than the previous season.

Estimates on the amount of wheat that will be fed on farms in the United States must be based upon average relative prices of feeds for the season, according to R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Bros. & Co. statistician. If the present relative difference were maintained we might feed our entire surplus wheat, he says. A minimum estimate for feeding, in his opinion, would be around 100,000,000 bu.

There was a moderate export demand at the seaboard, with sales of 750,000 bu in all positions, largely Manitobas. Winnipeg was weak and ⅜@1¼c lower, while Liverpool was off ¼@⅛d, short covering being a factor in the latter market.

Forecast for Light Frost.

Forecast for light frost in northern Iowa and parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin led to some buying of corn futures, but trade was not large and the market eased toward the last with wheat, and closed ⅝@⅞c lower. September finished at 97¾c; December, 92⅞@93c; and May, 97¼@97½c.

There was buying of corn against sales of wheat by spreaders, and also the reverse. E. H. Miller, the J. E. Bennett & Co. statistician, estimated the crop at 2,016,000,000 bu, against 2,614,000,000 bu last year, and raised the average of the reports of the five local statisticians to 1,961,000,000 bu. Improvement in the crop was reported in Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, South Dakota, and Nebraska during the last month. Shipping demand was fair with sales of 75,000 bu, while the spot basis was steady to ¼c higher.

Local Longs Sell Oats.

Weakness in wheat led to selling of oats by local longs, but the market received good support and the finish was ¼c lower to ¼c higher. September closed at 39¼c and December at 43c. The Searle Grain company of Winnipeg estimates the crop of the three Canadian provinces at 300,000,000 bu, compared with 142,000,000 bu harvested last year and 298,000,000 bu in 1928.

Around 1,000,000 bu cash rye will be brought to Chicago from Duluth by local cash handlers. The grain is coming here for storage purposes. A little No. 2 rye sold from store at 60¼c, or 3c over September f. o. b. cars. Trading in futures was fair, but the undertone easy with wheat, and the finish was 1¼@1⅝c lower, September being 55⅝c and December 60¾@61c.

NEW YORK EDISON ORDER.

The New York Edison system has placed an order with the American Engineering company for eight underfeed stokers costing approximately $500,000 for installation in a Brooklyn [N. Y.] Edison company plant.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

European buyers showed more interest in Manitoba wheats yesterday and sales in all positions were estimated at 750,000 bu or more. France was reported as a buyer of Winnipeg. A little hard winter was taken at the gulf with No. 1 hard for first half September quoted at 7⅛c over Chicago September and last half at 8⅛c over. Deliveries on September contracts here were 1,714,000 bu wheat, 168,000 bu oats and 562,000 bu rye.

There was a moderate demand for cash wheat at Chicago with mills taking 33,000 bu, and sales of 85,000 bu were made to go to store. Offerings in the sample market were small and the basis firm. Premiums as compared with September follow: No. 1 red, 3@2¾c; No. 2 red, 2¾@3c; No. 1 hard, 1⅛@2¼c; No. 2 hard, 1⅛@1¾c; No. 1 northern, 1½@2¼c; No. 2 northern, 1@1¾c.

LARD STOCKS REDUCED

Stocks of lard at leading western packing points on Aug. 30 were 63,615,117 lbs, a reduction last month of 21,011,605 lbs. compared with a loss last year of 15,054,146 lbs, when stocks were 128,139,105 lbs. Two years ago they were 142,955,815 lbs.

Meat stocks decreased 26,746,642 lbs, against 24,493,066 lbs last year and 46,179,487 lbs two years ago. With the exception of 1928 the reduction last month was the heaviest since 1924, when stocks were cut down 47,530,000 lbs. Total stocks this year are 205,487,337 lbs, against 279,416,598 lbs last year.

The showing on stocks of lard and meats was considered bullish by the trade yesterday and was taken as especially significant, as the trade is larger than a year ago, and there is a concentrated holding in the deferred futures, which have been sold by packers and cash interests. At the same time they have bought the nearby deliveries. Liverpool lard was 6d to 1s higher. Export clearances were 1,300,625 lbs, and of bacon 311,500 lbs. Hog prices were 15@25c lower at the last, with receipts larger than a week ago, but 10,000 less than last year at the western packing points. Cash trade was fair. Prices follow:

SHORTS BUY COTTON

Shorts were active yesterday in buying cotton, which, combined with purchases by foreign interests, made a stronger market after an early bulge and break. The close, however, was around intermediate prices. There were gains of 9 to 19 points on futures in Chicago and 11 to 29 points in other markets. The spot market was up 10 points, with New York 11.40c; New Orleans, 10.90c; Galveston, 11.05c and Houston, 11c. Liverpool was up 2 to 3 points with spot sales of 4,000 bales.

Early buying and the upturn in prices was on an estimated condition of 55.9 with a yield of 12,932,144 bales. There is said to be numerous other estimates out, all showing a wide range.

New York cotton exchange service reports some improvement in demand for cotton goods and says that stocks in the mills have probably shown a very slight reduction during the last week and are still relatively large.

The government's weekly weather crop report said the week was generally fair, except in the Mississippi valley, with soil again becoming dry and in most western parts there have been recent rains. Prices follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS

Butter futures held virtually steady on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, news of both bullish and bearish tone working to keep the deliveries within a narrow price range. November closed at 40¼@40¼c, steady to ¼c higher. December closing at 40½c, off ¼c. Egg futures also held steady, November closing at 28¼c, unchanged from the previous close. November butter opened firm and advanced fractionally, supported by short covering and new buying. Selling pressure entered at midsession, however, and the gain was lost. The 20 offers reported 2,400,000 pounds more removed during the last week of August than in the same period last year. Sales: Butter—November, 94 cars; December, 6 cars. Eggs—November, 116 cars. Receipts—Butter, 13,923 tubs; eggs, 13,610 cases. Prices follow:

MEN, LIVING
NORTH SIDE CHICAGO
ROCKFORD, PEORIA,
OR VICINITY.

Waiting list will soon be established for applicants seeking position with a large international organization. These lists already exist in many of the 40 countries in which we operate over 600 branch offices. We are just commencing operations in the United States and our expansion program calls for about forty men in the Illinois territory alone.

These men will be assured of a splendid income and a remarkable future with a financially strong, old company. Inasmuch as we are the only one in our particular field, we cannot get experienced men, and the qualifications are loyalty, intelligence, and aggressiveness.

If you are selected you will be expected to start at once by attending factory branch school.

GOOD TIMES ARE COMING!
BUY YOUR USED CAR WHILE PRICES ARE STILL LOW

STUDEBAKER'S CARS ARE HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS UNDER COMPETITIVE PRICES

Our famous Studebaker Used Car Pledge allows you 5 days' free driving trial no matter what you buy.

CHEVROLET SEDAN. Traded in at a very low figure, so we'll pass on the saving to you. In splendid condition throughout. New extras. $95.

REO COUPE. Positively the best Reo buy in Chicago. It's a chummy, fine performing car that runs like clockwork. $95.

PACKARD SEDAN. Here is an expensive car at an inexpensive price. Was chauffeur driven, so it's in topnotch condition now. Has a wealth of extras. $195.

PAIGE SEDAN. It's a remarkable buy at our special low price. The finish, upholstery, and tires are in dandy condition; 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $245.

NASH SEDAN. 1927 Adv. 6. The appearance of this Nash is very pleasing. Motor was checked over and now it's okay in every respect; 4 whl. brakes and many extras. $295.

HUPMOBILE S ROADSTER. This low slung car is in exceptionally fine condition, has rumble seat, 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $295.

ERSKINE SEDAN. 1929 that was oiled and greased every 500 miles, so it's in wonderful condition now. Appearance is very attractive and the equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $395.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. 1928 Commander. Regal model. The motor runs as smooth as silk and the appearance is very smart; 4 whl. brakes and many extras, $395.

LINCOLN SEDAN. 5 pass. that's lacquered an attractive olive green. Equipped with 6 wheels, two spare tires, driving light, shock absorbers, opera seats, etc. This car was taken in on consignment, and when it is sold the owner will finance you on a new studebaker 8. We are anxious to dispose of it at once, so we priced it as low as this for quick sale. $585.

BUICK SEDAN. 1928 Master. 6, with brand new tires and $200 worth of extra equipment. This car cost almost $2,500 when new, and it's in the original new condition today. Finished in attractive color, with good looking upholstery to match. $650.

DODGE SEDAN. 1930 that's positively 100% throughout. It was only traded in because the owner desired a larger car. Will give new car satisfaction today. $725.

AUBURN CONV. SEDAN. 1929 eight with collapsible top, wire wheels, fender wells and driving lights, etc. It's the last word for beautiful appearance and spirited performance. $795.

CADILLAC PHAETON. A late model 314 finished a chocolate brown. Has wire wheels, fender wells, tonneau windshield, and 6 practically new tires. This is undoubtedly the snappiest looking and best performing open car offered in Chicago. $850.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. 1930 Commander with wire wheels, fender wells, and a dozen valuable extras. Only driven a few months and now it carries a 30 day free service guarantee. $895.

FORD FORDOR SEDAN. One of the very latest models that will satisfy the most exacting buyer. In appearance and performance you might think this Ford was direct from the factory. Very fully equipped throughout unusually low.
